India-Pakistan War

Tough UN Action Threatened: Thant

We'll Fight India Tells Chinese

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—India warned Peking today that it would fight back if China attacked.

Prime Minister Shastri told a cheering Parliament: "If we are attacked, we shall fight for our freedom with grim determination."

Shastri spoke to Parliament after China earlier today delivered a three-day ultimatum to India to dismantle its military installations in the Indian protectorate of Sikkim, which borders China.

The prime minister announced that India had told China it was willing for a joint inspection of military structures on the Sikkim-Tibet border which China alleges are in its territory.

In a blunt note, the Chinese threatened India with "grave consequences" unless India withdraws within three days from a Tibet-Sikkim border area claimed by China.

The note did not specify what the consequences would be. But China struck at India in a border dispute in 1962 and the Indian army suffered a setback in heavy fighting.

A few hours after China broadcast its ultimatum, Indian officials displayed a new reluctance to even speculate on whether the war against Pakistan could still be pursued with what Prime Minister Shastri Wednesday called "unabated vigour."

A state department spokesman said in Washington the United States is very concerned over the possible extension of the India-Pakistan war.

Last Monday, State Secretary Dean Rusk said China should stay out of the India-Pakistan conflict and let the UN Security Council settle it.

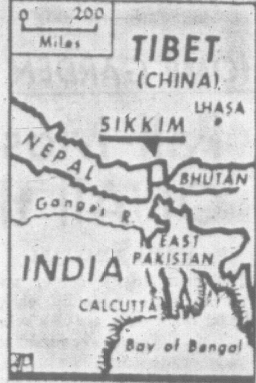

Two days later a direct warning against intervention was reported to have been given to China at a meeting of U.S. and Chinese ambassadors in Warsaw.

Diplomats at United Nations headquarters in New York expressed belief that China would cross the border unless India backs down. One delegate said the Chinese, having announced a time limit, would lose face if they did not follow through.

The Chinese warning underlined the need for India to split forces, keeping hundreds of thousands of men tied down in the Himalayan Mountains on the northern frontier while at the same time trying to strike in the blows at Pakistan on battlefields more than 1,000 miles to the west.

London and Washington also expressed concern at the Chinese note. Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart of Britain told:

WIRE BRIEFS

Legal Action Threat

PRINCE GEORGE (CP)—The New Democratic Party has threatened legal action over destruction of a campaign rally sign near the provincial jail here.

The party says it was torn down by Warden H. B. Bjarnson and in a telegram to Attorney-General Robert Bonner demands "adequate settlement" for the damage within 24 hours.

12 Miners Trapped

GERMISTON, South Africa (AP)—Twelve gold miners were reported trapped today more than 5,000 feet under ground in the world's deepest gold mine near Germiston.

36,450 Drafted

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The defence department today issued a draft call for the induction of 36,450 men into the army, navy and marine corps during November as part of the Viet Nam build-up.

Airman Questioned

BONN (Reuters)—LAC Edward Zeissman, 28, of the RCAF was questioned today by West German police at Zweibrücken in connection with the suffocation deaths of his wife and two daughters.

Tracy Improved

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—Veteran actor Spencer Tracy was removed from the critical list today. Tracy, 65, took a bad turn Thursday following major surgery, Sept. 4. Doctors said he had shown slight improvement.

Constituency Set

Iraq Coup Crushed

CAIRO (Reuters)—Tanks led by Maj.-Gen. Abdel Rahman Aref, chief of the Iraqi general staff, have crushed an attempted pro-Nasser coup by rebel officers in Baghdad, reliable sources here said today.

3 Escapers Sought

VANCOUVER (CP)—Police throughout the British Columbia lower mainland and the northern United States were alerted today to watch for three escaped prisoners from the Vancouver city jail. Police said the three, one an appeal court prisoner and the other two juveniles who had just been transferred to adult court, escaped at about 10 p.m. Thursday.

Peace Force If Necessary

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—United Nations Secretary-General U Thant proposed today that the UN Security Council issue a binding order for an Indian-Pakistani ceasefire and that the order be backed by the threat of penalties if the two governments fail to comply.

He also suggested that the council request the heads of the Indian and Pakistani governments to hold peace talks in a third country, with the assistance of a UN committee.

Only once in the 20-year history of the UN has the council authorized the possible use of economic and military sanctions. This was in the war between Israel and the Arab countries in 1948.

Thant proposed that the council declare that failure to comply with a new ceasefire order would demonstrate the existence of a breach of peace within the meaning of Article 39 of the UN charter. This article says that if a breach of peace exists the council shall decide what measures should be taken either in the field of economic boycotts or by actual use of air, sea and land forces to obtain compliance.

Thant delivered his personal report to the 11-country council 24 hours after his return from an unsuccessful effort to halt the fighting. He made no mention of the new complication resulting from China's ultimatum, demanding withdrawal of Indian forces from the Chinese border within three days.

Indian Education Minister Mahomedali Currim Chagla, speaking after Thant, referred briefly to the Chinese threat.

"We are now threatened by invasion from China," he declared, adding that Pakistan is using U.S.-supplied munitions against India instead of for defence against the Chinese.

He charged that Pakistan "wants China to stab us in the back."

No Deal: Pakistan

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP)—President Mohammed Ayub Khan today threw cold water on a suggestion by UN Secretary-General U Thant that Ayub meet with Indian Prime Minister Shastri in an effort to resolve the war between their countries.

Ayub's reply, released in Rawalpindi, again stated Pakistan's demand that guarantees must be made of a "final settlement of the Kashmir dispute" before there can be a ceasefire.

ceasefire and declared that the situation was so grave it threatens world peace.

It would be inconceivable, he said, for the council to wash its hands of the issue despite his failure.

Five-Point Approach Proposed

He then outlined a five-point approach which the council might now take:

- Issue a binding order for a cessation of hostilities, declaring that if either party fails to comply the penalty provisions of the charter would come into effect. This would bring into play the rarely used chapter seven which applies only when the council formally recognizes the existence of a breach of peace.
- Offer assistance of the United Nations in ensuring observance of a ceasefire.

● Call for a prompt withdrawal of troops to positions held before the current outbreak of fighting Aug. 5.

● Request the heads of the two governments to meet in a country friendly and acceptable to both, and make available a small committee to assist in the talks.

● Make possible use of the Continued on Page 11

Engineers to Raise Barge of Chlorine

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Army engineers started making plans today to raise a barge containing lethal chlorine from the bottom of the muddy Mississippi River. It sank during hurricane Betsy a week ago.

"The barge is safe and there is no danger of any kind," said Col. Thomas J. Bowen, army district engineer in New Orleans. The barge was located Thursday night after a five-day search. It is in 60 feet of water near the Louisiana State University campus south of Baton Rouge.

Meanwhile, the clean-up from Betsy, which unleashed death and destruction on Louisiana a week ago, went on throughout the stricken areas. A few sections remained under water. Two more bodies were found in New Orleans, raising the known dead to 70-plus 12 in other states.

OBSOLETE AIR WING KEEPS GERMANY SATISFIED

Happiness Costs Canada $500 M

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCAF lost its 30th and 31st CF-104 low-level nuclear bombers Thursday when one crashed in central France and another in West Germany a few hours later. No one was hurt.

Officials said, however, there is no thought of giving up the CF-104 or its role in Europe until 1970 at the earliest though the maintenance costs, in that period, will amount to more than $500,000,000.

The government purchased a total of 238 CF-104s—200 operational planes and 38 trainers—and the first were shipped to the eight-squadron RCAF air division in Europe less than three years ago. The 31 crashes have cost 10 lives.

Informed sources said the CF-104's role has become militarily redundant because NATO has in Europe plenty of tactical nuclear weapons and the means to deliver them.

Why, then, does the government intend to spend at least $100,000,000 a year in the next five years to keep the CF-104 squadrons operating?

Informants said the chief reason is that Canada doesn't want to rock the NATO boat by withdrawing or dismantling the squadrons which form the fourth-largest nuclear strike force in the world.

GERMANS UPSET

West Germany, for instance, has recently complained about withdrawal of some battlefield nuclear missiles from the British Army of the Rhine. Germany is alive to any move which can be considered a lessening of NATO interest in its defence.

Another reason for staying with the CF-104 for another five years, sources say, is that an initial outlay of nearly $2,000,000,000 has been made for the planes, auxiliary equipment and training.

This is the same argument the defence department uses for maintaining the 56 Bomarc anti-aircraft missiles at North Bay, Ont., and La Macaza, Que.—they have already been paid for.

For the government, which accepted American nuclear warheads for the CF-104 two years ago, the nuclear role has changed drastically since July 16, 1963, when Defence Minister Hellyer was asked in the Commons defence committee: "Is there a lack of adequate tactical nuclear weapons and the equipment to deliver them in Europe?"

Mr. Hellyer replied: "In the opinion of the military leaders of the Western Alliance, there is."

IN WEST INDIES

No Survivors In Air Crash

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A Pan American World Airways jet-liner with 30 persons aboard slammed into the side of a mountain today on the small island of Montserrat in the British West Indies.

Ground rescue parties reported no survivors.

The Boeing 707 crashed into a mountain on the south side of the island, the U.S. Coast Guard here reported. The wreckage still was burning when searchers reached it hours later.

"The coast guard commander for the Greater Antilles reports that ground parties encountered difficulty in reaching the scene," a spokesman said.

The U.S. weather bureau said scattered thundershowers were reported throughout the Leeward Islands in the Lesser Antilles this morning.

"Helicopters from the French navy and the U.S. Army and Navy bases at San Juan, Puerto Rico, have been requested," the coast guard said. "Doctors with medical supplies are standing by at Montserrat."

Montserrat, which means saw-toothed mountains in Spanish, is about 30 miles southwest of Antigua, in the chain of islands which form the eastern border between the Caribbean and Atlantic Oceans.

The plane was last heard from at 7:25 a.m., 10 minutes before it was due to land at Antigua, an airline spokesman in New York said.

In New York, Pan American said a Mr. Price at Plymouth, on Montserrat, reported he had seen a large plane flying low, then heard an explosion.

Pan American said the plane carried 21 passengers and a crew of nine. It was designated Flight 292, bound from Fort de France, Martinique, for Kennedy Airport, New York, with scheduled stops at Antigua, St. Croix and San Juan.

It is believed there were three Canadians on board, Mr. and Mrs. F. Lamontagne and Marie Therese Fournier, booked passage from Montreal on the ill-fated flight.

HOUSEWIFE ABDUCTED BY MENTAL ESCAPEE

MRS. MCGINN wide search

ORRINGTON, Me. (AP)—Law enforcement officials and volunteers searched today for Mrs. Lynne P. McGinn, 29, a doctor's wife abducted at gunpoint from her home by an escaped patient from a state mental hospital.

Roadblocks were set up at virtually every major highway or intersection in the state after Mrs. McGinn was forced from her home by Roger R. Haller, 31, of Bangor, Me., police said.

They said the man entered the home Thursday afternoon and held Mrs. McGinn and her two children, Stacey, four, and Pierce, one, prisoner for several hours.

Her husband, Dr. John F. McGinn, was held also, police said, but then he talked Haller into letting him leave again on the pretext of visiting a sick patient.

NEW YORK PAPER BLACKOUT

Post Lone Daily Still Publishing

NEW YORK (UPI)—A strike against the New York Times and a retaliatory shutdown by other publishers today halted production of seven of the city's eight major newspapers.

New York's three morning newspapers failed to publish, and all but one of five afternoon papers were unable to meet today's early edition deadlines.

As the strike of 2,200 Times editorial and clerical workers went into its second day, only the afternoon New York Post was able to publish. About 17,000 employees of other newspapers were out of work.

Contract negotiations between the Times and the striking American Newspaper Guild (ANG) recessed early today and were scheduled to resume later.

The strike against the Times led to the retaliatory shutdown of the other six newspapers in a publisher's mutual aid pact. The Post is not a member of the agreement.

Key issue in the dispute is union concern about what will happen to jobs as more and more automated equipment is introduced and if two or more of the city's newspapers consolidate their publishing operations to reduce costs.

The guild was demanding three other key concessions:

- Provisions that new equipment would not remove present members from its jurisdiction unless the guild gave prior approval.
- All newsmen would be required to join the guild.
- Improved pension benefits and severance pay for employees at retirement.

ACQUITTAL VERDICT REFUSED

LAREDO, Tex. (CP)—The U.S. government concluded its case in the narcotics conspiracy trial of Lucien Rivard and three fellow Montreals today and the defence immediately moved unsuccessfully for a directed verdict of acquittal.

Federal District Judge Ben Cunnally turned down a series of motions on behalf of the defendants and said the case will be given to the jury next week.

Defence evidence was to open Monday.

They Stomp Back In With Eye on Chief

By STEWART MacLEOD

OTTAWA (CP)—On the surface it appears the question of unity within the Conservative party is approaching a full cycle as more and more break-away members return to the fold.

And to some observers the Nov. 8 general election is seen as the launching pad for an eventual leadership convention—if and when John Diefenbaker decides to step down.

In any case, many of those who stomped out of the party during the 1963 internal struggles have decided to return to the Conservatives, under Mr. Diefenbaker, and the list includes his most talked-about successors.

The latest definite decision came Thursday from George Hees, the former Conservative trade minister who announced his resignation in February 1963 "as a man of honor." He couldn't, he said, accept Mr. Diefenbaker's stand on nuclear weapons.

The cabinet was divided at the time on whether Canada should acquire nuclear warheads for Bomarc missiles. Mr. Hees and some other ministers said the warheads had to be installed in Canada; it was "absolute nonsense" to store them in the U.S. Mr. Hees said he had to resign when Mr. Diefenbaker did not carry out a promise to modify government policy against allowing the warheads into Canada.

Announcing his decision Thursday to resign as president of the Montreal and Canadian stock exchanges, Mr. Hees said he would be a candidate because "we need a government with a far higher sense of responsibility."

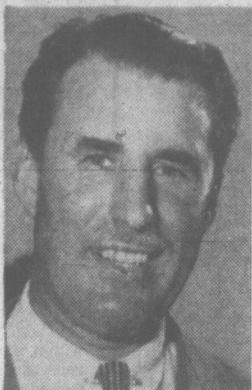

About the same time, Conservative sources in Ottawa were saying that Premier Duff Roblin of Manitoba was confidently expected to resign from office to contest a federal seat.

SEEKS OLD SEAT

And out in Kamloops, B.C., E. Davie Fulton, former justice and works minister in the Diefenbaker cabinet, was at work on the hustings in an attempt to regain his old seat.

Mr. Fulton left the federal party in 1963 to take over the Conservative leadership in B.C. Feelings between Mr. Diefenbaker and Mr. Fulton were reported cool for the last few years.

Mr. Hees and Mr. Fulton have long been touted as possible successors to Mr. Diefenbaker.

... no denial

But the man Mr. Diefenbaker appears to favor for the job—at least he gave this indication in 1963—is Mr. Roblin. Sharing a platform with the provincial premier, Mr. Diefenbaker turned to him and said he hoped Mr. Roblin, will "take your place in the federal Parliament of Canada as one of Canada's great leaders."

Mr. Roblin, like Mr. Hees and Mr. Fulton, is bilingual.

In Winnipeg, Mr. Roblin appeared surprised when asked about the suggestion he would contest the nomination in Winnipeg South. The seat was held in the last Parliament by Liberal Margaret Konantz, who will be seeking re-election.

"Who the dickens have you been talking to?" the premier asked a reporter.

Pressed for an answer, he said, "I don't even want to comment on that."

The Conservative nominating convention for Winnipeg South is set for Sept. 23 with two men already in the running—TV commentator Bud Sherman and Winnipeg Alderman Leonard Claydon.

Many observers here feel that any successor to Mr. Diefenbaker would have a much better chance to attain office if he already held a seat in Parliament. And on the strength of this, much greater implications are being read into the decisions of prominent party figures to seek seats.

But a party official said that Premier Roberts of Ontario would remain a strong contender even without showing any interest in a federal seat. "He's going to give us full support in Ontario," the official said, "and what could be better than that."

Another name associated with the eventual leadership race is Dalton Camp, president of the party's association, who announced his decision several weeks ago to fight Trade Minister Sharp in Toronto Eglinton. He was reported to have some differences with Mr. Diefenbaker in the last few years.

'NO LONGER AN ISSUE'

Another party official, Ed Goodman of Toronto, resigned from the federal executive in 1963 over Mr. Diefenbaker's stand on nuclear weapons, and Wednesday Mr. Goodman became national campaign chairman for the party. The 46-year-old Toronto lawyer said nuclear weapons are "no longer an issue."

Pierre Sevigny, former associate defence minister who also resigned over the nuclear issue, said he will campaign under Mr. Diefenbaker in this election.

While the cycle has gone a long way since the 1963 cabinet eruption, not all members of Mr. Diefenbaker's government have heeded his call for unity. Former transport minister Leon Balcer, who left the Conservative party early this year to sit as an independent, has announced his retirement from politics.

He said Wednesday there is no place for a French-Canadian in a party headed by Mr. Diefenbaker.

Former defence minister Douglas Harkness, who also left the cabinet over the nuclear issue, is running for the Calgary South seat he won in 1963, but there is no indication of any new entente with his leader.

Mr. Diefenbaker issued his call for unity Wednesday, just one day before Mr. Hees announced his decision to seek a nomination.

A "wonderful response," was the way the Conservative leader described the reaction to his appeal. "It's reminiscent of 1957." But Mr. Hees said in an interview that his decision was strictly personal and that Mr. Diefenbaker's appeal had not influenced him in any way.

WELL-KNOWN Toronto businessman and possible leadership candidate, Robert Winters, has indicated he will seek the Liberal nomination for York West. The seat was held for the Liberals by NHL star Red Kelly who has announced his retirement from politics.

Mountie Acquitted

VANCOUVER (CP)—A 12-year RCMP officer was acquitted Thursday of drunken driving. Constable James Herbert Blake, a member of the Courtenay detachment, was arrested in Stanley Park while on annual leave July 27. Blake was found asleep in his car with the keys in an off position in the ignition.

NO DEALS, SAYS DIF AS REBELS RETURNING

(Times Ottawa Bureau)

OTTAWA—Opposition Leader John Diefenbaker rejected any suggestion of leadership "deals" in the Conservative party.

As the list of returning Tory rebels grows there has been inevitable speculation of some type of backroom deal that, in return for party unity, Diefenbaker may have promised to step down in the near future whether he won or not.

"I make no deals," he told newsmen. "We don't make deals in the Conservative party."

The Tory chieftain said the upsurge in party enthusiasm was triggered by his recent foray into Quebec.

"There's been an amazing transition," he said.

When asked why some who had rejected Diefenbaker's leadership in 1963 were now offering support, an aide said: "They think he is going to win."

Quebec Trio 'Just Mere Names'

QUEBEC (CP)—Robert Cliche, Quebec leader of the New Democratic Party, Thursday dismissed as mere "names" three newcomers to party politics who recently announced their intention of seeking nominations in the Nov. 8 election under the Liberal banner.

SIMPLICITY COSTS MUCH

The South African government estimated it would cost $20,000,000 to convert the country's weights and measures to the decimal system.

The Quebec leader said he did not agree with English-language newspapers outside the province which predicted the adherence of these three persons to the Liberal party "would permit them to sweep the province."

"The Quebec of today is no longer what it was 20 or 40 years ago and the traditional elite which one saw at that time now has lost the confidence of the electors."

"We will show English Canada that Quebec will not follow one, two, three or five men simply because they have a name or a past."

The Ins and Outs

THE DECISION OF MR. HEES to return to active Conservative politics should give Mr. Diefenbaker's election campaign a considerable boost. The reported decision of Manitoba's Premier Roblin to enter the federal field, if confirmed, should likewise provide a measure of strength for the Conservative appeal.

Whether they will provide strength for Mr. Diefenbaker personally is another question, for both these men are spoken of in Conservative quarters as aspirants to the leadership of the party. They will, no doubt, defer their ambitions until Mr. Diefenbaker departs—although Mr. Hees has not always shown this much patience with the aging Tory chieftain. But that aspect itself is significant, for the presence of both these able men beside Mr. Diefenbaker in Ottawa—if, indeed, any of them are later found there—would undoubtedly speed the date of the leader's eventual resignation.

Both men are giving up an assured and responsible position to make their bid for federal honors. Mr. Roblin, if he makes the rumors official, would be relinquishing the leadership of the Manitoba Conservative Party and a very satisfactory career on the provincial level. Mr. Hees has already announced his resignation as head of the Montreal and Canadian Stock Exchanges. Only a few days ago he had signified his complete satisfaction with this important job. His sights obviously must be set on something higher than a seat in the back benches of the Commons.

With these two contenders appears Mr. Davie Fulton, who is forsaking the British Columbia provincial political ring for another bid for Ottawa honors. He, too, is a potential candidate for the leadership post, and the gulf between him and Mr. Diefenbaker has been as wide as the nation.

If Mr. Diefenbaker were elected with a substantial number of followers, then, he would find that at least three of them were following perhaps embarrassingly close—watching, waiting, and eyeing each other. The indications are, however, that Mr. Diefenbaker would gladly pay even this price for the chance once more to be prime minister. It may well be wondered which of these men the rank and file will be following in the campaign now under way.

The significant news announcement of the week, however, is that of Mr. Balcer, who has said he will not run again and that "there is no place for a French-Canadian in the party of Mr. Diefenbaker."

That action and that quotation virtually eliminate the province of Quebec from any government lineup Mr. Diefenbaker could fashion. They mean that about a third of the Canadian public—and a section which has been clamoring for racial recognition and a larger voice in running the country—would have no truly representative member in a Diefenbaker cabinet. They mean that Mr. Diefenbaker could not form a national government even if he succeeded in gaining votes in the rest of the country—and for that reason alone his return to power would have tragic, perhaps disastrous, repercussions on the Canadian state.

The hopeful prodigals, Mr. Hees and Mr. Fulton, and the possible new arrival, Mr. Roblin, are not enough to balance the loss of Mr. Balcer and all the people and the facts of political life which he represents.

A Brighter Employment Picture

THE MID-AUGUST UNEMPLOYMENT figure of 211,000, less than three per cent of the Canadian labor force, is solid testimony to the strength of the economy at mid-year. Even with adjustments to take into consideration seasonal factors, the unemployment rate was just four per cent, compared with 4.9 per cent at mid-August last year.

The unemployment rate shows quite a wide variation in regions across the country, from a low of 1.4 per cent on the prairies to 4.2 per cent in the Atlantic provinces. This gives added weight to the argument that part of the answer to smoothing out unemployment problems lies in greater mobility of workers. In parts of the country there are more jobs than workers with the skills to fill them, a condition which hasn't been seen often in Canada in recent years.

There were other encouraging aspects of the joint department of labor-bureau of statistics report on employment. One, of course, was the fact that the unemployment rate was the lowest in eight years. But even more significant were figures showing that while the labor force at mid-August was up by 273,000 or 3.9 per cent from the same point a year ago, the number of people employed had risen by 308,000 or 4.4 per cent. Unemployment during the 12-month period dropped by 35,000 or 16.4 per cent.

A little disturbing is the fact that 65,000 out of the 211,000 unemployed at mid-August were in the 14-to-19-years age group. This is about 30.8 per cent of the total and it is to be hoped that the greater number of these youngsters will be heading back to school and leaving the permanent labor market until they have acquired more education or vocational skills. The next release of unemployment statistics, for mid-September, will show what proportion of this 14-to-19-years group still remains in the "seeking work but unemployed" classification.

A Matter of the Law

IT IS UNFORTUNATE THAT the calling of a general election at this time of year has raised the likelihood that some thousands of university students may be disfranchised. According to the elections act, students must be in residence at the place where they will vote by the date on which the election writs are issued—in this case, September 8.

Few students attending universities away from their usual homes can qualify under this clause, since university terms normally begin late in September. And there appears to be no way, according to Chief Electoral Officer Nelson Castonguay, by which the rule can be circumvented, although several avenues are being examined. The problem involves, of course, only those students who will be away from their usual residences on election day, and who are of voting age.

For a good many students, the forthcoming election will be the first in which they have been eligible to vote and it makes a poor introduction to this important function of citizenship to be deprived by a technicality of the right to cast a ballot. The remedy lies in an amendment to the law to cover future contingencies. It is foolish and pointless to accuse the prime minister or the chief electoral officer or any other individual of a deliberate disregard for students' rights. This is not something to be changed by a word from the authorities: it requires an act of parliament.

Opposition critics, however, have already been quick to read something sinister into the situation, the implication being that the Liberal government is trying to cut off thousands of votes that would be cast for other parties. This is poppycock, and every candidate with any pretence to knowledge of governmental and election procedures must know it.

"Hees! ... Your head please! ... I have found a good opening here for you ...!"

Teetering on the Balance of Power

JO GRIMOND, leader of Britain's tiny 10-man Liberal Party, is rapidly finding out that heaven isn't all it is cracked up to be. If holding a parliamentary balance of power is in fact a minority party's idea of heaven then it must be conceded that the Liberals have been standing on the very threshold ever since the Labor Party came to power last October with an absurdly small majority. Since then a series of calamities both natural and political has served to narrow that majority to the point where the Liberals should be well within the pearly gates by the time Parliament reassembles on October 26.

The recent death of the Speaker of the House of Commons only pushes Prime Minister Harold Wilson further onto a limb that was already too slender to hold his weight for another session. Furthermore, the manifestos of the two parties have much in common and in most areas they could be brought into harmony without involving unacceptable compromises. By forcing through the necessary modifications the party that during the last Parliament could travel to the House of Commons "in one taxi" would actually be seeing liberal legislation—tantalizing indeed!

Not Workable

The byelection triggered by the Speaker's death and the selection of a new Speaker meant that he will have to face Parliament with a majority of one or perhaps two. Either way is not a workable majority. This is where Mr. Grimond and his nine merry men come in.

Because Mr. Wilson is realistic enough to know that he can't cheat the odds indefinitely, his only course now is to lay his plans for the next session on the sure assumption that before it is over the Liberals will have the whip hand.

Indeed, the news that steel nationalization is once again to be dropped to the bottom of the priority list is evidence that Liberal sensitivities are already exerting a sobering influence in Labor councils. Mr. Grimond's difficulty is that he doesn't quite know what to do with his shiny new powers.

Forced Play

In the next session a further consideration, of course, is that the issue-by-issue approach could lead to a situation in which the Liberals, boxed in by a point of principle, were forced to pull down the government at an inopportune moment.

The obvious alternative—a parliamentary pact—opens up some tantalizing possibilities as the price of co-operation. The Liberals could conceivably win government support for a "fairer" system of parliamentary representation which would more faithfully reflect the proportion of votes cast in a general election, always assuming that such reform was not seen to work against Labor's interests.

However, the basic Liberal decisions are not that easy. If the advantages of a pact are obvious, so are the drawbacks. For one thing the party would be tying its fortunes to a government that, for the moment at any rate, is rapidly losing support in the country. Moreover, even if Labor pulls out of its slump and goes on to win the next election, the Liberal Party would already have gathered far by its expedient association with the Labor left.

For the Liberal Party, indeed, a lib-lab pact could mean gaining the world for a time and losing its soul. If Britain's Liberals have any reason for existing, it lies in the hope that some day they will manage to draw the "true radicals" on the Labor right and the Conservative left into a great new party of the left that is untainted by socialism.

The real question for the Liberals is whether the chance of pushing through some of their own legislation in the next session is worth the long-term risks.

All of this is to reckon without Mr.

Wilson. It must be noted he has his own reasons for not wanting to do a deal with the Liberals no matter how badly he might like to. Not least among them is the risk of a final shattering rebellion among his left-wingers, who would certainly see a lib-lab pact as a device to enable the government to move even further away from its socialist commitments than it already has.

Bargaining Power

While Mr. Grimond is popularly assumed to be holding the key to the next Parliament, in the end it will be Mr. Wilson who decides whether and to an extent how he will be allowed to use it. For, despite his precarious position in Parliament, the prime minister is not without a great deal of bargaining power of his own.

Whatever the relationship between the Liberal and Labor parties in the next session it will be regulated to a large extent by one underlying fact. The two parties may not quite be in agreement about what they want, but they are certainly in agreement about what they don't want—another Conservative government.

The fear of a return to Tory rule has often been a trump card in Mr. Wilson's dealings with his rebellious left-wing and it could work just as well when waved in front of Mr. Grimond.

FROM WASHINGTON

China Is Warned Against Interference

OBSERVERS here suspect that State Secretary Rusk's public notice to China Monday to stay out of the India-Pakistan conflict may have concealed a stronger but private warning to the same effect. It is recalled that in June Mr. Rusk was letting it be known that China had been warned of grave consequences to itself if it attempted to divert U.S. attention from Viet Nam by some move in Korea. The same is believed to apply to any Chinese intervention in Kashmir, whether or not a new specific warning has been delivered to China through third party diplomatic contacts. China has heavy troop deployments along India's Kashmir border, as well as along where the Chinese penetrated heavily in their 1962 incursions. These deployments tie down large numbers of Indian troops opposite the Chinese forces, preventing their use to defend India's claim to Kashmir against Pakistan.

To Mr. Rusk, "China is fishing in these troubled waters," and the U.S. hopes China will have the sense not to jump into the waters. The U.S., Britain and even the Soviet Union are allied in seeing the danger of Chinese military intervention. It could mean the collapse of the Indian state by setting off a Hindu bloodbath against India's nearly 50 million Moslems. This could arise even from a relatively small-scale intervention; the 1962 attacks revealed the low mobility and staying power of the Indian army, and it would not take much strength by Chinese standards to demoralize India and lead to chaos in the streets.

China is the only country with anything to gain from the collapse of India. The U.S. has to convince China that any idea of using the present conflict as a path to hegemony in Asia is both illusory and dangerous.

Behind the scenes, the U.S. is working to (a) convince Pakistan that consorting with China and the use of force are not ways to realize its claim to Kashmir, and (b) convince India that the feelings of the people of Kashmir must somehow be taken into account in any overall solution to Indian-Pakistani problems.

In public, the U.S. is working through the U.N. security council in calling for a withdrawal of all forces to the 1949 ceasefire line and a return to the status quo pending negotiations.

It is just this status quo that a fed-up Pakistan is trying to end after years of fruitless diplomacy. The Pakistani position, in and out of the U.N., has been—so far—that the way to peace is to allow self-determination for the people of Kashmir. To Pakistan, Kashmir is a contiguous land whose predominantly Moslem people are being held under foreign rule against their will.

The Indian position, as explained by the special Indian representative to the U.N., is that Kashmir is an integral part of India and that India could no more accept a plebiscite there than the U.S. could accept a secession plebiscite in Texas. He expounded a moral principle which he believed higher than the right of self-determination: The ideal concept of a multi-ethnic state, which India is supposed to represent, would be shattered if a group were to secede on religious grounds.

If this strikes western ears as high-sounding hypocrisy, Indian officials are ready in private to sound a grim warning: that a Kashmir vote to join Pakistan may cause India's Hindu majority to turn on the Moslem minority.

This fear doesn't say much for the strength of the Indian people's belief in a multi-ethnic state.

Pakistani officials, told of this expressed fear, doubt a spontaneous slaughter. They say they believe the Indian government, by encouraging this kind of talk, is merely holding India's Moslems as hostages for a favorable settlement, against the threat of egging on the Hindus to their murder.

Indians here are aware, however, that the state could not survive a bloodbath on such a scale.

25 Years: Remembering 'the Few'

A FEW Canadian and other British Commonwealth flying-officers, who survived the First World War air combats, will be present to pay tribute to their Second World War colleagues at the Battle of Britain remembrance service at Christ Church Cathedral next Sunday.

Local Canadian "aces," including Don MacLaren and Emerson Smith, served in the Royal Flying Corps or Royal Naval Air Service (subsequently merged as RAF). It will be recalled that the flyers of 1914-18 literally pioneered air combat operations by flying in open cockpits of canvas-covered crates and wings bound by piano wire.

Their accuracy in the early use of aircraft machine guns, combined with flying skill and daring, resulted in amazingly successful achievements, with Canada's W. A. ("Billy") Bishop, VC, DSO, MC, attaining the top score by destroying 73 enemy aircraft. High Air Force honors were won for Canada and the Commonwealth. This subsequently led to the Royal Canadian Air Force being formed in 1924.

Our Canadian combat flyers of the Second World War nobly upheld these traditions. They added immeasurably to the heritage of Air Force valor, especially by their memorably great triumphs in the Battle of Britain, Sept. 1940, which they have good reason to proudly celebrate this month. It was that glorious achievement that resulted in Sir Winston Churchill's famous tribute:

"Never in the field of human conflict was so much owed by so many to so few." Its impact was etched for all time in our memories.

The 25th anniversary Battle of Britain banquet here represented an exceptional breed of men in relation to the qualifying factors that led to their acceptance for special training to ultimately become combatant "Knights of the Air." They were selected for their adaptability to rigorous training to face the most challenging conditions of skill and daring. It demanded exceptional physical fitness and intellectual requirements, with indications of initiative and courage of the highest order, including reliability, alertness and endurance. There had to be evidence, also, of athletic prowess or instincts in relation to the competitive spirit, to necessarily "outsmart" adversaries in air combats. Apart from their actual achievements, these airmen therefore had reason to be proud of their initial qualifications.

During this commemorative "Battle of Britain week," assembling again with an inner sense of pride, they share a fellowship of understanding, and with poignant memories. Those air squadron comrades who loyally and valiantly "gave their all" in the defence of freedom, but who never returned, and those who have since died, will be especially remembered, and by relatives here and elsewhere in Canada and the Commonwealth, still mourning their loss, but recognizing their noble deeds.—R. Barclay Shaw, 1277 Rockland Avenue.

Looking Back

From The Times of Sept. 17, 1890:

A delegation including Mayor Grant, aldermen and employees of the water works department made their annual visit to the city's water supply at Beaver Lake. The works were inspected and the water commissioner pointed out improvements which must be made, mainly construction of a canal from the filter beds to Elk Lake so that Beaver Lake can be drained and cleared of decaying vegetable matter.

Another Book Poses Question: Is John D. Fit to Govern?

OTTAWA—There's a blithe assumption in Conservative circles these days that Lester

Pearson's disappointing performance as prime minister has dispelled the memory of John Diefenbaker's own blundering while occupying the nation's highest political office.

In case Canadians really have forgotten just how erratically the man from Prince Albert behaved as the 13th prime minister of Canada, a book to be published early in October by McClelland and Stewart of Toronto, will provide a dramatic and irrefutable reminder.

Inner Councils

This Game of Politics by Pierre Sevigny is a highly personalized account of the Diefenbaker years by a man who sat in the inner councils of power during what exciting time in Canadian history.

Every voter reading this assessment of John Diefenbaker by one of his own ministers will inevitably ask himself, is this man fit to govern Canada again?

The answer Sevigny's book provides to this highly relevant question, though never explicitly stated, is an obvious "no."

Copyright laws prevent me from quoting extracts from the yet unpublished manuscript, but I have read Sevigny's book and found implicit in it a devastating indictment of the Diefenbaker stewardship.

It confirms from inside the cabinet chamber the criticisms levelled at the Conservative leader in my own book about the same period (Renege in Power) which was condemned by Diefenbaker supporters as malicious and unfounded.

Sevigny, who served first as deputy speaker and then as associate minister of national defence in the Diefenbaker administration, is as frank as he dare be in his descriptions of Diefenbaker's bouts of rage and indecision.

Needed Pills

He describes how one minister never entered Diefenbaker's office without fortifying himself with tranquilizing pills and how no member of the Tory ministry ever knew where he stood in the esteem and confidence of the leader.

Sevigny tells how members of the Diefenbaker entourage were often required to give in front of witnesses humiliating defences against accusations made about them in anonymous letters sent to Diefenbaker.

The book deals also with the interminable, confused cabinet meetings held during the Diefenbaker regime and condemns the man from Prince Albert for lacking any precise vision of the Canadian future.

Screaming

In recounting how the Prince Albert politician refused to have a French-Canadian second his nomination for the leadership of the Conservative party in 1956, Sevigny describes Diefenbaker screaming at him in an apoplexy of temper when he suggested that Quebec should endorse his candidacy.

One of the potentially explosive sections of the book is a minor incident in which Sevigny describes an encounter with Diefenbaker while he was serving as deputy speaker of the Commons.

Although the rulings of the chair are supposed to be sacrosanct, Sevigny reveals that Diefenbaker called him into his office to express disapproval for a decision he had made while the House was in the committee stage of considering a bill.

He also undermines the image of Diefenbaker as the great respecter of parliament by describing the strained relations between the Conservative leader and Roland Michener, the speaker of the Commons, and comments that if looks could kill, Mr. Speaker would often have died on the spot.

Humiliated

The most moving parts of this unusual book are Sevigny's accounts of how Diefenbaker humiliated some of the ministers who tried to stand on principle in the service of their country.

This was particularly true, according to Sevigny, during the defence crisis of 1963.

The former associate defence minister flatly accuses Diefenbaker of putting political considerations first when dealing with the nation's defence problems.

By PETER C. NEWMAN

He documents the fact that Canada had given NATO a nuclear commitment which Diefenbaker chose to ignore. (Sevigny was one of three ministers who resigned from the Diefenbaker cabinet in protest of Diefenbaker's nuclear indecision.)

In the book's most dramatic chapter, Sevigny reconstructs the party crisis which followed his resignation. He claims that Diefenbaker insisted on clinging to power against the wishes of the majority of his parliamentary group.

Sevigny seems convinced that the Tory administration

could easily have been saved if the leader had put aside his suspicions even for an hour during this crucial period.

Some sections of this controversial book, which is sure to become an election issue, reveal more about Sevigny than Diefenbaker. In parts it's a tasteless recital of naive self-justifications and small-minded recriminations.

Praises Duplessis

One chapter is devoted to fulsome praise of Maurice Duplessis. Sevigny singles out the logic and common sense of Yvon Dupuis as deserving praise among the Liberal politicians of his day.

At another level, Sevigny places much of the blame for the 1962 Tory defeat in Quebec on the Conservative administration's handling of patronage.

He roundly condemns the attitudes of Howard Green in public works and Bill Hamilton in the post office department for eliminating the patronage that had flourished under their predecessors.

He defines patronage as the right to intercede for one's friends and describes the anti-patronage dictums of Hamilton and Green as a denial of common sense.

Sevigny's disapproval of his leader does not stop with the 1963 election. He labels the behavior of the Conservative leader in opposition, particularly during the flag debate, as being objection to the point of absurdity, and declares that Diefenbaker's dream of returning to power is only a dream.

Despite the sentiments expressed by Sevigny the author, Sevigny the politician declared in Montreal last week that he'd campaign for John Diefenbaker in this election and that he'll consider running as a Conservative candidate.

In the unlikely event that Mr. Diefenbaker is willing to take M. Sevigny back, he might consider the fact that in the closing chapter of this unusual book his former minister provides a concise constitutional blueprint for turning Canada into a republic.

Buchan Scored On Peace Try, Book Reveals

By CARL MOLLINS

LONDON—John Buchan, the first Baron Tweedsmuir, played a little-known but important role while Governor-General of Canada in a vain effort to prevent war in 1939, a new biography discloses.

Writer Janet Adam Smith tells of Lord Tweedsmuir's private encouragement of Franklin D. Roosevelt in a plan for a summit conference of world leaders. Neville Chamberlain, prime minister of Britain, repudiated Tweedsmuir for meddling in politics and later doused the summit plan with a cool reply to Roosevelt.

John Buchan, a 500-page biography published this week by Rupert Hart-Davis Ltd., is an exhaustive study of the Scottish pastor's son who was scholar, lawyer, diplomat, politician, journalist, novelist, historian, adventurer and Canada's Governor-General from 1935 until his death at Montreal in 1940.

Miss Smith, who had access to hitherto private correspondence and studied the Buchan library and papers at Queen's University, Kingston, Ont., concludes that while Tweedsmuir played many parts with success, his final role as Governor-General was "the most rewarding."

Tweedsmuir, the book reveals, encouraged Roosevelt at private meetings and in correspondence during 1936 and 1937 to take the initiative in calling a meeting with the heads of European governments "to break the vicious circle of fear among the nations of the world."

He wrote as "a private friend" to Stanley Baldwin, prime minister of Britain, urging the British government to be ready to "meet any proposals by Roosevelt halfway." Tweedsmuir repeated his plea to the new prime minister when Chamberlain took over from Baldwin in the spring of 1937.

Chamberlain sent a lukewarm reply, saying he had found the United States unhelpful in the past.

In the fall of 1937, after talks in Ottawa with U.S. State Secretary Cordell Hull, Tweedsmuir again wrote to Chamberlain about the peace plan.

Chamberlain's reply was cool and he added that Tweedsmuir must be careful as governor-general "not to lay yourself open to the charge in Canada or elsewhere that you are going outside your provinces and are seeking to influence 'politics'."

In January, 1938, Roosevelt informed the British government formally of his plan for a summit meeting and asked for British support before announcing it. Chamberlain effectively rejected the proposal in what Sir Winston Churchill later described as "loss of the last frail chance to save the world from tyranny otherwise than by war."

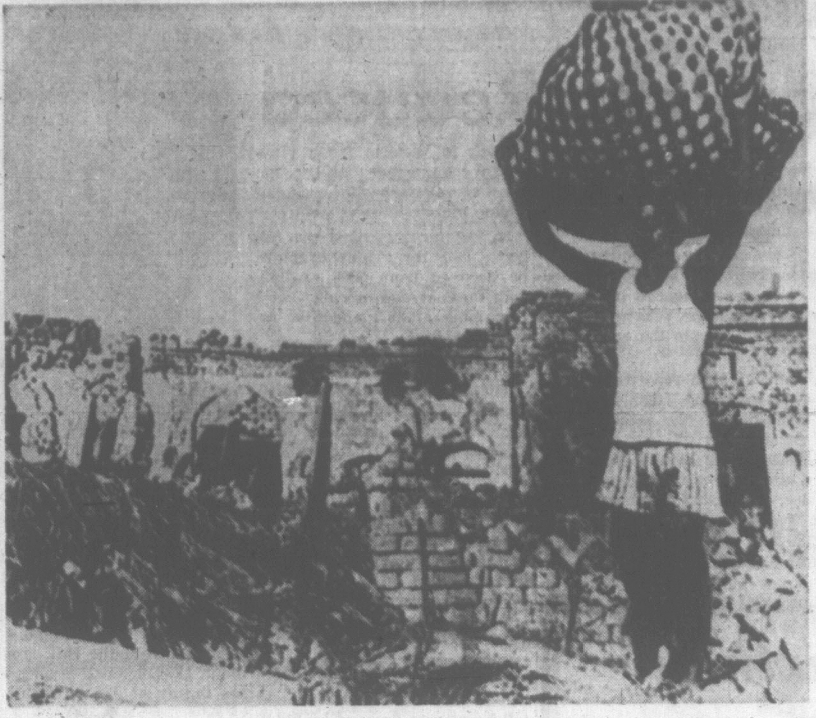

Chamberlain's action provoked the resignation of his foreign secretary, Anthony Eden.

Malta Groping Ahead

By JOHN EARLE

VALETTA—Malta, a tiny island nation of 330,000 inhabitants, is feeling its way toward its own foreign policy as the first anniversary of its independence approaches.

Until independence was declared last year at midnight of Sept. 21, the Maltese had little chance of making their mark on the international scene. For years they had been ruled by the British, and before that by the knights of Malta.

Now Malta is a member of the United Nations and of its dependent bodies and has joined the Council of Europe, the Economic Commission for Europe and the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

A big question mark is still the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, which maintains an important naval headquarters here under a British admiral, Sir John Hamilton.

To regularize the position, the Maltese government would like to join the organization. But, say diplomatic sources here, France would veto such a move. The issue may come up in the political arena in the future.

The Maltese feel themselves strongly European. They have a long history as a military bastion of Christianity against Islam, and this year are celebrating the fourth centenary of the Great Siege, when they beat off the Turks.

The present government would like to have as friendly relations as possible with Italy, the island's nearest neighbor. It was also studying the possibility of economic links with the European Common Market—until the French boycott paralyzed the market.

At the same time, being geographically poised midway between Europe and Africa in the middle of the Mediterranean, Maltese officials find themselves taking an unaccustomed interest in Mediterranean stability, in the problems of the Arab world, and in crisis points such as Cyprus and Israel.

Malta now has diplomatic missions in Britain, Australia, and the United Nations.

Plans have been approved to establish non-residential missions to the Vatican, Libya, and France. After that will come envoys to Washington and Rome.

Victoria Women Pioneered River Voyage to Arctic Ocean

By ELIZABETH FORBES

A Canadian Press story printed recently in Victoria newspapers described the experiences of an American woman author, Connie Helmricks, during a trip down the Mackenzie River.

Mrs. Helmricks and her two teen-age daughters spent eight weeks sailing from Yellowknife to Inuvik in a 20-foot freighter canoe, driven by an outboard motor.

Interviewed in Edmonton, this adventurous woman from Tucson, Arizona, said she believed it was the first time women have made the 1,100-mile trip to the Arctic Ocean in this way.

There is no doubt that in accomplishing the journey, Mrs. Helmricks and her daughters endured hardships and encountered dangers. And they do have something to boast about.

However, they are not the first women to travel down the Mackenzie to the Arctic Ocean in search of adventure.

Agnes Deans Cameron and her niece, Jessie Cameron, both of this city, did it more than 57 years ago.

On the map they used, Yellowknife and Inuvik were not even named. Way points, circled in red, were Hudson's Bay forts; from Athabasca Landing to the Mackenzie Delta.

Forbes

It was the Hudson's Bay Company at Winnipeg that helped plan their journey and gave them introductions to factors at posts along the way. It was also the Hudson's Bay that outfitted them properly and furnished them with letters of credit which could be changed into bacon and beans and blankets, boats, guides' services and "sow-belly," at any point.

The route travelled by Miss Cameron and her niece ("The Kid" as she called her) was from Chicago to Winnipeg and Edmonton by train and from there to Athabasca Landing by stage.

At the Landing they boarded one of seven specially-built scows, or "sturgeon-heads," with 20-foot oars, that were used to transport freight and passengers down the Athabasca River to Athabasca Lake, then to the Slave River and Fort Resolution on Great Slave Lake.

From there they took a small river boat across the lake and down the Mackenzie River.

This, you must remember, was in the days when women wore toe-touching skirts, ankle-high boots, boned corsets, fitted bodices and high collars.

Couple that with the fact there were rapids to run, portages to make, hazards to face when scows ran aground and broke up and battles to fight when mosquitos insisted on becoming "blood" brothers, and, you have a journey to test the stamina of the hardiest adventurer.

Agnes Deans Cameron was born in Victoria in 1863, the daughter of pioneer parents, Duncan and Jessie Cameron.

At 18 she was teaching in Angela College for Girls. Later she taught at Comox and in Vancouver, then returned to this city to accept teaching appointments successively in James Bay School, Girls' and Boys' Central, Victoria High and finally at what was then the "new" South Park School where she was named principal.

In the early 1900's Miss Cameron gave up teaching to devote her time to travel and writing.

The epic adventure into the land of the Mackenzie River resulted in extensive writing and lecturing on conditions in the Canadian North and in a book that has now become a prize for collectors of Canadiana, "The New North."

Miss Cameron wrote and lectured for the Canadian government in Canada and Great Britain.

She was one of Victoria's early school trustees. There are those still living who remember her for her blunt criticism of outmoded ideas and untiring work for school reforms.

She died here in 1912 from complications following an operation.

McPherson Rents Reduced

McPherson Theatre rent rates were revised today with an eye to winning wider use.

The revisions resulted in about a one-sixth net reduction in the rental rate schedule. But not all rental categories were reduced.

Victoria city council recreation committee adopted a schedule as recommended by recreation services manager Jack Morgan. It cuts the rates by a net $313.50.

Mr. Morgan reported through city manager Dennis Young, that although the recommended revisions result in some increases, the overall reductions would tend to encourage theatre use, increasing revenues.

The net figure applies to touring or equity company rates, Mr. Young said. Such companies do not now consider coming to Victoria for a play-house engagement because the original rate schedule was out of line for an 837-seat theatre.

It was recommended the full house rate for Friday-evenings be dropped from $306 to $225, with matinee and morning rates remaining at $150 and $100 respectively.

FULL HOUSES

The Saturday full house rate was reduced from $425 to $250 for evening performances, from $200 to $175 for matinees and $100 for mornings, a drop of $50.

Sunday to Thursday rates went up from $187 to $200 for evenings and from $80 to $100 for mornings, with the afternoon rate remaining at $125.

Rates for local productions are affected too, with the Friday evening charge levelled out by $3 to a round $150 for a full house, and the Saturday night full house rate dropped by $12.50 to $200.

A 10 per cent discount for a minimum six-day booking was eliminated as an "unnecessary concession," and a 50 per cent rate for half-house rental was raised to 75 per cent because costs for a half house do not drop by 50 per cent.

Finally, the committee agreed to eliminate one stage hand for full productions because one man can handle the work.

Court Action Launched On '63 Vote

A B.C. Supreme Court hearing will be held in Victoria Dec. 13 into the voting in one constituency at the 1963 provincial election.

The action was launched by supporters of Irvine Corbett, the defeated Social Credit candidate for Yale in the election two years ago.

Mr. Corbett was narrowly defeated by William Hartley of the New Democratic Party.

Official Moves To Burma Post

LONDON (Reuters) — Leonard Wakely, Britain's deputy high commissioner in Ottawa, is to be ambassador extraordinary and plenipotentiary to Burma, the foreign office announced Thursday.

Wakely, 56, has been in his present post since November, 1962. Previously, he served as deputy high commissioner in Madras and Accra.

He succeeds Sir Gordon Whitridge in Burma whose appointment to Kabul as ambassador was announced earlier.

NEW COMMANDER of only infantry regiment on Vancouver Island Lt.-Col. David R. Coell will take over Canadian Scottish Regiment (Princess Mary's), Oct. 2. Lt.-Col. M. W. E. Allen is stepping down after three years in command. An appraiser with the B.C. government, Lt.-Col. Coell resides with his family at 527 Whiteside.

Tropical Garden Proposed

An offer to create tropical gardens with parrots and exotic fish was placed before Victoria city council recreation committee today as a summer function of Crystal Garden.

The proposal was made by Art Knapp, nursery operator, who wishes to lease the second floor north ballroom, known as the Flamingo room, and two triangular plots of land adjoining, which would front on Douglas Street and extend to Belleville Street at the rear of the city-owned Crystal Garden.

The bid was turned over to city manager Dennis Young, city engineer James Garnett and parks administrator Herbert Warren for detailed study.

Mr. Knapp told the committee the outside area would be landscaped on a year-round basis, although the ballroom would be leased only for the summer period of May-August, allowing it to be used for other purposes during the rest of the year.

He wants to specialize in a display of begonias and fuchsias, and would charge admission to the gardens, which he proposes to fence and decorate with a floral screen.

There would be no retailing on the premises, but orders for bulbs would be taken and shipped from nurseries on the B.C. mainland and California, Mr. Knapp said.

Anybody Need a Good Guillotine?

By CANDIDE TEMPLE
Had any use for a flame-thrower lately?
Or a mink stole, two dozen champagne glasses and a rug shampoo machine?
Hardly everyday items for the average person, especially when you check their price tags.
But a fairly new phenomenon on the Victoria scene, a rent-everything rental agency, solves the problem for people who need such objects infrequently, but need them all the same.

Run by a bearded, Ukrainian-born ex-hairdresser named Jerome Olynyk, it's an ambitious venture started because its owner "got tired of the beauty parlor business and needed a challenge."

"I rent practically anything," he says, surveying the jumble of objects crowded into his renovated shop on Pandora.
"If I don't have it myself, I'll rent it from someone else," he added.
"Take that guillotine over there." He pointed to a 10-foot wooden structure with a business-like blade on top.

"I had it made especially to rent to someone, then the party changed their mind."
"So now I'm stuck with it," he said with a rueful smile.
But what could you rent it for—another French revolution, maybe?
CUTTING PRICES
"Business promotion," he suggested. "You know. We are cutting our prices—that sort of thing."
"It's eye-catching," he added hopefully.
Nearby was a winepress, and beside that a slenderizing machine.
As he was jiggling up and down demonstrating the slenderizer, Jerome told of the lady who phoned to enquire about renting the machine.
After making all the arrangements, she added one request—she wanted it delivered at night.
An even stranger customer was the one who wanted to rent a crystal ball.
"I tried to explain to her that she could be disappointed," he said. "I personally don't believe in those things, but I got it for her anyway."
Jerome, who grew up "all over," mostly in Europe, and speaks eight languages, ran a hairdressing salon in Peterborough, Ont., for 16 years before becoming to Victoria.
"I believe this type of business is actually a necessity to society," he says. "So many people desire things, and renting them is very economical."

UNLIMITED RENT
So confident is he that people will rent anything they need but won't buy, that he has listed over 60 objects he has on hand to rent on a sign in the window.
Another sign bears the words: Jerome's Rent-Alls—Unlimited.
He demonstrated the ultimate in desire to please the customer one day when a woman phoned to rent a toilet-training seat for her child.
Jerome didn't have one.
But his two-and-a-half-year-old son Adrian did.
So Adrian lent his toady seat. And everyone was happy.

Ex-residents of the Rossland-Trail area in the Kootenays are invited to an open meeting at Mount Douglas Park Sunday from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Finning uses miles of tape None of it is red

As B.C. distributor of famed Caterpillar equipment, Finning has to provide fast parts service to customers wherever they may be.

One way Finning does this is by covering miles in milliseconds through their own teletype communications system. The second busiest in the province, it automatically connects 10 conveniently placed branches, via the Vancouver head office.

Here's how it works. At the sending point, the customer's order is typed out on a machine that translates words into patterns of holes punched into a paper tape. (It's a similar idea to the old player piano roll.) The tape is then fed into another machine which transmits this information. At that very moment, an automatic typewriter at the destination starts hammering out the request for action.

Within minutes, the needed part is located and sent on its way. It's a reassuring thought when you have high-production equipment sitting idle... waiting.

Many times a day, this speedy system is used to solve customers' problems... keep Finning the company that's long on service, short on red tape.

Auto Pact Attacked

WASHINGTON (CP)—Spokesmen for American auto-parts interests asked the Senate finance committee Thursday to kill or delay a bill authorizing the Canadian-United States auto production agreement.

The agreement to integrate the North American car-and-parts industry, by abolishing tariffs for manufacturers, threatens small American firms and will encourage Canadian dumping, it was argued.

The agreement also represents a departure from past American treaty-making and would be a bad precedent, some witnesses said.

The Senate committee originally had scheduled only two days of public hearings but completed its third Thursday and hopes to conclude Monday with final questioning of Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz and others.

PRIORITY LIST

Since the bill to implement the agreement is on President Johnson's priorities list for this session, there is little expectation it will be defeated, despite searching scrutiny by a minority of the 17-man committee.

Canada has implemented the agreement by cabinet decree and the plan is in effect on a retroactive basis, although congressional approval still is lacking.

Main purpose, from Canada's view, is to expand domestic production by increasing sales to the U.S.

AUTOMATION HIKE ASKED

VANCOUVER (CP)—The International Woodworkers of America (IWA) convention called here Thursday for higher wage rates in jobs involving automated production.

Delegates approved a resolution to revise a job evaluation manual to increase rates for workers in operations most affected by technological change.

Bids High But Airport Start Seen

VANCOUVER (CP)—The long-awaited jet-age terminal at Vancouver's International Airport should be under construction within seven months, despite the fact bids were 30 per cent over estimates, spokesmen for the consulting engineers said Thursday night.

The spokesman for the firm of Phillips Barratt said plans can be trimmed to bring them close to original estimates of some $15,000,000.

Low bid for the job, announced in Ottawa Thursday, was made by Foundation Company of Canada and totalled $17,800,000. Other bids went up as high as $19,400,000.

Total cost of the proposed airport development, including the terminal, runways and other facilities, is estimated at $23,000,000.

Mayor William Rathie said the city would send a delegation to Ottawa immediately if there is any suggestion that the federal government might hold off on construction because of the high bids.

Car Safety Research 'Failing'

(With Jim Hume away in the Peace River to check on dam building progress, Ab Kent, who this week attended the unveiling of 1966 Chrysler in Calgary brings a first-hand report on new cars, car safety and allied subjects.)

By AB KENT

CALGARY—Neither the public nor the automotive industry is doing what it should to make car travel safer.

This was the word given earlier this week to Canadian reporters taking part in a Calgary preview of 1966 Chrysler products.

The speaker was Roy Haeuser, and he should know. Besides being the company's automotive safety engineer, he is a respected member of many North American bodies concerned with safety, from the American Society of Automotive Engineers and National Safety Council, to Boy Scouts of America.

Despite the hundreds of thousands of dollars spent on accident research, results leave much to be desired.

CONTRIBUTING

"We're not doing the things we should be doing on either side of the border to find out what are the contributing factors to accidents," Haeuser said.

(He did not explain how Chrysler spent $76 million for 1965 safety features and promotion without more satisfying results.)

Speaking of safety features added to the Canadian Chrysler line, the engineer referred to such long-standing items as brake lights and turn signals that are taken for granted.

STOP LIGHTS

There are not even statistics showing that stop lights and turn signals are doing their job, Haeuser said.

But the public, too, is apathetic toward safety features, rarely taking advantage of items that have been offered as options on most cars for years.

For example, Haeuser said, there are so many boat and camping trailers on the road today a motorist is well advised to order a trailer-towing package incorporating heavy-duty rear suspension, clutch and brakes, more horsepower under the hood, higher capacity electrical system and extra duty brake and turn lights.

This can be picked up as a factory-installed kit for about $100 in Victoria, making for a more durable car as well as a safer one—and eliminating some of the mushiness of standard suspensions.

The price does not include heavy-duty tires.

If there were a hitch in the deal it would be perfect. Chrysler men have no logical explanation why a buyer still must hand over $16 for a dealer-installed trailer hitch.

The safety features included on 1966 Chrysler cars are:

New inner door latches—except on Valiant and Barracuda—lessening likelihood of accidental opening; windshield washers and variable speed wipers; double thickness windshield plastic interlayer; left fender rear-view mirror and a new shoulder harness available at dealers.

Other features of the Chrysler line cover the acrylic paint in a new range of colors; a new power brake booster; disc front brake option for Valiant, Plymouth Fury and Dodge Polara; a 440 hp engine; tilting, telescopic steering column; multi-position front passenger seat, and reduced error of 0.3 per cent on speedometer-odometer units.

The range of models shown and test-driven in Calgary foretold scant departure from the current size, overall design and lines of Chrysler or the other big two auto makers. Generally speaking, the new cars have taken more in looks from the Valiant line, borrowed vaguely from the GM bodies and have many of the angles common to the Ford lineup.

Committee to Probe Veteran's Pensions

OTTAWA (CP)—A three man committee has been appointed to study the methods and organization of the Canadian pension commission, the veterans affairs department announced today.

The commission sets the amounts and conditions of pensions to disabled war veterans and was often accused in the last Parliament of penny-pinching.

Today's announcement said

Irish Quit Cyprus

NICOSIA, Cyprus (Reuters)—The 600-man Irish contingent serving with the United Nations peace force in Cyprus will not be replaced when it completes its tour of duty later this month, a United Nations spokesman said this week. The withdrawal of the Irish contingent, whose maintenance has been a heavy financial burden on the Irish government, will reduce the United Nations peace force to little more than 5,000 troops and civilian police.

the scope of the inquiry is not limited, but the committee had been, specifically instructed to study all matters relating to:

—The organization, methods and procedures used in the adjudication of disability and other pensions paid under the Pension Act.

—The interpretation by the pension commission of such sections of the pension act which it (the study committee) feels should be considered.

The study will be directed by Mr. Justice Mervyn Woods, 56, of the Saskatchewan Appeal Court, a naval officer during the Second World War who served as national president of the Royal Canadian Legion in 1960-62.

Other members of the committee are Jean-Pierre Giroux, Quebec deputy minister of lands and forests, retired county court Judge Walter J. Lindal, 78, of Winnipeg, both veterans.

The committee has been asked to report to the government within three months "or as soon as possible thereafter."

APPOINTED chairman of Quebec Securities Commission is Nantel David, 53, who previously was the commission's secretary-general.

B.C. Man Missing

SALMON ARM (CP)—Accountant Keith Barrow, 42, was reported missing and believed drowned Thursday. His car and clothes were recovered at Eagle Bay on Shuswap Lake, police said.

NEGLIGENCE CLAIMED

Man Launches Suit In Grease Pit Fall

A man who stumbled into a grease pit on Christmas Day, and spent the rest of it in hospital, is suing a Victoria service station for damages.

In B.C. Supreme Court Thursday, William Douglas Tang told how he became a hospital patient after stumbling into a "deep grease pit" at the service station at Government and Douglas.

He said he suffered dislocation of the shoulder and other injuries and had to give up his employment as a warehouseman, cab driver and private contractor and take less remunerative work.

He claimed that the accident was due to negligence on the part of the service station.

Mr. Tang said he fell into the grease pit when he went into the service station to purchase stove oil. He is now employed as a National Employment Service officer at Comox.

He said he preferred working outside and added that, before the accident, he had hoped to save enough money to start his own business.

Student Paintings On Display Tonight

Paintings and sketches by 71 UBC architecture students will be displayed tonight from 7 to 9:30 at the old YMCA gymnasium on Blanshard Street.

The works, executed during an eight-day field trip here, will depict Victoria streets and landmarks.

Admission is free.

Loffmark Seeks Ottawa to Pay

VANCOUVER (CP)—Provincial Trade Minister Loffmark says the federal government should join B.C. in developing the Alaska Highway since many of the benefits would be national in character.

He told the Associated Milk Foundations of Canada here Thursday that "these benefits will go not only to B.C. but to the Yukon, Northwest Territories, Alberta, northern Saskatchewan and Alaska."

He said the provincial government feels the benefits through the development of any one of four industries—hydro, gas and oil, mining and tourism—would be sufficient to pay for paving the road within three or four years.

Referring to hydro development, Mr. Loffmark said power generated from development of the Columbia River will be insufficient to meet demands within three years.

The provincial government was already doing feasibility studies on possible power developments on the Iskut and Lard Rivers in northern B.C., he said.

Earlier, Maurice Hart of Oshawa, Ont., outgoing president of the association, said the Canadian dairy industry faces many changes in the years ahead. Small dairies, he said, are rapidly being absorbed by larger ones, provincial governments are introducing new dairy legislation and producer co-operatives are expanding rapidly.

More than 150 delegates from across Canada are attending the conference of the association, made up of dairy farmers and distributors as a non-profit, educational organization to provide information and encourage milk consumption.

Rivard Aides Strangers

Air of Mystery Marks Evidence Of Dope Runner at Texas Trial

By JOHN LeBLANC

LAREDO, Tex. (CP)—The U.S. government neared the end of its dope conspiracy case against Lucien Rivard today after four days of evidence alleging more than 300 pounds of heroin of astronomical value was controlled by the burly Montreal resort man.

Government prosecutors were expected to complete their testimony against Rivard and three Montreal co-defendants during the day, and the main defence submission was to start Monday with witnesses who were to be flown in from Canada.

The major case for the government was rounded out late

$50 Million Price Tag on Cargo

By the estimates of border officials here, the cargo that Beauchemin said he had tucked away under the back seat of a car in plastic bags would be worth some $50,000,000 at the addict level.

Earlier evidence from another self-asserted Rivard runner-turned-informer, Joseph Michel Caron of Montreal, was that he knew of or participated in three other 1963 Rivard-directed shipments into the United States to the retail value of around $150,000,000. About one-third of this was seized here en route in from Mexico and forms a major exhibit in the government's case.

Beauchemin, a natty dresser with expensive tastes—he and a woman companion from Montreal were taking the sun at Acapulco, Mexico, when he first met Rivard—testified he got into narcotics by begging Rivard to give him a chance to make

Dealt Directly With Rivard

Beauchemin said all his dealings were directly with Rivard—for whom he had worked as a waiter in Rivard's Domaine Ideale resort—and he said that the one consignment he brought into Canada was turned over to Rivard with no one else present.

Like the transactions described by Caron, there was an aura of intriguing casualness about the whole Beauchemin operation, as he told it.

Rivard had installed a secret compartment under Beauchemin's car to hold the drug. When he asked Beauchemin if he knew how to open it, that operative said, he replied that he did, because he wanted to look like a "real professional."

Police Officer Gave Directions

Back in Canada with nine bags left, Beauchemin and his companion couldn't find a place to stay at Niagara Falls, Ont. So they got a policeman to direct them to a place 15 miles outside town.

On his arrival in Montreal, Beauchemin recounted, he met Rivard at a drive-in eatery and while the loot-laden car sat outside, they had three or four

War on Fruit Fly

MEXICO CITY (Reuters)—Mexico, Central America and Panama, under the aegis of the United Nations, have signed a treaty to join in trying to eradicate the Mediterranean fruit fly with the help of the cobalt bomb. Each of the seven signatory countries will invest $504,000 in the project.

Thursday with the evidence of Roger Beauchemin, 33, a chunky former waiter from Montreal, who said that in 1963 he transported about 84 pounds of dope from Mexico in a single automobile run for Rivard, dropping off some in the U.S. and delivering the remainder personally to the chief defendant.

some fast money to get out of debt.

He left at least one mystery behind. He never did explain how he happened to be caught—though the RCMP appears somewhere in the background—and he was not tied in by the other major witness, Caron, who never mentioned his name in testimony.

For his part, Beauchemin said he never knew Caron—though their testimony indicated they were dope runners at about the same time—and he gave no evidence implicating in any way the other three Canadians on trial with Rivard.

He said he recognized him in court, but had had no dealings with Charles Emile Groleau, described by the prosecution as Rivard's right-hand man, and did not even know by sight Joseph Raymond Jones and Julien Gagnon, alleged to have brought in dope from Europe that Caron delivered into the U.S.

He set off with a woman companion.

It turned out that he didn't understand the strongbox, which proved collapsible anyway. When he went to work on it at Mexico City, it fell to pieces. Whereupon, Beauchemin and the Mexico City crew tucked the bags underneath the back seat.

When he got to Flint, Mich., Beauchemin recounted, a more careful intermediary there was stunned to find that the Flint-consigned part of the shipment had been tossed on the floor of the messenger's motel room. One of the plastic bags had burst open. The Flint man—mentioned only as Frankie—hurriedly heaved his 69 bags into a couple of valises and vanished.

beers. Rivard paid. After that, the witness said, they went out to their cars and Rivard dropped the container into a big paper sack, tucked it in his trunk and drove off.

Some time after this friendly interlude and after his arrest, Beauchemin said, he became afraid of Rivard to the extent that this was one of the reasons he told a different story under oath—omitting reference to heroin—to the Texas grand jury that indicted the Canadians.

"I was thinking," he said, "that if Lucien Rivard ever got arrested, he would probably..."

The jury never did hear just what he was thinking because Judge Ben C. Connally stopped him in mid-sentence when the battery of defence lawyers leaped up protesting.

... WE'LL FIGHT

reporters in London the ultimatum was "a serious, indeed dangerous development."

Shastri said China had accused India of 300 intrusions and said the Indians "long had been using the territory of Sikkim against China."

The prime minister said India had made strenuous efforts to settle the border quarrel and had issued strict instructions to troops not to cross the border. He added he was fully satisfied no violations occurred.

In the war itself, an Indian spokesman said today that 29 Pakistan Patton tanks were knocked out Thursday in fighting in the Sialkot area.

Further south, on the Lahore front, Pakistanis had withdrawn to the western bank of the Ichogil Canal, six miles from the city, and were resorting to shelling, he said.

Pakistan radio said today that Pakistani forces threw back a fierce Indian armored attack on defences ringing Sialkot.

The report said Pakistani bombers Thursday night struck at Indian concentrations in the Jammu-area in Kashmir, as well as air bases at Halwara and Adampur.

Campaigners Warming Up

Two prominent federal politicians will mount platforms here in election campaign warm-ups.

Parliamentary assistant to Prime Minister Pearson, Jack Davies speaks to a Liberal nominating meeting Wednesday at 8 p.m. at Tillamook School. Mr. Davies was the last MP for Coast Capilano. The meeting is sponsored by Esquimalt-Saanich constituency association.

Guest speaker at a Victoria Progressive Conservative nominating meeting Sept. 29 in Empress ballroom will be former External Affairs Minister Howard Green. Time is 8 p.m.

Gas Grenades Used By Cong

SAIGON (CP)—Communist guerrillas were reported to have attacked a government outpost with gas grenades Thursday night while American and South Vietnamese forces killed 37 Viet Cong in widespread search-and-destroy operations.

In the air, U.S. planes continued to pound North Vietnamese military installations, but lost four aircraft Thursday, two of them in Communist territory north of Hanoi.

secretary-general in the negotiations.

Thant told the council: "If success has not yet been achieved in securing compliance with the council's resolutions, that is all the more reason for making further strenuous efforts for a ceasefire as well as for long-term solutions... in saying this I am thinking not only of the wellbeing and future of the governments and peoples of India and Pakistan, but also of the hopes of mankind for a more peaceful world which are centred on the United Nations."

The secretary-general said a continuation of the fighting would be disastrous not only to India and Pakistan but would have much wider effects because both countries "are linked in a particular way with the mainstream of world affairs."

"Quite apart from the wellbeing of the two nations concerned," he said, "there can be little doubt that a real danger to world peace is now imminent."

UN Action Backed

OTTAWA (CP)—The Inter-Parliamentary Union wound up its 54th conference today by declaring its unanimous support for United Nations' efforts to mediate the Kashmir dispute between India and Pakistan.

The final plenary session of 600 legislators from 61 nations accepted without debate or a recorded vote a resolution dispatching their "most sincere wishes" to UN Secretary-General U Thant in his bid to halt the conflict in accordance with the principles of the UN charter.

The one-sentence resolution, presented by E. L. Mallalieu of Britain, made no attempt to assess blame between India and Pakistan and refrained from offering any detailed recommendations on possible terms of settlement.

Herb Hoover High Produces for Sox

Morehead Misses Perfect Game By Walking Rocky

BOSTON (AP) — Herbert Hoover High School in San Diego, Calif., produces some pretty fair baseball players. It sent Ted Williams to Boston Red Sox and now Dave Morehead.

Morehead, 22, fired the first American League no-hitter in three years Thursday as he allowed only one man to reach base in Boston's 2-0 victory over Cleveland Indians.

The right-hander, who earned a job with the Red Sox in 1963 though only two years out of high school, barely failed to match Sandy Koufax's perfect game for Los Angeles Dodgers in the National League last week.

Morehead walked Rock Colavito on a 3-and-2 pitch at the start of the second inning. Then he struck out Fred Whitfield, Chuck Hinton and Pedro Gonzalez.

"I can't believe it," Morehead said. "Look, I threw only 105 pitches. That's my all-time low. And I don't think I have to say it's my all-time thrill."

FACED PINCH HITTERS

There was little doubt that Morehead was nervous as he took the mound for the ninth inning. And Cleveland manager Birdie Tebbetts made sure the kid earned his no-hitter.

Morehead, who struck out eight, was called up to face three straight pinch hitters. Larry Brown lined to shortstop Eddie Bressoud and Lou Clinton, a former Boston outfielder, hit a liner directly to centre fielder Jim Gosger.

Tebbetts sent up speedy Vic Davillio. The Red Sox huddled at the mound and decided to try and get Davillio to hit to the right side, while being alert for a bunt.

Morehead fired two blazing strikes past the Cleveland pinch hitter and Tebbetts hurried from the dugout for a conference with his batter. Unruffled, Morehead threw a fast curve which Davillio hit back to the mound. Morehead fumbled the ball, then threw into the dirt. But first baseman Lee Thomas scooped it up for the final out.

SLIDER HELPS

Morehead, who received an estimated $50,000 bonus after graduation from Herbert Hoover High, had won only nine of 25 previous decisions, while posting an unimpressive 4.27 earned run average. He said he used a recently-acquired slider with his fast ball and curve.

Morehead's no-hitter, the 10th for a Boston Red Sox pitcher, earned him a new contract with a $1,000 raise. Owner Tom Yawkey congratulated his young hurler and offered the contract, explaining baseball rules ban a bonus.

The no-hitter stole the show from the American League race. Minnesota Twins were rained out of a scheduled game with Kansas City Athletics and their magic number to clinch the pennant remained at six. No other AL games were scheduled.

CABLEVISION VIEWERS 'IN' THANKS TO CADI

VANCOUVER (CP) — Cablevision fans in Victoria will see Saturday night's B.C. Lions-Montreal Alouettes football game here by virtue of a decision, Thursday, in Supreme Court.

Mr. Justice Angelo Branca granted an adjournment of an application by the Canadian Broadcasting Corp. to set aside an injunction granted the western club last week.

The injunction compelled CBC to provide a feed of last Saturday's game between Lions and Calgary Stampede and this week's game.

The CBC claims its contract for televising games does not oblige it to provide the feed.

Willie Relaxes But Not Giants

Associated Press

The only thing Willie Mays did was get egg on his shirt but San Francisco Giants took another long stride toward the National League pennant.

Playing without Mays for only the sixth time this season, the Giants reeled off their 14th straight victory by beating Houston Astros 5-1 Thursday night and stretched their lead to 4½ games over Cincinnati Reds and Los Angeles Dodgers.

Mays took part in a pre-game egg-throwing contest and finished out of the money after one of the eggs broke in his hand and splattered. Then he sat down on orders from manager Herman Franks, his day's work done.

It was the 15th time this season Franks had decided to give Mays a rest but only the sixth time he was not used at some point in the game.

METS DOWN REDS
The Giants, making the most of Cincinnati's 7-3 loss to New York Mets, tacked one full game on their lead and assumed a commanding position with time running out on the Reds and Dodgers.

The Giants now have 16 games left — including seven with the Reds, Los Angeles and Cincinnati, both with 15 remaining, meet three more times.

The Giants move on to Milwaukee tonight for the opener of a three-game series with the Braves. The Reds are at home for a three-game set against Houston and the Dodgers, who downed Chicago Cubs 2-0, open a three-game series at St. Louis.

BRAVES, PIRATES LOSE
In other NL games Thursday, fourth-place Milwaukee slipped seven games back after an 8-6 loss to Philadelphia Phillies and the fifth-place Pittsburgh Pirates fell 9½ games behind, dropping a 2-1 decision to St. Louis Cardinals.

The Giants finished off the Astros with a four-run first-inning uprising, Willie McCovey's third-inning homer and the six-hit pitching of Bob Bolin.

Singles by Dick Schofield and Jesus Alou and a walk to McCovey loaded the bases with none out in the first against Dick Farrell. Jim Hart brought one run home with a sacrifice fly, then Len Gabrielson tripled in two and scored on Tom Haller's sacrifice fly.

Sandy Koufax, the Dodgers' 22-game winner, made his second relief appearance of the season in the ninth inning against the Cubs, setting them down 1-2-3 after Claude Osteen had walked leadoff man Billy Williams.

LOST WEIGHT
For the first five days, he had to be fed intravenously and when he came out of the hospital he was "a bag of bones." Crozier said he doesn't see any reason why his loss of weight should affect his hockey this season.

"I'll just have to be careful, but I feel okay now. I'll wait until I get to camp, then have the club doctor prescribe a diet for me. Apparently it can recur if I over-indulge in anything, especially fatty foods."

HORSE RACING IS SERIOUS BUSINESS

Little lady of the turf, Cindy Olson, takes her work seriously. When help was needed with Champagne Waltz, she stepped in and took a hold of the seven-year-old mare with all the aplomb of a veteran.

Knee Injury 'Ousts' Keenan

A gimpy one has pulled the pins out of Larry Keenan's hopes of a National Hockey League trial with Toronto Maple Leafs.

Keenan, a 35-goal scorer for Victoria Maple Leafs of the Western League last year, failed to pass a medical check-up at Toronto's training camp in Peterborough and is scheduled to undergo a cartilage operation.

Victoria manager Buck Houle said Keenan will be out of action "for about six weeks" and "in all probability, Larry will be returning to Victoria."

Keenan, who celebrates his 25th birthday Oct. 1, injured his knee in the WHL semifinals with cattle Totems last spring. It was earlier believed that an operation would not be needed.

TOUGH BREAK

"It's a tough break for Keenan," added Houle. "But he does have youth on his side, and it would be all for the best to have the operation done as soon as possible."

Not so young is another Larry, Regan.

The 35-year-old right winger showed up in Toronto camp Thursday and asked coach Punch Imlach for a tryout. Regan spent the last two years coaching in Europe.

Imlach is giving Regan a chance because "I owe Larry some favors."

Meanwhile, in Vancouver, it was announced that veteran defenceman Jack Evans will join the Canucks. The big rear-guard, 37, played with Los Angeles last season.

Red Sox Release General Manager

BOSTON (AP) — Mike Higgins was fired Thursday as executive vice president and general manager of Boston Red Sox.

In a surprise announcement, less than two hours after the Red Sox's Dave Morehead threw a no-hitter against Cleveland, owner Tom Yawkey issued a brief statement announcing Higgins "will no longer remain with the Red Sox organization."

Anglers Blame Herring Nets For Small Fish

By DOUG PEDEEN

Sportsmen who have been campaigning for greater restrictions on herring seiners are getting a lot of support these days from anglers who were chasing coho salmon at Northwest Bay last weekend.

Fishing was hot and limit catches were common as the silvers grabbed bucktail flies at a merry rate. But, as has been noted many times this year, the fish were smaller than normal. Many of the mature coho weighed in at only four or five pounds. The guys who collected limits were happy enough but they were somewhat disappointed at the average size of the silvers. Many of them believe excessive seining of herring has depleted salmon stocks in the Gulf of Georgia and tended to prevent those that survive from reaching normal size.

It's a belief that is supported by fishing resort operator Pitt Clayton.

"These coho are the size of fish we should be getting in May," said Clayton Thursday. "It seems obvious that some of the fish are not getting enough food and we think too many herring are being taken by seiners."

"Grilse are abundant all over the gulf but only about one in 10 is a keeper (12 inches). This is ridiculous. They should be larger."

"Grilse are voracious feeders and if food is available they'll grow. The only logical conclusion is that the feed is not there."

"Grilse are plentiful now, but where will they be next spring? We sometimes think too many of them end up as dog food or fertilizer, along with the herring."

Things slowed down after the weekend at Northwest Bay but the coho were hitting fairly well again Thursday with several eight and nine-pounders among the catches and action could again be brisk for weekend anglers.

Coho fishing has been spotty this week in most Island waters, but the fish are around and staging occasional lure-grabbing sprees. Almost any of the usual fishing areas should be a fairly good bet and the change in weather plus improving tides might make the next few days among the best.

Wednesday was the best day of the season as far as Mrs. Rose Cove is concerned. Trolling a bucktail fly on the surface in search of coho in Saanich Inlet, she tangled with a big one off Chesterfield Rock.

It's jumping antics almost had Rose believing she was battling a granddaddy coho. But even though the 22½-pounder was later identified as a spring salmon, it provided enough excitement to last most anglers half a season.

Cooler weather and this week's heavy rains have deer hunters hoping for better fortunes over the weekend. Gates on logging roads which were closed last weekend because of dry conditions should be open and it should be easier to move quietly through the bush.

Gates at Sooke and Cowichan are expected to be open until 3 p.m. Saturday and Sunday; gates at Nanaimo Lakes (Crown-Zellerbach) until 6 p.m., Leechtown and MacMillan Bloedel gates all weekend.

Hunters on opening weekend reported sighting fair numbers of deer but the bucks were usually warned by the noisy travel of riflemen and able to move to safety. Success, generally, was not good but results at Muir Creek were well above average as 50 hunters bagged 12 deer Saturday and 21 took six bucks Sunday.

At a Goldstream checkpoint Saturday, 388 hunters were taking home 20 deer for a 6 per cent success figure. At Colwood on Sunday, the ratio was 5 per cent as 12 bucks were counted among 271 hunters.

At Campbell River the figure was 12.3 per cent (396 riflemen and 49 deer), at Ash River 5.5, at Northwest Bay 5.4, Wolk Lake (Courtenay) 6.2.

QUICK SHOTS: Carrying a loaded firearm in a car is not only a good way to eliminate yourself or your best friend. It can also be a costly bit of carelessness. . . . One hunter checked at a roadblock with a loaded firearm in a car paid a $50 fine this week, another, charged with the same offence, will appear in a Kamloops court. . . . Three men without licences were fined $25 each. . . . Prosecutions for loaded firearms in vehicles in B.C. last season totalled 266 and Inspector Bob Sinclair of the game branch says: "We're really going to crack down on people who put loaded firearms in cars. It's a good way to get killed." . . . Maximum fine for the offence is $300.

Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association is again collecting deer hides and asks for the co-operation of hunters. . . . All profits from the sale of hides will be used for wildlife conservation. . . . Depots for hide collection are at Al's Esso Service (Hillside and Shelbourne), Highway Service (Colwood Corners) and Westview Service (Tillikum and Island Highway). . . . "Just. . . es, no 'eads, 'orns or 'ooes, please," pleads a game club official. . . . hunters who use motorbikes to bypass barriers on logging roads may spoil access arrangements for all hunters. . . . Members of the Victoria-Saanich Inlet Anglers' Association will be competing Sunday in their final major derby of the year. . . . It's the Coho-Chinook Derby and both coho and spring salmon may be weighed in. . . . fishing is from dawn to 2 p.m.

BRANDON (CP)—A student who lost the sight of one eye in a hockey game was awarded $3,910 by a Manitoba Court of Queen's Bench Thursday in possibly the first decision of its kind in Canada.

Kennet Agar, 19, of Killarney, Man., sued Brian Canning, 25, in connection with an incident at a game at Hartney, Man., March 4, 1963.

In giving his decision, Mr. Justice F. M. Bastin said the conduct of a player is instinctive and not premeditated and should not be judged by standards suited to polite social relationships.

"But a little reflection will establish that some limit must be placed on a player's immunity from liability," he said. "Each case must be decided on its own facts, so it is difficult, if not impossible, to decide how the line is to be drawn in every circumstance."

He said he concluded "the act of the defendant in striking the plaintiff in the face with a hockey stick, in retaliation for the blow he received, goes beyond the limit marking exemption from liability."

"Although provocation is not a defence, the law is clear that in assessing damages evidence of provocation should be considered in mitigation."

Evidence at the trial indicated Agar tried to hold back Canning and in doing so struck him on the back of the neck. Canning turned and hit Agar across the right eye and nose. He assessed special damages of $115 plus damages of $250 for injuries to the nose and $5,500 for the loss of sight of the right eye.

Als Lose George Dixon, Tackle Lions Saturday

MONTREAL (CP)

Halfback George Dixon, the Eastern Football Conference rushing champion in 1962 and 1963, has advised Montreal Alouettes he is retiring from the game because of a knee injury.

Dixon announced his decision following a Thursday afternoon practice. Alouettes play in Vancouver, Saturday.

The one-time 1962 Schenley Trophy winner told Alouettes coach Jim Trimble several weeks ago he would retire if his right knee did not recover.

The Thursday decision was reached after a consultation with team officials. In his earlier conversation with Trimble, Dixon had indicated his willingness to remain with the club until a replacement could be found and until he could further test the injury.

But the Als are able to replace him and he has now played his last game, he said Thursday.

Dixon, who will reach his 30th birthday, Oct. 19, was hampered by injuries throughout the 1964 season. He is a graduate of the University of Bridgeport and is in his seventh year with the club.

In 1962 the six-foot-one-inch 200-pounder set an Eastern Conference rushing record of more than 1,500 yards. The same year he was named Schenley winner, most popular Alouette and also given the Jeff Russel Trophy as most sportsmanlike player in the league.

Dixon was the league's leading rusher again in 1963 and was voted an all-Canadian for the second straight season.

THEY'RE ALL FLYING

Three of the Eastern Football Conference's teams are flying for their weekend games.

Ottawa Rough Riders and Alouettes fly to Western Canada for their interlocking games with Winnipeg Blue Bombers Sunday and Lions Saturday.

Toronto Argonauts continue to fly in discarded pros from the United States in their effort to assemble a winning team. Two more players arriving in camp this week are expected to see action against Hamilton Tiger-Cats in Toronto Sunday.

CALGARY (CP)—Doug Kyle of Calgary, Canadian open and Alberta cross-country champion, has been named Alberta's outstanding male athlete for 1965.

Mrs. Julie Sutton of Edmonton, Western Canadian and Alberta fencing champion, was named the outstanding female athlete.

Evidence at the trial indicated Agar tried to hold back Canning and in doing so struck him on the back of the neck. Canning turned and hit Agar across the right eye and nose. ## Track Squabble May Be Heading For Arbitration

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate commerce committee moved Thursday to submit the jurisdictional row over administration of U.S. amateur track and field affairs to an arbitration board to be appointed by Vice-President Hubert H. Humphrey.

Chairman Warren G. Magnuson (Dem. Wash.), said the committee voted unanimously at a closed meeting to introduce a Senate resolution authorizing creation of five-man board to arbitrate the feud between the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Amateur Athletic Union.

He said the resolution stops short of compulsory powers to force arbitration but he felt sure both sides would agree to go along.

He had recalled that both had agreed in principle during the committee's investigation of their bitter wrangle to accept binding arbitration.

RULES AND REGULATIONS GOVERNING ENUMERATORS FOR NOV. 8 VOTE

10,700,000 Heads Will Be Counted in One Week by 70,000

By MICHAEL GILLAN
OTTAWA (CP)—For six days starting Monday, 70,000 men and women will conduct a head count of the 10,700,000 persons eligible to vote in the Nov. 8 federal election.

The enumerators have until Saturday, Sept. 25, to complete the job, aimed at ensuring all qualified electors are on the lists of voters. With such a short period of time to work, mistakes and omissions are inevitable so the Canada Elections Act contains provisions to correct most of these.

Under the present system, introduced in 1938, two-member teams of enumerators canvass between 250 and 300 names in urban polling divisions.

The enumerators are chosen by the sitting member of Parliament and the runner-up candidate in the last election from among eligible voters in the constituency.

For election purposes, urban areas are generally cities and towns with populations of 5,000 or more.

A house-to-house canvass is required in urban areas. Enumerators are prohibited from using the telephone, but the law permits them to obtain information from janitors or neighbors. A card with the enumerator's telephone number is left at dwellings where nobody was at home and the information could not be obtained nearby.

In rural areas a house-to-house check is not required and collection of names by telephone is permitted.

TROUBLE FOR STUDENTS

Before your name goes on the voters' list the enumerator is

Edmonton Trial First For 2 Men

VANCOUVER (CP) — Two men charged in connection with the $1,200,000 mutilated money holdup here last February will be tried first in Edmonton on counts of possessing stolen money.

British Columbia Supreme Court Tuesday denied a habeas corpus motion seeking to hold James McDougall, 31, and Joseph Percival, 37, a former Vancouver policeman, in Vancouver.

The court found that an Alberta Supreme Court order demanding their appearance in Edmonton for trial on possession charges was lawful.

The pair also face charges here of robbery and of possessing stolen money.

ARRESTED IN EDMONTON

Percival and McDougall were arrested in Edmonton a short time after the theft from a warehouse here of $1,200,000 in mutilated bills that had been destined for destruction by the Bank of Canada.

The pair then went to Scotland while on bail that contained no restrictions on travel. Vancouver authorities subsequently had them extradited, and they were returned here by city detectives.

Their lawyer contended their removal to Edmonton for trial there would be a denial of natural justice.

supposed to make sure you will be 21 or over on polling day, Monday, Nov. 8, were living in the riding when the election writ was issued (Sept. 8 in this case) and are a Canadian, or a British subject with at least one year's residence in Canada.

The place-of-dwelling provision is causing problems in this election because on Sept. 8 many students were not living where they will be on Nov. 8. For example, a student might have been at home in one province when the election was announced but may be thousands of miles away at university on voting day.

A student who is otherwise qualified to vote is permitted to have his name on the voters' list at home or, if he is "duly registered and in attendance at a recognized educational institution" when the writ is issued, at the polling division at his school. But of course he cannot be on both lists and assuming he was living at home Sept. 8 he will lose his vote unless he can get back there on polling day.

Some enumeration problems arise in areas with a high concentration of ethnic groups because of the difficulty of determining whether the residents

'Love' Takes A Beating At Convention

VANCOUVER (CP) — Dutch workers in northern B.C. are being organized into a religious-oriented labor association, the International Woodworkers of America convention, was told here Wednesday.

J. Clayton Walls, the IWA organization director, told delegates the IWA has sent Jim Rouw of Hanover, Ont., a Dutch speaking union organizer, into the area in an attempt to combat the movement.

He said the Dutch organization—the Christian Labor Association of Canada—claims that the recognized trade unions such as the IWA are neutral, with a purely materialistic philosophy and should not be joined by Christians.

Mr. Walls said the CLAC offers a religious-oriented association as the alternative. It is opposed to the union shop and believes that brotherly love between workers and the boss will solve all labor-management problems.

"It's ridiculous to claim that the IWA is 'un-Christian,'" said Mr. Walls. "Many of our members and many of our organizers are church members and actively identified with their churches."

He said IWA inquiries into the new group show that the Dutch Reformed Church supports it.

are Canadian citizens or British subjects. In large cities there are problems when persons change residence—and riding—after the writ is issued. They are eligible to vote only in the riding where their former home is located.

SOME WON'T VOTE

Some persons or groups—Sons of Freedom Doukhobors, Jehovah's Witnesses and certain Indian bands—refuse to be enumerated or to vote.

In the 1963 election two enumerators were convicted in Quebec-Montmorency riding of padding voters' lists. About 30 names of deceased or non-existent persons on the lists in this riding were reported to Chief Electoral Officer Nelson Castonguay who ordered an RCMP investigation.

Incidents in Montreal Cartier and Montreal Papineau also were investigated but there was insufficient evidence to lay charges.

If a pair of enumerators disagree about the eligibility of any person, they postpone their decision and ask the returning officer in the riding to make the decision.

Even if left off the voters' lists prepared by the enumerators, you may still have a chance to vote.

Urban residents may appear in person at the revising officer's court Oct. 21 to 23. Or, if this is inconvenient and they so notify the returning officer, revising agents will call on them between Oct. 15 and 23 to help them draft formal applications to have their names added.

LISTS POSTED

To find out whether you are on the list you should look for the hydro or telephone pole in your neighborhood where the typed lists will be posted by Sept. 27 or 28.

In urban areas only printed lists also are sent to each elector, and the deadline for mailing these is Oct. 16. Since the lists are sent only to persons on the lists, a check with neighbors is the best method for making sure.

The mailed lists contain information about whom to call if a name has been omitted, locations of polling stations for the advance poll and the Nov. 8 voting, and the name and address of the returning officer.

The returning officer's name and address can be obtained by looking for the election proclamation hanging in all post offices, or in the committee rooms of political parties.

The returning officer can supply details about the election mechanics if you cannot find out from a neighbor or printed material.

In rural areas lists are tacked to hydro or telephone poles but printed lists are not mailed. It is because a qualified voter omitted from a rural list may still vote if he signs an oath at the polling station on Nov. 8 and has another elector take an oath vouching for him.

In rural areas, the enumerator holds his own revision and hears applications from unlisted persons on Oct. 21.

On Oct. 21 and 22, any elector is entitled to take the rarely-used step of objecting to the presence on the voters' list of another person's name.

The complainant must complete an affidavit spelling out the grounds for objecting. The person he is complaining about receives a copy. On Oct. 26 the revising officer deals with the matter if the complainant can produce preliminary evidence acceptable in court.

In urban areas, each enumerator receives a basic fee of $32 plus 10 cents for each name collected. In rural area, where there is only one enumerator for each polling division, the fee is $32 plus 11 cents a name.

Leaders Mend Own Fences Before Launching Battle

By VICTOR J. MACKIE
Times Ottawa Bureau

OTTAWA—Canadians will get a preview of the election campaign this weekend when Prime Minister Pearson and Conservative leader John Diefenbaker engage in some personal political campaigning.

Prime Minister Pearson flew to his home riding of Algoma East today. He was scheduled to speak at high school commencement exercises this afternoon in Espanola in northern Ontario. Saturday he will attend his official nominating convention and Saturday night address a public meeting in Espanola.

Mr. Diefenbaker was scheduled to spend his 70th birthday Saturday at a picnic at Oakville outside Toronto. He was to fly up to Toronto from Ottawa Saturday morning and will fly Saturday night to Winnipeg and then Prince Albert. The latter is his home riding where he will attend his nominating convention Monday night.

New Democratic Party leader T. C. Douglas is in his home riding of Burnaby-Coquitlam where he will kick off his party's national campaign at his nominating meeting Friday September 24.

Social Credit leader Robert Thompson will spend the weekend in Ottawa with a number of private engagements and will complete arrangements for the opening of his national campaign on Oct. 8. The site has not been settled upon.

Creditist leader Real Caouette is in northern Quebec and will attend his party's nominating convention at Ruyon next Friday night but will not launch the Quebec campaign until Oct. 3 when a major rally is scheduled for Quebec City.

Prime Minister Pearson will return to Ottawa from Espanola on Saturday night and will begin preparations for the official opening of the Liberal campaign at a dinner of candidates and members at the Chateau Laurier next Tuesday.

Strategy sessions of party candidates will follow that dinner.

Mr. Diefenbaker will be in Ottawa for a few days after his nomination and is tentatively scheduled to go to Halifax next Friday night for the rally which is to open the national Conservative campaign.

Mr. Douglas is to campaign his way back to Ottawa in a series of appearances through northern and southern Ontario. He is to arrive in the capital on Oct. 3.

Soviet Shakeup Rumored

MOSCOW (A)—Rumors persisted Thursday of impending changes in the Soviet hierarchy, but top Western diplomatic sources discounted reports of a power struggle.

One persistent rumor, widely credited in Western diplomatic circles, was that Anastas Mikoyan will retire as president on his 70th birthday Nov. 25.

It was the earliest of the rumors to build up around the regime of Premier Alexei Kosygin and Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev which took over last Oct. 14 after the ouster of Premier Khrushchev.

The Communist party central committee is scheduled to meet Sept. 27 and presumably any changes will be announced after it starts.

Among the rumors is one that Alexander Shelepin, a bright and ambitious leader, has been trying to engineer a takeover with the intention of seizing both the premiership and the party leadership. Khrushchev held both posts.

There is supposition among Western observers that if an orderly designation of posts is agreed upon by the party presidium and central committee, Shelepin may not be chosen.

There are other more senior and deserving figures, such as Nikolai Podgorny.

In some circles the name of Kirill T. Mazurov, 51, has come up as a man equally deserving younger than Podgorny, who is 62. Both are older than Shelepin, who is 47.

Pigeons Rescued

GENOA, Italy (UPI)—An angry crowd of animal lovers Wednesday trampled nets baited with bird feed in the main square of Genoa. The crowd also made noises to frighten away the pigeons before pigeon hunters could gather up the nets. Municipal authorities have been trying to get rid of the messy birds.

Soviet Offers Aid

MOSCOW (UPI)—The Soviet Union has indicated readiness to help build a multi-million-dollar high dam in Brazil, diplomatic sources said Wednesday. The sources said the Soviets have offered 12-year credits worth about $150 million to help harness Brazil's Parana River.

VANCOUVER HARBOR BACK TO NORMAL

Injunction Opens Waterfront

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A Supreme Court injunction has dispersed picketing oil workers from approaches to a mile-long stretch of Canadian Pacific Railway property on Vancouver's waterfront.

Mr. Justice J. G. Ruttan granted the CPR the injunction Thursday night after striking members of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers Union (OCA) halted freight movements in and out of the area.

A union spokesman said the move was retaliation for the CPR's refusal to allow picketing of the British American Oil Co. Coal Harbor depot on property leased from the railway.

The union is picketing BA or subsidiary company refineries at Kamloops, B.C., Clarkson, Ont., and Saskatoon. Workers at Pacific Petroleum's Mahon refinery at Taylor, B.C., voted 85-2 in favor of strike action Thursday, but union officials there indicated they do not intend to strike for the time being.

More than 100 union members at Moose Jaw's BA refinery held a strike vote Thursday night, but results were withheld pending returns from shift workers.

Another union—the Independent Gas and Oil Workers which represents 60 of 95 employees at BA's Port Moody refinery near Vancouver—was legally able to strike any time after midnight, but an official said action would depend on the outcome of further negotiations slated for this morning.

The day-long tie-up on the CPR's Vancouver harbor front saw longshoremen, railway freight workers and truck drivers turn back from the oil workers' picket lines.

Steamship freight handlers refused to cross the lines and longshoremen did not report for work on three deep-sea ships berthed in the area.

The CPR ferry Princess of Vancouver was loaded and unloaded by supervisory personnel, who also unloaded 18 trucks from a barge.

The management of the strikebound BA refinery at Clarkson is risking an explosion as supervisory and engineering personnel kept the plant operating, John Kane, local president of the oil workers' union, said Thursday.

He claimed the catalytic cracker, a device which chemically alters the composition of crude oil, must be watched constantly and is the most dangerous mechanism at the plant.

Refinery manager R. C. Beal admitted problems shortly after the union left but said the plant now is operating normally. He said BA would continue the supply of its products to customers.

NANAIMO (CP) — School board secretary James McPherrin attributed a $2.1 million jump in school referendums to go before ratepayers December 11 to rising construction costs and additions to the building program.

In August the school board announced a $1.2 million by-law would meet the needs of district 68 for the next three years.

A late session of the school board Wednesday night determined to set a $3.3 million expenditure before the ratepayers.

The near-trebling of the figure announced initially by the board is accounted for largely by the inclusion in the program of a 300-student junior secondary school at Wellington, said Mr. McPherrin. Ever increasing building costs also contributed to the increase he said. The proposed Wellington school is a $1.5 million item.

The voters will be asked to approve $3 million of the total expenditure for secondary and elementary needs, and $300,000 to provide 12 additional kindergartens. These items will be on separate ballots.

ISLAND ROUNDUP

PORT ALBERNI—A 25-year-old Bamfield man Thursday was committed to stand trial after two days of preliminary hearings for non-capital murder.

Jackson Ginger was charged in connection with the death of 16-year-old Violet Martha Jones, whose nude and strangled body was found in long grass near a CPR roundhouse July 22.

Ginger will face the charge in assize court in Nanaimo.

NANAIMO — Colin Cameron arrives in Nanaimo from Ottawa Friday, and Monday will be host to a Yugoslavian delegation of the recent inter-parliamentary meeting conference.

Mr. Cameron, veteran NDP MP for Nanaimo-Cowichan-The Islands, has been asked by the Speaker of the House to host the seven delegates on their B.C. visit.

The group will arrive here Monday. A coffee party is planned that morning along with a luncheon for the visitors and a tour of Harmac pulp mill.

The group may meet representatives of the provincial government when they travel to Victoria. The delegates leave for home from Victoria Monday night.

NANAIMO—Liberal candidate Douglas Greer Thursday disputed T. C. Douglas' claim that the New Democratic Party was first to kick off the federal election. Mr. Greer said he had signs posted outside his headquarters one hour after Prime Minister Pearson's announcement of a Nov. 8 vote.

DUNCAN — New building in the city should top the $1 million mark for the first time this year.

Figures to the end of August brought the year's total so far to $916,208.

Last year at the same time the total was $424,328.

DUNCAN — National Forest Products Week comes to a close Saturday.

Marking the occasion will be open houses at Cowichan Valley Forest Museum and at B.C. Forest Products Ltd. pulp and newsprint mills at Crofton.

The museum open house was originally set for Monday last but was rained out.

DUNCAN — City merchants were criticized this week by Ald. Hamish Muttter for not rallying co-operation with the annual Cowichan Fair.

It could be a Chamber of Commerce project to bring the spirit of the whole business community behind the exhibition, he said.

This year's Cowichan fair fell a few hundred short of setting a new attendance record.

But Ald. James Saunders said present day exhibitions lack something compared to the "old times."

He suggested: "What it needs is a band."

Mayor Jack Dobson referred the idea to Cowichan High School which is training bandmen.

SHORT STATURED Flying Phil Gagliardi, B.C. highways minister, was almost lost in the shuffle when Sayward school children staged this happy mob scene recently. The children were given a half holiday to celebrate opening of new Kelsey Bay road. The minister cut the ribbon.

100-FOOT PLUNGE FROM CLIFF

UNION BAY — Three hunters plunged 100 feet down a sheer cliff near Gold River this week and lived.

Only man seriously hurt was logger Des Stewart of Gold River, who is in satisfactory condition in Campbell River hospital.

His brother Gerry of Union Bay and friend Clarence Rhinard of Victoria, were treated for shock and cuts and released. The men were lucky to escape alive when their pickup truck slipped off the road, cartwheeled through the air and smashed on to its roof 100 feet below.

Des Stewart was thrown out during the fall. The two others were trapped and had to be released with crow bars.

The three were on a hunting trip from Muchalat Lake to Gold River at the time.

They were flown from Gold River to Campbell River hospital.

Arms Talks Recessed

GENEVA (UPI) — The 17-nation disarmament conference recessed Thursday with east and west bitterly blaming each other for the continued deadlock over new arms control agreements.

Chamber Brief 'Premature' Minister Says

Recreation Minister Kenneth Klerman today termed "premature" a B.C. Chamber of Commerce recommendation to define by statute, mining restrictions in Class B parks.

He said the chamber resolution asking the government to spell out prospecting and mining restrictions — is being implemented.

"But when you have 6.3-million acres of parkland it takes time," said the minister.

At present, would-be prospectors and miners are advised by the recreation department on areas they may enter, at the minister's discretion.

Chamber President
Turns Over Reins

DUNCAN — David Pollock, Duncan manager of the Royal Bank, has been transferred to the main Vancouver branch as assistant manager.

Mr. Pollock is president of Duncan-Cowichan Chamber of Commerce.

A special meeting has been called for Wednesday when he will hand over to vice-president Sam Keeble.

In his two years here, Mr. Pollock has been active in a number of organizations. He was an executive member of Duncan Curling Club and the local Lions Club.

Raid on School

BRISTOL, England (AP) — Five men dressed as policemen and soldiers broke into the armory of a private boys school Tuesday and attempted to steal 150 rifles. They were interrupted by police constable Jim Thomas, overpowered him, but left the rifles and fled. The school, Avonhurst, has an army cadet unit.

In other circles, opposition to mining in parks was voiced in no uncertain terms.

B.C. Wildlife Federation president, James C. Murray said:

"The parks should be put aside in perpetuity for future generations."

"It seems that when something like this (mining) starts, it gains momentum as time goes on."

In Nanaimo, Robert N. Pedersen, president of the Vancouver Island zone of the federation said:

"They only want immediate results. They are not thinking of future generations. Parks are set aside for future enjoyment, not for the almighty dollar."

Thomas Zaccarelli, president of Victoria Fish and Game Protective Association: "In the long run there's more recreation dollars in our parks."

"These mines peter out and all you've got is a big hole in the ground."

If you're trying to get the most for your insurance dollar, the comments of Russ Jackson may help you:

Russ Jackson talks about doubling his money with London Life

Why did Russ Jackson—football player and mathematics teacher—choose a $25,000 Jubilee whole life policy? Russ gave his reasons in a tape-recorded conversation. Here they are—in his own words:

"There are not too many places where you can double your money as well as protect your family."

This one comment sums up Russ Jackson's reasons for buying a London Life Jubilee policy. It's interesting to hear him explain the steps that led up to this investment.

"Being in the position I'm in, I have a lot of insurance people who contact me and try to get me to take insurance policies of one sort or another."

"But I had known some people in London Life and when a chap here in Ottawa contacted me, I was ready for insurance and more than willing to talk to him."

Why did Russ feel he was "ready for insurance"?

"I was married in 1961 to a Hamilton girl, Lois. We now have two youngsters—a boy, Kevin, and a little girl, Suzanne."

"This policy gives my wife protection if anything should happen to me and would enable her to carry on what I think would be a fairly normal life."

Protection is one side of his Jubilee whole life policy. Investment is the other. Russ looked into this thoroughly.

"As many people know, bonds and investments are part of the Grade-13 Algebra course. Teaching this to the students at high school has made me aware of all the pitfalls and possibilities in this type of investment. I believe the mathematical background has helped a great deal in evaluating this London Life policy."

"My monthly premium is $34.58."

"I bought the policy when I was 28. If I live to age 65, I will have paid in a little over $15,000. And if I leave my dividends to accumulate, which I plan on doing, then this policy can be worth over $31,000."

"This would be double the amount I would have paid in premiums."

(Note: the $31,000 figure Russ mentions above is made up of $13,600 guaranteed cash value and the balance in accumulated dividends. These dividends are based on the current dividend scale. While they are not guaranteed, London Life has had an outstanding record of dividend payments. Dividends allotted to owners of London Life profit-sharing policies for 1965 exceed $29 million.)

"I have to admit it's a long-term investment—you're not going to make a lot of money quickly—but the protection that you get with it makes it extremely attractive."

London Life insurance is flexible. Here are three of the choices Russ will have when he reaches age 65:

(a) He can continue to pay premiums on his $25,000 policy and continue to build savings.

(b) He can withdraw his $31,000 or so as a lump sum.

(c) He can use his savings to provide an annuity for life or for a set number of years.

Russ talked briefly about one other feature of his insurance program:

"I also have what is known as income continuance. This extends through to May of 1984, and guarantees Lois—if anything happens to me between now and 1984—$200 a month, every month, until that date in '84. The purpose of this is to guarantee my children—who are very young now—the chance of going to college."

(This income would be in addition to the $25,000 provided by Russ' Jubilee policy.)

Russ Jackson's story is not unusual. Today, most young men know they need insurance to protect their families. Many of them are discovering they can also double their money with London Life. A representative of the Company can show you how.

VATICAN COUNCIL

Prelate Scores Double Standard

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Britain's cardinal told the Vatican ecumenical council today it would be "false to deny the well-known fact that in certain places protestants have suffered persecution at the hands of Catholics."

John Cardinal Heenan of Westminster pleaded in St. Peter's Basilica for "clear and unanimous" approval of a proposed council declaration to make it Roman Catholic doctrine that all men are free to follow their conscience in religion.

Such a declaration is almost certain to be adopted despite bitter opposition from conservative prelates, mostly from Latin countries. A vote may come Monday or Tuesday.

Cardinal Heenan assailed the idea of a double standard by Roman Catholicism when it comes to religious liberty. He said the almost 2,500 council prelates must examine "what truth there may be" in the accusation of many non-Catholics that the Catholic church has two standards. He said the accusation was this:

"Where the (Roman Catholic) church is not strong and lacks political power—when, in other words, Catholics are in a minority, we are all in favor of religious liberty.

"But where most people are Catholics, it is alleged, we talk only of the so-called rights of truth. We are said to suppress the religious liberty of non-Catholics whenever we are strong enough to do so.

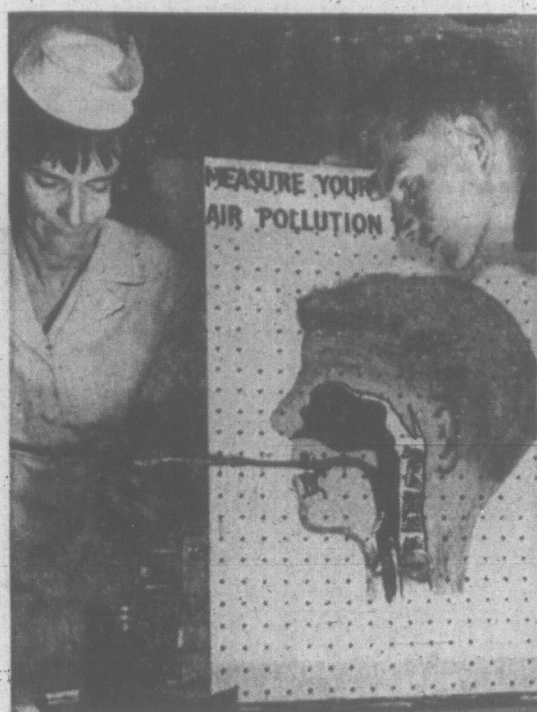

"In all honesty, we must examine ourselves to see what truth there may be in this accusation.

"It is, in fact, a travesty of Catholic doctrine which preaches one law when we are rich and strong and quite another when we are poor and weak.

"But it would be idle as well as false to deny the well-known fact that in certain places Protestants have suffered persecution at the hands of Catholics."

SWEDISH DIPLOMAT ALIVE IN 1961?

Red Version Challenged

STOCKHOLM (AP) — The Swedish government challenged the Russian version of the Raoul Wallenberg case again Thursday with a white paper saying the Swedish diplomat seized by the Russians in 1945 was reported alive in 1961.

Russia contends Wallenberg died in a Soviet prison in 1947, two years after he was mysteriously seized by Soviet soldiers in Budapest at the end of the Second World War.

He was credited with helping 20,000 Jews escape from Hungarian fascists by issuing Swedish passports during the war.

The white paper contained reports from prison witnesses and one from a Swedish professor who said a Russian colleague told her in January, 1961, that Wallenberg was "very ill."

The white paper came less than three months after Premier Tage Erlander set off a storm of public protest by saying the Wallenberg case should be closed. He made that comment after a visit to Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin in June to discuss the matter. On his return, he told Wallenberg's mother, Mrs. Maj Von Dardel, she would probably never know her son's fate.

The white paper says the Swedish government has made 15 approaches to the Russians since 1957, when the government of Nikita Khrushchev, admitting for the first time that Wallenberg had been in Russian custody, said the diplomat died of a heart attack in Lubianka prison in 1947.

Kosygin, in his talks with Erlander, also said Wallenberg died in 1947.

NO GOOD STUDENT BARRED, SAYS ENGLISH

'Uvic Fees Are Not Too High'

By SUE PELLAND
Students shouldn't have their education handed to them on a silver platter, Dr. J. F. K. English, retiring deputy minister of education, said today.

Dr. English was asked to comment on the Canadian Union of Students' National Student Day to be held Oct. 27. It highlights student demands for removal of all financial barriers to higher education.

He said that students must accept some responsibility in paying for their education. Tuition fees are not too high, he said, but they must be watched.

"No really good student," he added, "is barred from an education."

He said that last year B.C. provided scholarships and bursaries to some 3,000 university students.

"These are not top-notch students," he added, "but just those who make better than 70 per cent in their government exams."

He claimed the present loan plan is a "very reasonable" one. Any student, he said, can apply for a loan which he doesn't have to pay back until he graduates.

"I don't think these students have much of an argument," he said.

But he added that although there is not much possibility of students having their demands recognized now, they may in the distant future.

Referring to the University of Newfoundland's precedent in granting free tuition to first and second-year students, he said he didn't know if it was a good idea.

"I think they could have found a better way," he said, "like reducing the fees."

Dr. English said that he thought some other year rather than first year, would have been better since this is really an experimental one. Students must be responsible for paying some of their education costs, he said.

Postmen Get 'Overtime'

Overtime payments for Victoria postal workers, some of it going back as far as June, arrived this morning.

Postal union officials said there was no explanation for the delay. Two weeks ago the government deducted time lost during the July strike.

"After the strike, some postal employees piled up 50 and 60 hours overtime clearing the backlog of mail."

Saanich Bares Stadium Plans

Tillicum Site Suits Consulting Engineers

By ROGER STONEBANKS

Plans for a sports stadium with initial seating of 5,000 and eventual capacity of 17,000 were disclosed for the first time today by Saanich.

The details for the stadium, near the Tillicum Outdoor Theatre, were contained in an engineering report by Willis and Cunliffe of Victoria.

"It appears that the 40-acre site adjacent to the Tillicum Outdoor Theatre in Saanich is well suited to the development of a sports stadium complex for the Greater Victoria area," said the report.

The first stage of the development would cost an estimated $490,000, just over the amount available in Centennial grants and required contributions by Greater Victoria municipalities.

This would provide a stadium, amphitheatre with 3,000 covered seats, 2,000 open seats and parking for 1,000 cars.

The report said a stadium with an ultimate capacity of 17,000 seats and parking for 3,500 cars can be fitted into the natural geography of the area.

In addition to providing the required sporting facilities, this development would enhance the main approach to the city by providing an attractively-landscaped open space in a critical position.

Saanich has said it would seek ratepayer approval for purchase of the site, estimated to cost between $280,000 and $400,000.

The site would be part of the proposed capital projects budget due to be presented to property owners before the end of the year.

But the city has proposed the stadium be located at its 25-acre Topaz Park and is willing to borrow $600,000 against the McPherson endowment revenues to add to Centennial grants for the stadium itself.

There is tentative majority agreement among area municipalities that a stadium be the Centennial project. The question of the site remains to be resolved.

The engineering report, called a "site feasibility study," breaks down the $490,000 cost into $161,500 for the stadium and $104,900 for parking.

The rest of the money would be spent on a field house, concession and washrooms, sewer and water, street improvements, landscaping and engineering.

Access to the stadium would be from Burnside and Tillicum Roads. The report said substantiation of access and egress will require further investigation.

But the initial demand of 800 to 1,000 vehicles can be handled without major changes to existing road patterns.

It was also anticipated that at times when no movies are being shown at the outdoor theatre, more than 1,000 cars could be parked there.

The site is well served by major roads and is well placed in view of present and future expansion of population to the north and west.

Road improvements to handle an eventual 3,500 cars can be made when and as the demand arises.

The site itself would contain the stadium, with facilities for football and soccer, running tracks and athletic events.

An adjunct would house a baseball-softball diamond with seating for 2,000, a gymnasium or swimming pool and practice fields.

LEAVING Sept. 29 on a year's scholarship at the Touraine Institute in France is French language student Pauline Owens, 23, a first-class honors graduate from the University of Victoria, will seek a master's degree.

First Fall Concert

Silver Threads first fall concert will be held at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 22, not Thursday as previously stated in the Times.

The Silver Threads' Service Choir will perform under the direction of choirmistress Mrs. Dorothy Cuthbert at the centre on Centennial Square.

SAANICH STADIUM PLAN—IF EVERYONE AGREES

Sports stadium for Greater Victoria will look like this, if everyone agrees with Saanich's plans. Stadium at centre would seat 5,000 initially and provide for football, soccer and athletic events. Baseball-softball diamond at left would seat 2,000. Cost is estimated at $490,000 with Saanich willing to seek ratepayer approval to purchase the 40-acre site at between $280,000 and $400,000. Centennial funds would almost cover the cost of stadium. At right is the Tillicum Outdoor Theatre and in the centre background the federal forestry research laboratory. Sketch was prepared by Willis and Cunliffe of Victoria.

Topaz Expansion Outlined to City

Details of a land purchase to expand Topaz Park were discussed by Victoria city council traffic and zoning committee today.

The deal was outlined in a letter from Ocean Cement Ltd.

Topaz Park is the city's proposed site for a district sports stadium.

In an agreement discussed previously by vice-president D. E. Smith and Mayor R. B. Wilson, the city would get 8.25 acres of land adjoining Finlayson and Rose Streets for $200,000. The city would agree to street changes involving the company's Government Street operation.

It was also understood the city would have to make some street changes to allow the company to build a new bulk cement plant at its harbor property.

The firm agrees to sell the city sufficient land for $15,000 to enable a new traffic lane to be built on Bay between Rock Bay and Government.

In turn, the city would support the firm's application to have Mill Street, bisecting the Ocean Cement property, closed to traffic, for which the city would get $50,000.

Further, the firm would write a letter of intent covering a future ture easement over its land for a viaduct. This is proposed in the Capital Region Planning Board long-range transportation study.

The viaduct would connect Bay Street with Queens for one-way traffic.

Traffic changes would have to be made to accommodate increased heavy truck traffic with the new plant.

The committee rejected a traffic plan for one-way streets in James Bay, and asked that a revised plan be brought in.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow objected to the proposed designation of Niagara Street as a one-way route up to a point, then as a two-way street from there. It is unsound in principle and dangerous, he said.

MUM'S THE WORD AND OFF TO JAIL

An 18-year-old youth who refused to tell who supplied him with liquor was sent to jail today for one month.

Richard Miller, 68 Government, pleaded guilty Thursday to being a minor in possession of liquor. He was asked by Magistrate William Ostler where he obtained the liquor.

Miller refused to say and was remanded in jail overnight to "think it over." He again refused to disclose the source of his supply this morning and the jail sentence was imposed.

In another case, Magistrate Ostler advised a sailor against the "stupidity of drinking with persons you don't know."

He imposed a $75 fine on Terence Chenier and told him he was fortunate that the incident that brought Chenier into court had not turned into a "catastrophe."

Chenier originally was charged with robbery but Crown Prosecutor Peter Birkett withdrew the charge. Constable Lou Pletz said Chenier got into a dispute with some drinking companions about a bet they made.

He said Chenier hit one of his companions in the face with his fist. The accused was in an advanced state of intoxication, said the constable.

Topics of the Day

The intermediate section of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at Douglas and Hillside for a field trip to Goat Rock, off Munn Road.

There will be meeting of the leader group on Sunday at 2:30 p.m. at the Francis Park Nature House.

Two juveniles have been arrested by police and charged with responsibility for a wave of break-ins in the city Wednesday.

Police said today the boys are still under investigation and it is not yet determined just how many charges they will face. They will appear later in juvenile court.

A series of student recitals will be held in Victoria monthly under the auspices of the B.C. Registered Music Teachers Association.

The decision was reached at the general meeting of the Victoria branch, Thursday, at St. Margaret's School.

Nomination date for Victoria New Democrats will be set at a meeting Monday night.

The association's members will meet at 8 p.m. at 1316 Government to decide on the nomination date and also to discuss the Nov. 8 election.

Stamps Offered Exhibited Here Are Worth $60,000 a Lick

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

Some of the items are said to be worth $60,000 apiece.

The stamps are under strong security in the Empress and no unauthorized persons are likely to see them before they leave for Vancouver later today.

Under its venerable roof is a collection of classic Canadian stamps insured for more than $80,000 sterling.

Expert Hired By Hospital

An expert in business management T. M. Sherwood of Vancouver, will join the staff of Royal Jubilee Hospital Oct. 1. Administrator George Magiers said Thursday, Mr. Sherwood will analyze and streamline administrative procedure which has become increasingly cumbersome as the hospital grows.

He said Mr. Sherwood is a top man in his profession.

Easy Way To Contact The Voters

Esquimalt-Saanich New Democratic Party candidate, Len Stephenson will be available every Friday evening from now until election day to meet the public.

He said this morning anyone who wants to discuss the party's program is welcome to come to campaign headquarters at 3280 Douglas.

"I am sure this will be more convenient for interested voters than the holding of small formal meetings in the urban sections of the riding," he said.

Coffee will be served for everyone between 8 and 11 Friday evenings.

But they were shown to more than 100 members of Greater Victoria and Vancouver Island Philatelic Societies Thursday evening.

TOURING CANADA

The stamps were exhibited here by Robson Lowe, world-renowned London auctioneer and stamp expert. He is taking them on a tour of cities across Canada and the eastern United States prior to selling them by auction in London, England, Oct. 27.

"The main object of the tour," Mr. Lowe said, "is to interest possible bidders. But I am also renewing old acquaintances in the stamp world of North America."

Victoria was the first port of call on the two-week tour. The stamps were actually brought here from London by Mr. Lowe's secretary, Miss Sarah-Jane Davis, who is as dainty and petite as many of the exhibits.

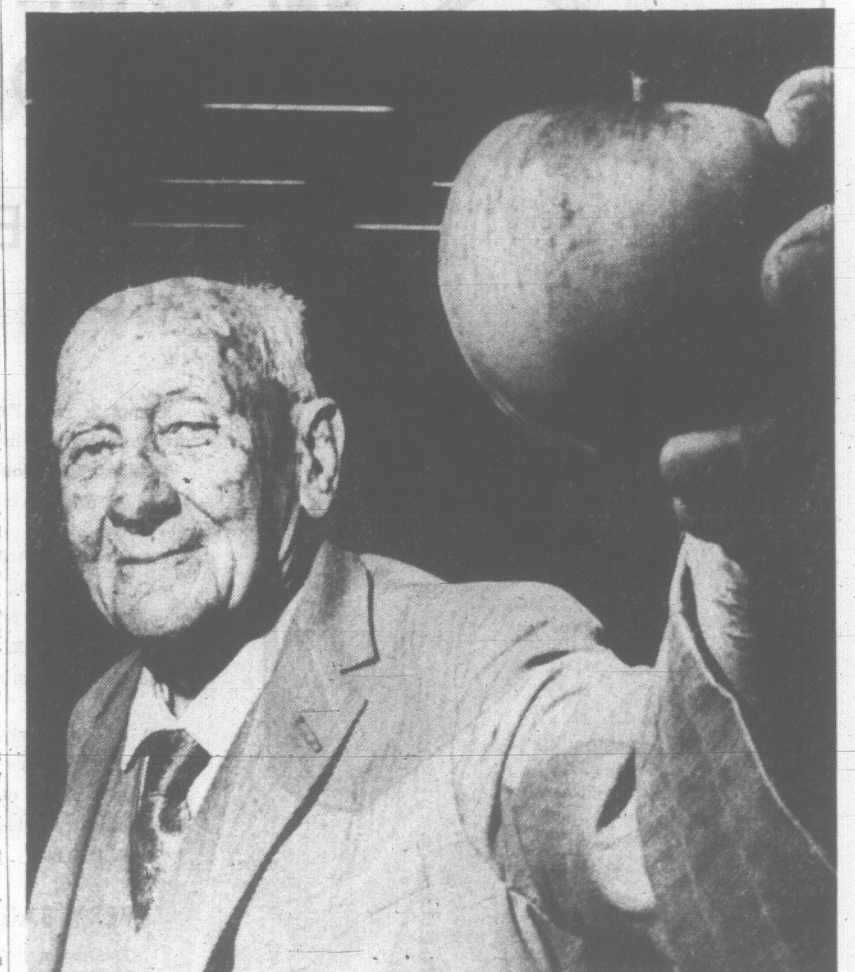

LOCKED AWAY

Miss Davis displayed the precious stamps to a Times reporter and photographer today, but lost no time in getting them under lock and key.

"They are a tremendous responsibility," she said, "but the work is fascinating. It is exciting to meet so many stamp collectors and share their enthusiasm."

The collection, which was shown in the London Court of Honor in 1950, is named after General Robert Gill of Baltimore, Maryland, who began assembling it in 1946.

Before being returned to London, the stamps will be shown in Vancouver, Edmonton, Ottawa, Montreal, Boston and New York.

Sunday Frug Same as Symphony?

By TERRY IZZARD

Church leaders split today on the question of Sunday dancing.

The "Never on Sunday" rule has been broken by the Scope Club which intends offering its doors to youngsters starting Sunday.

Former western secretary for the Lord's Day Alliance Society, Rev. Harry Allen, of James Bay United Church, isn't against the frug—or the mashed potato.

But he's against Sunday commerce.

He said: "Why should these people be allowed to get away with it?"

"Ordinary public dancing isn't allowed on Sundays. It's against the law."

"Surely Sunday is for a higher purpose than this."

Promoters of the Scope don't believe they're breaking the law.

Instead of charging an entrance fee, a collection plate will be passed round.

Even so, United church minister, Rev. Laura Butler, said: "I'd like to investigate further."

She asked: "Is this a good thing for our teen-agers? I don't think it's the best thing on Sunday."

She admitted: "It's better than what they could be doing."

"But it indicates to me that the home is not providing enough for its young people when they have to do this on a Sunday."

"Togetherness of the home on Sundays seems to be falling apart."

far better off in church-related groups on Sunday."

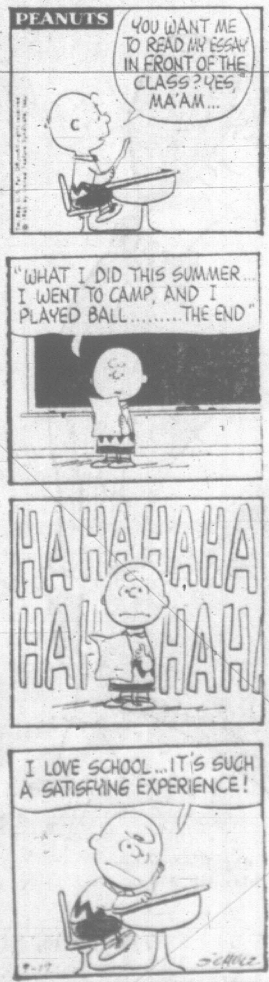

On the other hand, Presbyterian minister, Rev. Dr. J. Lewis McLean isn't so sure.

He said: "Anything that destroys the character of Sunday is to be deplored."

"But is this so bad? After all, theatres, sometimes operate on the same system Sunday."

"And Victoria Symphony gives Sunday shows."

"I wouldn't think dancing is any worse than listening to the symphony."

Halt 'The Meal Blues' With These New Ideas

By PENNY SAVER

I have a king-sized problem. The man of the family just phoned me to announce that he was bringing his employer and his wife to dinner this evening. What do you do on such short notice? All I was originally planning to have for supper was pork and beans, but how can you serve the boss beans? This is a problem which even the most efficient and organized housewife occasionally has to combat, and seeing as I am somewhat less than efficient and organized, it happens all too often.

So out I trotted mumbling dire imprecations against men who bring their bosses home for dinner—especially the day before pay-day.

While searching through the store for something different, tasty, and yet economical, for supper, I discovered a way to utilize the beans I had originally planned for the evening meal. I picked up a pound of beef-steak tomatoes, selling at 29 cents a pound.

Tomatoes and beans can be a real life-saver and provide an eye-appealing and taste-tempting meal which is quick to prepare. Simply hollow the tomato and stir the tomato meat into the contents of a can of beans and cook. Meanwhile, simmer a pan of ground round steak. Then layer the bottom of the hollowed tomato with the cooked ground round meat and cover with the beans until they reach the top.

Grate Cheddar cheese and pour over the tomatoes and finally top with slices of bacon, placed criss-cross over the top. Bake in the oven until the cheese-melts and bubbles and the bacon is crisp. Serve with a light tossed salad.

Another "side-plate special" to serve with the stuffed tomato is garlic bread a la Italy. This is French bread, spread with butter and garlic salt and topped with lots of pre-grated Parmesan cheese. Bake at 400 degrees in the oven until the cheese becomes crunchy hard. Your guests will keep asking for more. This cheese, selling at 29 cents a can, is the handiest food accessory to keep on your shelf.

It adds a special gourmet flavor sprinkled over a baked potato topped with sour cream—a tangy taste to shepherd's pin and a zest to even everyday-hamburger.

I'm planning on finishing the meal with a new type of cake I discovered, selling at 57 cents. This is old-fashioned finger-licking good cake in chocolate, white, spice or lemon, which somehow manages to stay fresh for days. Icing is creamy rich with that "the kind mother used to bake" taste.

TODAY'S RECIPE WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Q. I have an oily scalp problem. My hair is quite long and I have to wash it several times a week. We are going on vacation soon and will be gone a month and traveling most of the time. At times it will not be convenient for me to shampoo my hair. Are there any vitamins that will remedy this, or have you any suggestions for me on my trip?

A. There is no specific vitamin for this difficulty. The vitamin B family may be of some help. Eat a well-balanced diet and cut down on your fat intake some. Daily scalp massage will be helpful. I suggest that you take one of the dry powder shampoos along with you on your trip. This will remove dust and excess oil.

Q. Could you please give me an exercise which will reduce the inner thighs? I wear long skirts to hide the top of my legs.

A. Do this exercise. Lie on the floor on your back with your legs straight and your arms resting on the floor, extending out from your shoulders. Swing your right leg straight out to the side. Swing it back. Swing your left leg straight out to the left and swing it back. Continue, alternating right and left. Keep the legs stiff throughout the exercise.

Q. I have been trying to locate a chart with average weights for girls from 12 to 17, but I haven't found any. Would you please send me the correct weight for the following girls?

1. Height—5 feet 2½, age—15.
2. Height—5 feet 3½, age—17.
3. Height—5 feet, age—15.

A. For the first girl the weight is about 115 pounds. For the second girl, about 122 pounds, for the third girl, 105 pounds.

Q. Someone told me that if I rub acid on my warts they will go away. Is this true?

A. Do not try to treat warts yourself. See your family physician and ask him to remove them.

If any of my readers would like to have my leaflet "Clear the Way for Beauty" (tells about such blemishes as warts and blackheads, etc.) send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for it to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

Mr. and Mrs. R. S. Cooper, 360 Grange Road, have announced the engagement of their daughter, Leonette Carole, to Mr. Robert Bernard Toews, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Toews of North Surrey, B.C. DEAR ABBY...

Take Care

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am expecting my first child in a few months. My problem is this: I have raised two cats since birth and they are very dear to me. My husband and my mother say that if the cats are still here when my baby comes they are likely to hurt, or even kill, the baby. They say that cats are naturally attracted to a baby's mouth because of the scent of milk on the baby's breath, and a cat will suck the breath out of a baby trying to get the milk. I have talked to quite a few people about this and most of them say they never heard of a cat harming a baby. But one lady said she knew of a case where a cat jumped up into a baby's buggy and would have killed it but the mother got there just in time. Now I am worried. I would never put my cats above my baby, but I don't want to get rid of my cats unless I have to. Any information you, or your readers, can give me on this subject would be greatly appreciated.

LOVES CATS.

DEAR LOVES: What you have heard about cats harming babies is an old wives' tale. But cats are animals, and animals (like humans), are sometimes

DEAR ABBY: Last Christmas I sent over 100 Christmas cards. One of my relatives returned my card and scribbled "the same to you" on it, then signed her name.

I later learned that she had done the same to others who had sent her Christmas cards. Has there been a new amendment to the rules of etiquette to include this practice? If so, I may do it myself this Christmas. I could save a little money.

French, Spanish and Italian Artists ...

COUTURIER 'GREATS' RECEIVE VICTORIA OVATION

The greatest names in the world of fashion joined forces, Thursday afternoon, to give a capacity crowd in the T. Eaton Co. dining room a fashion treat they won't forget in a long time.

"Not for sale," said commentator Barbara Winkler, fashion co-ordinator for Eaton's Vancouver store as the mainland models pirouetted down the runway and among the guests' original gowns from the houses of Yves St. Laurent, Nina Ricci, Jean Patou, Castillo, Givenchy, Jacques Griffe, Christian Dior and Balenciaga. But even the warning didn't stop the audience from dreaming.

The affair was being presented by the Ladies' Auxiliary to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Nina Ricci, the designer who has made a name in the artistic draping of material, showed a soft powder blue gown with fabric draped over the model's hair and folded loosely over her arm. Removing the covering revealed a figure-skimming gown which flowed in easy folds to the floor. Bodice was tight and very low in the front, almost Grecian in the design of the empire waistline.

The varied hemline was shown by Yves St. Laurent in a modification of the style—a knee-length sheath cocktail dress with a long overskirt on train ruffled at the hemline.

Jean Patou designed a simple white sheath gown of arnel blend with a high-waisted front dipping low in the back.

A hostess ensemble was styled by Charles Griffe with a pyjama front and skirt back—all in one piece.

Putting the outfit on is a problem, until you discover the escape flap under the skirt at the back.

For those less formal, but still important after-five occasions, Christian Dior showed a soft, soft alabaster sculptured coat, loose-fitting but gathered at the waistline with a black belt. Sheer simplicity was the sheath in tone underneath, belted similar to the coat.

Balenciaga designed an evening coat and gown, styled to bring out the femininity of every woman. It was of non-glossy satin, with a wide flaring skirt and tightly-fitting bodice featuring a low neckline and a slit in back, running from a bow at the top of the neck to the waistline.

"Grey," said Barbara Winkler, "is the color-for-fall," as a model walked the runway in a fur fabric coat of pale oyster blended to deep charcoal.

Another model showed the two colors that are fashion's favorite for the coming season in a very slightly fitted dress of grey skirt and camel bodice.

The Spanish influence marked another ensemble of black—a slightly-fitted jacket reaching to the mid-thigh and styled with a deep lapelled neckline. The skirt was slim but shaped for easy movement. Several of the accents used to highlight the outfits were the "Mary Poppins" style umbrella or the pencil-slim "fashion sticks," colored to contrast with the ensemble.

A casual outfit with a sport-ing look was a grey Spanish-style fitted jacket, over a pair of tailored slacks—not tight-fitting, because no part of the pant leg was slimmer than the widest part of the model's leg.

For those important informal parties, one model moved among the tables in a flaring black wrap-around skirt with black and white patterned bodice, styled with a slightly scoop neckline. She swirled aside the skirt to reveal a pair of tight-fitting similarly-patterned slacks.

TRIPLE CROWN

Poker Players Winning Big Pot

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — When The Subject Was Roses opened at the Huntington Hartford Theatre this week, there was a special corps of enthusiasts: Frank Gilroy's fellow poker players.

All of them are in show business—writers, actors, directors, producers. They played poker every Wednesday night during the five years Gilroy lived here and worked in movies and television.

During that time the writer was moonlighting on a play script, turning it out in a realtor's office near his home in the Pacific Palisades. When he couldn't find backers to finance the play, Gilroy's poker pals contributed to the kitty.

"Most of them gave me $1,000 without even reading the play and wrote it off as a loss," said the playwright. "They all got their money back and they stand to make a tidy profit."

BARELY SURVIVES

Even after the play finally opened on Broadway, it seemed destined for quick death. Only 600 to its $30,000 budget and financial privations of all concerned allowed The Subject Was Roses to survive through losing weeks.

Survive it did, with glorious results. Last spring the play

ADAGE PROVES WRONG

Gentlemen do not prefer blondes all the time. Of the past 37 winners of the Miss America contest, only 10 were blondes.

was sprinkled with the Drama Critics Award, the Tony and the Pulitzer Prize, making it the fifth play to win the triple crown.

"Soon we'll have three companies going," Gilroy reported. "Jack Albertson, Martha Scott and Martin Sheen of the New York cast began a six-month tour here. Chester Morris and Maureen O'Sullivan took over in New York. And Dennis O'Keefe and Betty Field will be touring in the East. We've had a lot of interest for a movie deal but haven't made a decision as yet."

Gilroy, 38, is a hard worker with an admitted compulsion to write. He knows the folly of trying to do so in a household of growing youngsters. Wherever he writes—and now it's in Goshen, N.Y.—he rents a bare office which he furnishes with little more than a chair, typewriter and table.

WINNIPEG BALLET WINS U.K. PRAISE

By PETER BUCKLEY
LONDON (CP) — The British ballet had their first look at the Royal Winnipeg Ballet Thursday night and came up with almost unanimous praise for the group's vitality and promise.

The Royal Winnipeg opened a four-performance run at the midtown Piccadilly Theatre as part of the first-night program for the all-encompassing Commonwealth arts festival.

"The company is a joy to watch," wrote the ballet critic for The Daily Telegraph. "They have a simplicity and a spontaneity which are important qualities in any ballet company."

The reviewers were not universally impressed, however. Some individual members of the troupe earned high praise but several of the items on the program got a mixed reaction. Two of the four works presented were choreographed by Canadian Brian Macdonald and the critics were divided on how successful he is.

James Kennedy in The Guardian says Macdonald is a "really good choreographer" and finds that Macdonald's Aimez - Vous

Bach?—a combination of academic exercises and modern dance set to well-known Bach music—showed a "sensitive appreciation of the music" and ended with a "cheerful burst of virtuosity."

"This sort of mixture has often been tried before," Kennedy wrote. "I have never known it to succeed too well."

But the ballet critic of The Times spoke of the arrangement's "fundamental facetiousness" and criticized Macdonald's second offering, Les Whoops - De - Doo, for "trivial choreography and ponderously burlesqued humor" while praising the Royal Winnipeg's dancing of both items.

The Express' John Foster wrote that neither of Macdonald's old's ballets "is going to set the Thames on fire, but both were danced with great charm."

PICKS OUT TWO DANCERS

Oleg Karensky in The Daily Mail said Aimez - Vous Bach wasn't able to "make up its mind whether it was a serious abstract ballet or a parody of one, but it did include some very attractive classical dancing, led by Sonia Tavernier, and some exciting, almost acrobatic, dancing led by Richard Rutherford."

Clement Crips in The Financial Times gives full marks to Les Whoops-De-Doo but finds Macdonald's other work "tedious," and says the jive-like modern dancing in it "argues a choreographic insensitivity to music."

Crisp singles out Beatrice Cordua, Richard Rutherford and James Clouser for praise, but concludes that a third item on the program, Agnes deMille's ballet The Bitter Weir, "neither embellishes its dancers sufficiently nor suggests a fruitful area of endeavor for an engaging and talented company."

Miss Cordua, Miss Tavernier, Clouser and Rutherford were mentioned favorably by most of the critics, with Miss Cordua earning particular praise for her performance in The Bitter Weir.

The Commonwealth festival, a 17-day affair involving artists from 20 countries, was officially opened Thursday by Prince Philip and the evening's events included a symphonic program at the Royal Festival Hall and a dance festival at Royal Albert Hall.

Besides a full series of musical, dramatic and dance events, the festival includes several art exhibits and other displays.

MARRIAGE NO GROUNDS FOR FIRING

WASHINGTON (AP)—Marriage is no legal cause for firing a woman employee, the equal employment opportunities has ruled.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., chairman of the commission, said many industrial labor contracts provide for discharging a woman when she gets married, and many companies follow such a policy. The commission has decided both are illegal.

STILL ROLLING ALONG

Glad Not Sex Symbol, Says Rosalind Russell

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—"I count my blessings that I was never a sex symbol," says Rosalind Russell, whose portrayals in recent years have ranged from a rapacious stage mother (Gypsy) to a Jewish matron (A Majority of One) to Auntie Mame.

The explanation helped to make clear why her career continues at a steady clip, while those of most of her old contemporaries have faded.

Roz now is in one of those periodic spurts of acting activity that have characterized her career. She just finished romping through what she termed the blackest of comedies, Oh Dad, Poor Dad, Mama's Hung You in the Closet and I'm Feeling So Sad. Now she is acting in the more economically titled, Mother Superior.

"And what a wonderful combination of roles," she said glowingly over tea at her Beverly Hills Drive manse. "I've always wanted to play a harlot and a nun. Now I get to play both, one after the other."

There are not many stars who could manage both roles with conviction. But the two films mark further advances in the divergent career of Rosalind Russell, whose portrayals in recent years have ranged from a rapacious stage mother (Gypsy) to a Jewish matron (A Majority of One) to Auntie Mame.

SHE'S IN DEMAND
The reason she remains in demand? It goes back to the fact that she wasn't a sex symbol.

"I must say I wasn't thankful for it at the time, but I am now," she commented. "I do think the girls who were the sex queens have a most difficult time of it when they are no longer fresh and sexy. Many get very upset about it."

"But I always played character roles. I was only 23 when I played in 'Greig's Wife,' which really called for an older woman. Even all these professional women I played, although they had glamor trappings, were character roles."

"It's the same with Bette Davis, who remains in demand today. All those years when she was playing 'Mrs. Skeffington' and those other roles, she was doing character parts. She can go on acting as long as she wants."

And so, apparently can Roz.

Broadcast Costs Eyed

OTTAWA (CP)—For the first time in federal election history, a record is to be kept of how much parties pay for their political broadcast time.

Radio and television stations across Canada will be getting a form to fill in for the purpose, it was learned here. The form will provide a record of how much time was purchased on behalf of any political party or candidate and how much it cost.

Broadcasting regulations require stations to keep records of paid political broadcasts. But the direct recording of cost for such air time is a new twist.

$3,000 Scholarship

A scholarship worth up to $3,000 has been awarded to a Victorian, W. A. J. Armitage by the federal health department to be used for masters degree study at a Canadian school of social work.

Mark Battle of U.K.

A commemorative dinner marking the 25th anniversary of the Battle of Britain will be sponsored Saturday by the Vancouver Island Air Force Officers' Association.

Among the guests expected to attend are Lieutenant-Governor George R. Pearkes, George L. Chatterton, MP, and the heads of the armed forces in the area. Speaker at the Pacific Club dinner will be Professor Tony Emery of the University of Victoria.

A non-denominational remembrance service will be open to the public Sunday at 3 p.m. at Christ Church Cathedral. Civic and municipal government heads in the area have been invited.

This image shows a blank, aged, cream-colored page, likely an endpaper or flyleaf of a book. The paper has a slightly textured appearance with some faint smudges and discoloration, characteristic of old paper. The right edge of the page shows the binding structure, including the inner hinge and some stitching. There is no text or other markings on the page.

CARVING CONTEST

Linda Chips, Hacks Her Way to a Win

Linda Corbett, 11, is a chip off the old block.

The youngster, of 215 Russell, carried a name for herself this week by taking first prize in the girls' section of a local wood-working contest.

In all, 73 children chiselled and hacked their way into the contest, sponsored by Doman's Building Supply.

Linda's contribution was a carved puppet.

Winner of the 10 to 13 boys' group was Larry Maas, 10, of 3340 Richmond with a model house and its contents.

First prize winner in the 14 to 16 years boys' group was 15-year-old Ken Brown of 673 Craigflower, who submitted a planter shaped like a spinning wheel.

Ian Mason, 15, of 1204 Dallas, also placed first in this group with a night table he made at school.

Province Progressing Toward Goal

The B.C. Association of Social Workers sought Thursday to get a co-ordinator of government and community resources to prevent family breakups.

A. O. Morrison of Vancouver, president of the 500-member association, said after a meeting with Welfare Minister Wesley Black the provincial government is progressing towards goals set out by the association.

The association wants a system of co-ordinating different government departments and private agencies so a single social worker can employ all these resources.

"As we understand it from the minister, today this is not being done as effectively as the government intends to do it," he said.

DIES IN NURSING HOME AT 85

Host of Friends Say Goodbye To the Shoreline Philosopher

A shoeshine man who made friends with his customers, and cheered them with his kindly philosophy of life has passed from the Victoria scene.

Lewis Moore Posey died in a private nursing home Saturday at the age of 85 and left behind him a legion of friends, including business and professional men whose shoes he had shined for 10, 20 and even 30 years.

Many of them attended his funeral at Sands Memorial Chapel Thursday when Rev. Dr. S. J. Parsons of Centennial United Church conducted the last rites.

A native of Florence, Alabama, Mr. Posey came to Victoria around 1912 and, during his 40 years as shoeshine man at the old Driard Barber Shop, he became an institution.

His regular customers included premier Tolmie of British Columbia, department store owner, David Spencer; publisher Jack Matson, editor Bruce Hutchison, insurance man Fred McGregor, and Canon George Biddle.

Lawyers, physicians and surgeons visited Mr. Posey regularly and enjoyed his lively conversation while having their shoes shined.

"He was a natural philosopher," said Canon Biddle, who retired recently as rector of St. John's. "He was well informed and he had an opinion on almost any subject you could mention.

"His comments were often highly amusing and I always enjoyed calling on him. He had a wide knowledge of American history, he was proud of his country and he loved speculating about presidential elections and politics in general."

Mr. Posey was always abreast of modern developments, friends said, but had no fancy for flying.

Once he was offered a short trip in an airplane.

"It will only be for a few minutes," he was told.

"Yes," answered Mr. Posey, "but you can fall a long way in a few minutes!"

His employer for 40 years was Stuart McTaggart, who ran the Driard Barber Shop until he retired about five years ago.

"Posey was a great personality in our business," Mr. McTaggart said. "He was always neat and clean and he had a natural gift for making friends."

"When Premier Tolmie came in for a shave, a haircut or a shoeshine, they would chat away like old college chums. Posey had a fantastic memory for people and events and he would argue good-naturally with the premier about politicians and race horses.

"He never spoke an ill word of anyone. He was not a churchman, but he took a keen interest in religious matters and could discuss them intelligently with anyone. His wide knowledge always amazed me."

"I visited him in hospital a few years ago," Canon Biddle said, "and found he was a tremendous favorite with all the nurses and staff. He was always cheerful and he kept them constantly amused."

Mr. Posey is survived by a sister, Mrs. Irene Keller, at Springfield, Ohio.

Crusaders Set Music Night

Tonight is Music Night in the Leighton Ford Victoria crusade at the Memorial Arena starting at 7:30 p.m.

There will be sacred solos by TV tenor Homer James. Irving Chambers will lead a local choir of 1,000 voices in song and anthems.

SOLUTION MONDAY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and one of the second question a Hammond 444s or Globe.

Andy sends a complete 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Lynn Blackwood, 12, Mocksville, N.C., for her question:

What Causes Fungus?

A fungus infection seems to spread through a class or family in a most mysterious manner. A moldy fungus seems to arrive from nowhere to attack a loaf of bread. A mushroom ring pops up overnight from who-knows-where. Yet these and other strange fungus appearances can be traced and explained.

All life springs from life, and every living thing came from parents or other living things like itself. This is a law of nature, and the fungus plants, which are living things, must obey it. Mycologists who study them know of some 75,000 different fungi. They have no stems or leaves or flowers, and not one of them is green. Nevertheless, the assorted fungi are plants, and as plants they are living things.

The biggest of them is the giant puffball, two feet wide and often shaped like a bulgy beach ball. The best known fungi are mushrooms and toadstools, but many of the 75,000 are midgits, too small to be seen as individuals without the help of a microscope. All fungi, large and small, can multiply by producing seed-like spores. Yeast and certain other fungi also multiply by budding new off-spring somewhat like plant shoots.

Some Funai Attack Skin

If you kick a giant puffball at the right time, a cloud of dust will puff out into the air. The dusty specks may be seven million-million spores launched on the breezes. Maybe a half-dozen of them will be lucky enough to land on a suitable spot where they will start or cause a new puffball.

Many fungi are no bigger than the spores of the puffball. Imagine, then, how small their spores must be. These midgits plants are plentiful everywhere, and swarms of their invisible spores are in the soil, in the air and on most of the things we touch.

A stray fungus spore may drift into the kitchen through the finest screen and perhaps land on a slice of bread. It thrives and grows and soon causes a patch of mold big enough to be seen. Some fungi attack human skin. Your touch may transfer these invaders and cause healthy skin to become fungus infected.

Most of the fungus plants do not directly affect us. The mushrooms and toadstools are delicious food items, but many toadstools are deadly poisonous. A few fungi cause diseases in plants or animals. We must share our world with this seeming assortment of midgits, so we must learn how the dangerous ones cause trouble and how to protect ourselves from them.

Andy sends a 15-inch World Book Globe to Jeanne Meyers, age 12, of Sherman Oaks, Calif., for her question:

What is Titanium?

Titanium is as strong as the best steel and much lighter. It is superior to steel because it does not rust in the air and does not even corrode away when dunked in salt. Few acids or strong chemicals can damage it, and tremendous heat is needed to melt it. Naturally, this gifted metal is used to make planes and jet engines. Its compounds are used to make paints and linoleum and also crystals for radio sets.

It has been known and its compounds used since 1791. But use of the metal in industry was limited until 1948. It was too hard to extract the element from its ores. Even the modern modern process of refining titanium is very costly, and its use remains limited.

VOICE OF BROADWAY

By DOROTHY KILGALLEN

Jottings in Pencil—English comedienne Millicent Martin, who has a leading role in Alfie, and American dancer Sven Swenson (the show-stopper of Little Me) are considered a serious romance in London. Friends expect them to marry as soon as she is divorced from singer Ronnie Carroll. Margaret Leighton has just been signed to star in the new Tennessee Williams play, Slapstick Tragedy, with Lester Persky the lucky producer. . . . Booker and Doud, writers and producers of Vaughn Meader's hit album, The First Family, have finally settled their suit against Archie Bleyer of Cadence Records for a snappy five-figure sum, seven per cent of which goes to Vaughn.

There was big excitement at a famed theatrical club the other night when Buddy Hackett got up and lambasted his former producer, Joe Kipness. Things threatened to get out of hand at one point. Then Buddy proceeded to light into a quiet and polite trade paper reporter. . . . Marty Ransohoff extended a personal invitation to author Evelyn Waugh to see the completed version of The Loved One either in London or in the country, where he spends most of his time, at his convenience. Waugh sent back a note saying it would not be convenient for him to see the picture at any time, any place. Nothing like courtesy, is there?

Ginger Rogers is shouting the praises of Elliott Gould for his performance as a deaf mute in her starring film, The Confession, due for release soon. . . . The late Nat King Cole's music publishing firm may be sold to the Beatles for $1-million. . . . ABC-TV executives have been conferring with Tony Newley, star of Roar of the Greasepaint. They'd like him to write, direct and star in several video specials.

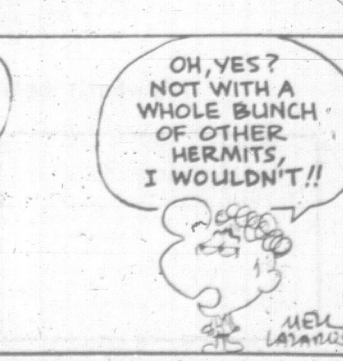

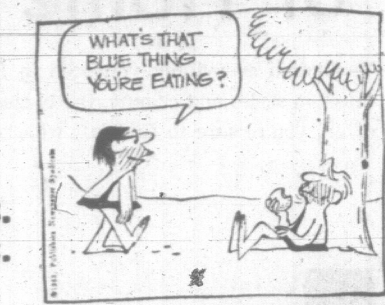

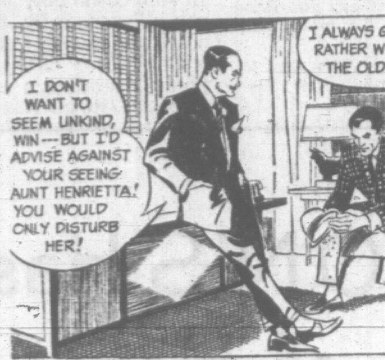

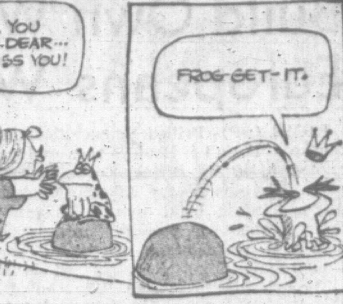

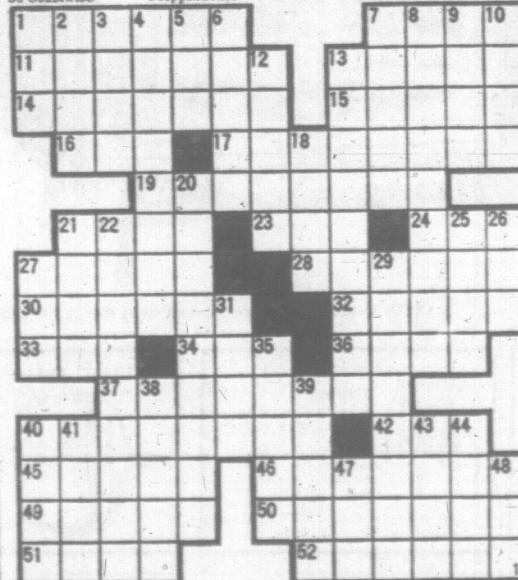

Those rumors about trouble in the Doris Day-Marty Melcher marriage are around again. Possible, but doubtful; it would mean a 50-50 split of their multimillion dollar empire. . . . Vince Edwards and Kathy Kersh, who can't seem to make up their minds about getting a divorce, may reconcile for an age-old reason: they're expecting a baby. . . . The Bon Soir in Greenwich Village has a hot new singing attraction in Del Marino. Several record companies are bidding for him.

Tennessee Ernie Ford has written a letter of protest to the Klu Klux Klan because the Kluxers have been playing Ernie's recording of The Old Rugged Cross at their meetings and burnings. Lots of luck, Ernie, but the Klan doesn't pay any attention to the chief justice of the United States, or the attorney general, or the president; they're hardly likely to be upset by a note from a singer. . . . A well-known drama critic—good writer, but seemingly intent on destroying the theatre—reportedly will retire at the end of this year. You can't imagine how many actors, playwrights and producers will cry. Like none. (Not a New Yorker, incidentally). . . . Burt Lancaster is in town to see the new Broadway production of The Subject Was Roses. That leads one to believe he's among the many who would like to do the cinema version.

MGM has set aside an entire Hollywood laboratory, with the best technicians available, for director David Lean. The man who rates this unusual treatment faces the gigantic task of reading Dr. Zhivago for its dual world premiere in New York and California on Dec. 22. Shooting winds up in Spain next month. A few hours later, Lean, whose last two movies won a total of 14 Academy Awards, will be in Hollywood working on the one that seems most likely to capture a few of those little gilt fellows in this year's Oscar race.

U.S. INDUSTRY HUMMING

Gun Needs Bring Cash

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States has sold more than $9,000,000 in arms and other military equipment to its allies during the last four years, Defence Secretary McNamara said Thursday.

Backlog orders for U.S. industry account for more than $5,000,000,000 of this total, McNamara told a press conference.

McNamara has been placing strong emphasis on selling

American equipment to U.S. allies as a means of getting back some of the money the United States spends to maintain forces overseas and as a way of cutting down the gold outflow.

Among other things, McNamara said: Arms and military equipment sales will provide nearly $1,000,000 in profit to U.S. industry; cash receipts, equivalent to gold inflow, already have a mounting total to $5,000,000,000. The $5,000,000,000 in the backlog orders compares with about $800,000,000 in 1961.

McNamara said 9 per cent of all sales are made to NATO nations and other industrial countries of Europe and the Far East.

A total of $7,500,000,000 in sales were made to European allies, with Germany and Britain accounting for more than $6,100,000,000.

A total of $930,000,000 went to Canada, Australia, New Zealand and Japan.

Build Own Weapons, Europeans Warned

ROME (AP)—British Defence Minister Denis Healey was quoted today as saying European members of the Atlantic Alliance must build more of their weapons or become "an industrial protectorate of the United States."

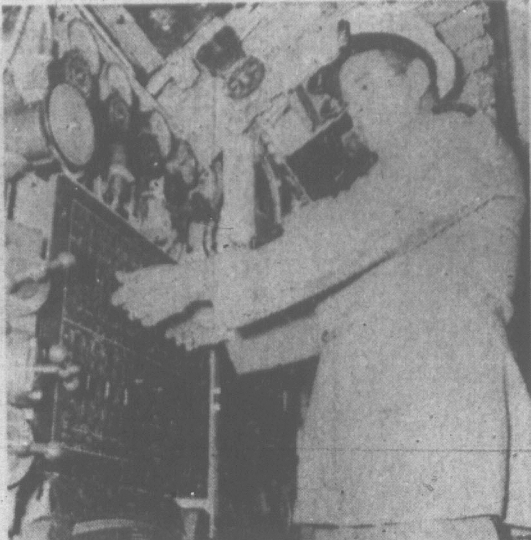

The weekly magazine Vita (Life) quoted him as saying Britain would try for a larger share of the Western European weapons market.

"Either the Europeans decide to co-operate more between themselves and jointly build their airplanes, cannons, armored cars, or the European industries must resign themselves to closing down in the not too distant future," Vita quoted him as saying.

"There are some weapons that it is better to buy from the United States . . ."

U.S. Defence Secretary McNamara must understand that we are not here simply to favor his commercial operations. We, the British . . . will try for business and sell our weapons on the European market."

CANADA'S NEWEST submarine, the Ojibwa, will be launched Sept. 23 at Chatham, England. The first of three Oberon class subs to be built at Chatham for the RCN, the Ojibwa will be manned by a specially selected specialist crew. In the RCN all submarine duty is voluntary and carries special pay allowances for those who choose to serve beneath the waves. One crew member on the Ojibwa is Chief Petty Officer Leuchan Burnett, Victoria, shown operating a control panel on the new submarine. (Royal Navy Photo.)

VANCOUVER TO TRY IT

'Lie Detector Recruiting' Scorned by Most Chiefs

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Canada's police chiefs heard Thursday about lie detector tests being used in the United States to help select police recruits.

And although they aren't being used in Canada for that purpose yet, Vancouver Police Chief Ralph Booth said he hoped to have one for recruit selection in his department within the year.

Chief K. R. McIver of Calgary said his force uses one in investigation of suspected staff offences. "We just wouldn't be without it now," he said.

"I'm a little afraid of what it would do, however, if used on recruits. Honest men would resent it, and it would do our recruitment program harm."

Most delegates at the convention of Canadian Association of Police Chiefs appeared to dislike the idea although the conference took no official stand on it.

S. J. Whitney of the Ontario Provincial Police personnel department said lie detectors are used extensively as part of the psychological testing of prospective police candidates in the U.S. He said U.S. police forces "believe in them 100 per cent."

Eric Silk, the OPP commissioner, said his force would never allow lie detectors to be used in this way.

FAVOR BREATH TESTS

The chiefs approved several major resolutions, including one that would make breath tests for drinking drivers mandatory.

Delegates also called for revision of firearms legislation to make it more difficult for criminals to get handguns, and more severe penalties for offences in which firearms are used. There would be two categories for guns — restricted and unrestricted.

Another resolution asked for authority to photograph and fingerprint persons charged, arrested or convicted of criminal offences. Only those convicted of indictable offences now can legally be put through this procedure.

In a panel discussion, H. A. Maxted of Winnipeg, an assistant commissioner of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, said there is no place for super-intellect in police leadership.

"Too high an intellectual attainment can, at times, be detrimental to good leadership."

He said the RCMP have found men thoroughly capable in their own field "often unable to make a simple decision."

In this group, they find men who are "absent-minded and non-persuasive."

We'll Fight India Tells Chinese

NEW DELHI (Reuters)—India warned Peking today that it would fight back if China attacked.

Prime Minister Shastri told a cheering Parliament: "If we are attacked, we shall fight for our freedom with grim determination."

Shastri spoke to Parliament after China earlier today delivered a three-day ultimatum to India to dismantle its military installations in the Indian protectorate of Sikkim, which borders China.

The prime minister announced that India had told China it was willing for a joint inspection of military structures on the Sikkim-Tibet border which China alleges are on its territory.

In a blunt note, the Chinese threatened India with "grave consequences" unless India withdraws within three days from a Tibet-Sikkim border area claimed by China.

The note did not specify what the consequences would be. But China struck at India in a border dispute in 1962 and the Indian army suffered a setback in heavy fighting.

A few hours after China broadcast its ultimatum, Indian officials displayed a new reluctance to even speculate on whether the war against Pakistan could still be pursued with what Prime Minister Shastri Wednesday called "unabated vigour."

A state department spokesman said in Washington the United States is very concerned over the possible extension of the India-Pakistan war.

Last Monday, State Secretary Dean Rusk said China should stay out of the India-Pakistan conflict and let the UN Security Council settle it.

Two days later a direct warning against intervention was reported to have been given to China at a meeting of U.S. and Chinese ambassadors in Warsaw.

Peace Force If Necessary

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—United Nations Secretary-General U Thant proposed today that the UN Security Council issue a binding order for an Indian-Pakistani ceasefire and that the order be backed by the threat of penalties if the two governments fail to comply.

He also suggested that the council request the heads of the Indian and Pakistani governments to hold peace talks in a third country, with the assistance of a UN committee.

Only once in the 20-year history of the UN has the council authorized the possible use of economic and military sanctions. This was in the war between Israel and the Arab countries in 1948.

Thant proposed the council declare that failure to comply with a new ceasefire order would demonstrate the existence of a breach of peace within the meaning of Article 39 of the UN charter. This article says that if a breach of peace exists the council shall decide what measures should be taken either in the field of economic boycotts or by actual use of air, sea and land forces to obtain compliance.

Thant delivered his personal report to the 11-country council 24 hours after his return from an unsuccessful effort to halt the fighting. He made no mention of the new complication resulting from China's ultimatum, demanding withdrawal of Indian forces from the Chinese border within three days.

Indian Education Minister Mahomedali Currim Chagla, speaking after Thant, referred briefly to the Chinese threat.

"We are now threatened by invasion from China," he declared, adding that Pakistan is using U.S.-supplied munitions against India instead of for defence against the Chinese.

He charged that Pakistan "wants China to stab us in the back."

Thant acknowledged that he had been unable to get agreement of India's Lal Bahadur Shastri and Pakistani President Mohammed Ayub Khan for a ceasefire and declared that the situation was so grave it threatened world peace.

It would be inconceivable, he said, for the council to wash its hands of the issue despite his failure.

He then outlined a five-point approach which the council might now take:

- Issue a binding order for a cessation of hostilities, declaring that if either party fails to comply the penalty provisions of the charter would come into effect. This would bring into play the rarely used chapter seven which applies only when the council formally recognizes the existence of a breach of peace.

- Offer assistance of the United Nations in ensuring observance of a ceasefire.

- Call for a prompt withdrawal of troops to positions held before the current outbreak of fighting Aug. 5.

- Request the heads of the two governments to meet in a country friendly and acceptable to both, and make available a small committee to assist in the talks.

- Make possible use of the

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP)—President Mohammed Ayub Khan today threw cold water on a suggestion by UN Secretary-General U Thant that Ayub meet with Indian Prime Minister Shastri in an effort to resolve the war between their countries.

Ayub's reply, released in Rawalpindi, again stated Pakistan's demand that guarantees must be made of a "final settlement of the Kashmir dispute" before there can be a ceasefire.

No Survivors In Air Crash

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—A Pan American World Airways jet-liner with 30 persons aboard slammed into the side of a mountain today on the small island of Montserrat in the British West Indies.

Ground rescue parties reported no survivors.

The Boeing 707 crashed into a mountain on the south side of the island, the U.S. Coast Guard here reported. The wreckage still was burning when searchers reached it hours later.

"The coast guard commander for the Greater Antilles reports that ground parties encountered difficulty in reaching the scene," a spokesman said.

The U.S. weather bureau said scattered thundershowers were reported throughout the Leeward Islands in the Lesser Antilles this morning.

"Helicopters from the French navy and the U.S. Army and Navy bases at San Juan, Puerto Rico, have been requested," the coast guard said. "Doctors with medical supplies are standing by at Montserrat."

Montserrat, which means saw-toothed mountains in Spanish, is about 30 miles southwest of Antigua, in the chain of islands which form the eastern border between the Caribbean and Atlantic Oceans.

The plane was last heard from at 7:25 a.m., 10 minutes before it was due to land at Antigua, an airline spokesman in New York said.

In New York, Pan American said a Mr. Price at Plymouth, on Montserrat, reported he had seen a large plane flying low, then heard an explosion.

Pan American said the plane carried 21 passengers and a crew of nine. It was designated Flight 292, bound from Fort de France, Martinique, for Kennedy Airport, New York, with scheduled stops at Antigua, St. Croix and San Juan.

It is believed there were three Canadians on board. Mr. and Mrs. F. Lamontagne and Marie Therese Fournier, booked passage from Montreal on the ill-fated flight.

burning and new fires were being reported hourly.

Flames ate into the outskirts of Vacaville between San Francisco and Sacramento. Middletown in Lake County about 100 miles north of San Francisco also was threatened.

The situation at Vacaville was termed "explosive" by Fire Chief Warren Hughes.

Vacaville police ordered evacuation of homes in outlying sections. Hughes said about 20 houses were either destroyed or damaged. He estimated damage to the buildings at $500,000.

Serious fires also burned in California's Napa Valley, where much of the state's wine is produced. The area was devastated by one of its biggest forest fires last year.

Two firefighters were burned, one seriously.

Separate blazes threatened two towns, a major interstate highway over the High Sierra was closed and all fire-fighting units in the state were placed on the alert. Blazes were eating at the outskirts of one of the towns and damage there was estimated at $500,000.

ORRINGTON, Me. (AP)—Law enforcement officials and volunteers searched today for Mrs. Lynne P. McGinn, 29, a doctor's wife abducted at gunpoint from her home by an escaped patient from a state mental hospital.

Roadblocks were set up at virtually every major highway or intersection in the state after Mrs. McGinn was forced from her home by Roger R. Haller, 31, of Bangor, Me., police said.

They said the man entered the home Thursday afternoon and held Mrs. McGinn and her two children, Stacey, four, and Pierce, one, prisoner for several hours.

NEW YORK PAPER BLACKOUT

Post Lone Daily Still Publishing

NEW YORK (UPI)—A strike against the New York Times and a retaliatory shutdown by other publishers today halted production of seven of the city's eight major newspapers.

New York's three morning newspapers failed to publish, and all but one of five afternoon papers were unable to meet today's early edition deadlines.

As the strike of 2,200 Times editorial and clerical workers went into its second day, only the afternoon New York Post was able to publish. About 17,000 employees of other newspapers were out of work.

Contract negotiations between the Times and the striking American Newspaper Guild (ANG) recessed early today, and were scheduled to resume later.

The strike against the Times led to the retaliatory shutdown of the other six newspapers in a publisher's mutual aid pact. The Post is not a member to the agreement.

Key issue in the dispute is union concern about what will happen to jobs as more and more automated equipment is introduced and if two or more of the city's newspapers consolidate their publishing operations to reduce costs.

The guild was demanding three other key concessions: ● Provisions that new equipment would not remove present members from its jurisdiction unless the guild gave prior approval.

● All newsmen would be required to join the guild. ● Improved pension benefits and severance pay for employees at retirement.

(See earlier, Page 11) LAREDO, Tex. (CP)—The U.S. government concluded its case in the narcotics conspiracy trial of Lucien Rivard and three fellow Montrealers today and the defence immediately moved unsuccessfully for a directed verdict of acquittal.

Federal District Judge Ben Connally turned down a series of motions on behalf of the defendants and said the case will be given to the jury next week.

Defence evidence was to open Monday.

The typhoon, packing 111-mile-an-hour centre winds and loaded with rain, was described as the year's most powerful storm.

OBSELETE AIR WING KEEPS GERMANY SATISFIED

Happiness Costs Canada $500 M

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCAF lost its 30th and 31st CF-104 low-level nuclear bombers Thursday when one crashed in central France and another in West Germany a few hours later. No one was hurt.

Officials said, however, there is no thought of giving up the CF-104 or its role in Europe until 1970 at the earliest though the maintenance costs in that period will amount to more than $500,000,000.

The government purchased a total of 238 CF-104s—200 operational planes and 38 trainers—and the first were shipped to the eight-squadron RCAF air division in Europe less than three years ago. The 31 crashes have cost 10 lives.

Informed sources said the CF-104's role has become militarily redundant because NATO has in Europe plenty of tactical nuclear weapons and the means to deliver them.

Why, then, does the government intend to spend at least $100,000,000 a year in the next five years to keep the CF-104 squadrons operating?

Informants said the chief reason is that Canada doesn't want to rock the NATO boat by withdrawing or dismantling the squadrons which form the fourth-largest nuclear strike force in the world.

GERMANS UPSET
West Germany, for instance, has recently complained about withdrawal of some battlefield nuclear missiles from the British Army of the Rhine. Germany is alive to any move which can be considered a lessening of NATO interest in its defence.

Another reason for staying with the CF-104 for another five years, sources say, is that an initial outlay of nearly $2,000,000 has been made for the planes, auxiliary equipment and training.

This is the same argument the defence department uses for maintaining the 56 Bomarc anti-aircraft missiles at North Bay, Ont., and La Macaza, Que.—they have already been paid for.

For the government, which accepted American nuclear warheads for the CF-104 two years ago, the nuclear role has changed drastically since July 16, 1963, when Defence Minister Hellyer was asked in the Commons defence committee: "Is there a lack of adequate tactical nuclear weapons and the equipment to deliver them in Europe?"

Mr. Hellyer replied: "In the opinion of the military leaders of the Western Alliance, there is."

search. It is in 60 feet of water near the Louisiana State University campus south of Baton Rouge.

Meanwhile, the clean-up from Betsy, which unleashed death and destruction on Louisiana a week ago, went on throughout the stricken areas. A few sections remained under water. Two more bodies were found in New Orleans, raising the known dead to 70—plus 12 in other states.

NO GOOD STUDENT BARRED, SAYS ENGLISH

By SUE PELLAND
Students shouldn't have their education handed to them on a silver platter, Dr. J. F. K. English, retiring deputy minister of education, said today.

Dr. English was asked to comment on the Canadian Union of Students' National Student Day to be held Oct. 27. It highlights student demands for removal of all financial barriers to higher education.

He said that students must accept some responsibility in paying for their education. Tuition fees are not too high, he said, but they must be watched.

"No really good student," he added, "is barred from an education."

He said that last year B.C. provided scholarships and bursaries to some 3,000 university students.

"These are not top-notch students," he added, "but just those who make better than 70 per cent in their government exams."

He claimed the present loan plan is a "very reasonable" one. Any student, he said, can apply for a loan which he doesn't have to pay back until he graduates.

"I don't think these students have much of an argument," he said.

But he added that although there is not much possibility of students having their demands recognized now, they may in the distant future.

Referring to the University of Newfoundland's precedent

in granting free tuition to first and second-year students, he said he didn't know if it was a good idea.

"I think they could have found a better way," he said, "like reducing the fees."

Dr. English said that he thought some other year rather than first year, would have been a better one since this is really an experimental one.

Students must be responsible for paying some of their education costs, he said.

Postmen Get 'Overtime'

Overtime payments for Victoria postal workers, some of it going back as far as June, arrived this morning.

Postal union officials said there was no explanation for the delay. Two weeks ago the government deducted time lost during the July strike.

After the strike, some postal employees piled up 50 and 60 hours overtime clearing the backlog of mail.

Saanich Bares Stadium Plans

Tillicum Site Suits Consulting Engineers

By ROGER STONEBANKS

Plans for a sports stadium with initial seating of 5,000 and eventual capacity of 17,000 were disclosed for the first time today by Saanich.

The details for the stadium, near the Tillicum Outdoor Theatre, were contained in an engineering report by Willis and Cunliffe of Victoria.

"It appears that the 40-acre site adjacent to the Tillicum Outdoor Theatre in Saanich is well suited to the development of a sports stadium complex for the Greater Victoria area," said the report.

The first stage of the development would cost an estimated $490,000, just over the amount available in Centennial grants and required contributions by Greater Victoria municipalities.

This would provide a stadium, amphitheatre with 3,000 covered seats, 2,000 open seats and parking for 1,000 cars.

The report said a stadium with an ultimate capacity of 17,000 seats and parking for 3,500 cars can be fitted into the natural geography of the area.

"In addition to providing the required sporting facilities, this development would enhance the main approach to the city by providing an attractively-landscaped open space in a critical position."

Saanich has said it would seek ratepayer approval for purchase of the site, estimated to cost between $280,000 and $400,000.

The site would be part of the proposed capital projects budget due to be presented to property owners before the end of the year.

But the city has proposed the stadium be located at its 25-acre Topaz Park and is willing to borrow $500,000 against the McPherson endowment revenues to add to Centennial grants for the stadium itself.

There is tentative majority agreement among area municipalities that a stadium be the Centennial project. The question of the site remains to be resolved.

The engineering report, called a "site feasibility study," breaks down the $490,000 cost into $161,500 for the stadium and $104,900 for parking.

The rest of the money would be spent on a field house, concession and washrooms, sewer and water, street improvements, landscaping and engineering.

Access to the stadium would be from Burnside and Tillicum Roads. The report said substantiation of access and egress will require further investigation.

But the initial demand of 800 to 1,000 vehicles can be handled without major changes to existing road patterns.

It was also anticipated that at times when no movies are being shown at the outdoor theatre, more than 1,000 cars could be parked there.

The site is well served by major roads and is well placed in view of present and future expansion of population to the north and west.

Road improvements to handle an eventual 3,500 cars can be made when and as the demand arises.

The site itself would contain the stadium, with facilities for football and soccer, running tracks and athletic events.

An adjunct would house a baseball-softball diamond with seating for 2,000, a gymnasium or swimming pool and practice fields.

LEAVING Sept. 29 on a year's scholarship at the Touraine Institute in France is French language student Pauline Owens, 21, a first-class honors graduate from the University of Victoria, will seek a master's degree.

Ask The Times

Q. Can you tell me if there are cooking classes available in Victoria and if men can attend?

A. R. D.

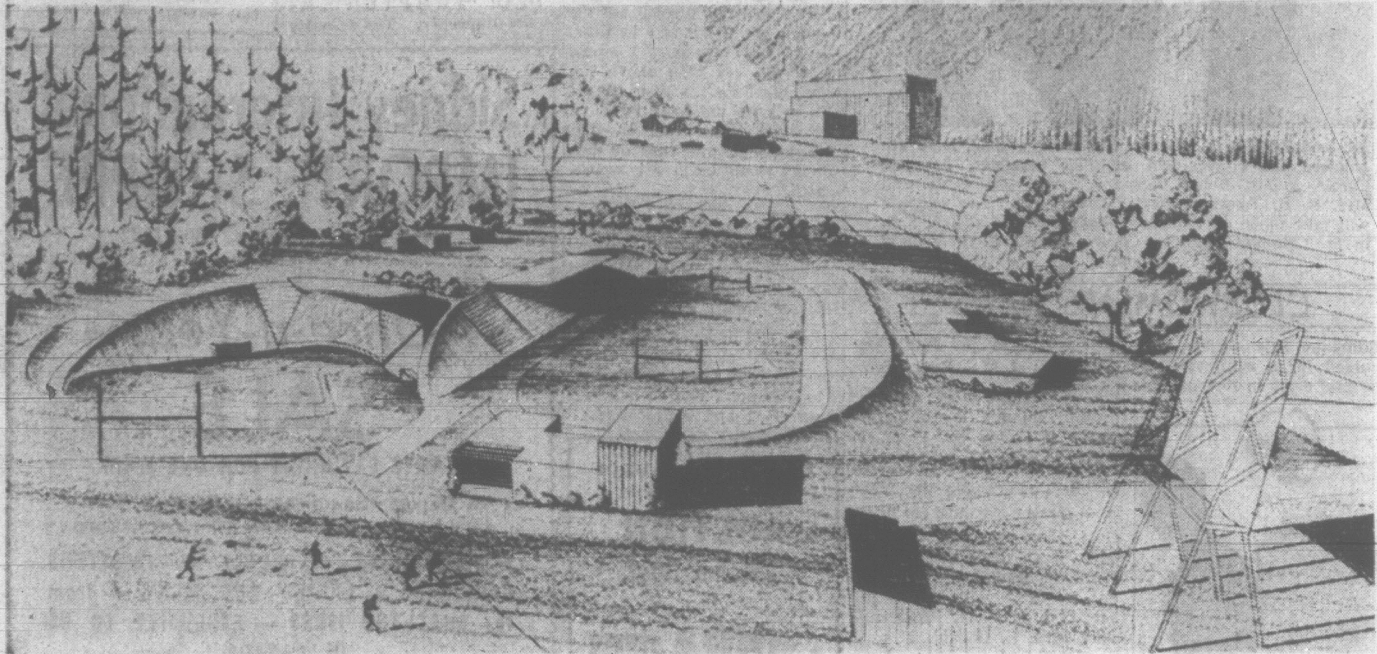

A.: Greater Victoria School Board offers six cooking courses in its adult education division for men and women.

The weight of a cubic inch of gold given Wednesday as 1.02 troy ounces should have read 10.2 troy ounces. A correction was made by B.C. department of mines' chief analyst.

First Fall Concert

Silver Threads first fall concert will be held at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 22, not Thursday as previously stated in the Times.

The Silver Threads' Service Choir will perform under the direction of choir mistress Mrs. Dorothy Cuthbert at the centre on Centennial Square.

SAANICH STADIUM PLAN—IF EVERYONE AGREES

Sports stadium for Greater Victoria will look like this, if everyone agrees with Saanich's plans. Stadium at centre would seat 5,000 initially and provide for football, soccer and athletic events. Baseball-softball diamond at left would seat 2,000. Cost is estimated at $490,000 with Saanich willing to seek ratepayer approval to purchase the 40-acre site at between $280,000 and $400,000. Centennial funds would almost cover the cost of stadium. At right is the Tillicum Outdoor Theatre and in the centre background the federal forestry research laboratory. Sketch was prepared by Willis and Cunliffe of Victoria.

Topaz Expansion Outlined to City

Details of a land purchase to expand Topaz Park were discussed by Victoria city council traffic and zoning committee today.

The deal was outlined in a letter from Ocean Cement Ltd.

Topaz Park is the city's proposed site for a district sports stadium.

In an agreement discussed previously by vice-president D. E. Smith and Mayor R. B. Wilson, the city would get 8.35 acres of land adjoining Finlayson and Rose Streets for $200,000. The city would agree to street changes involving the company's Government Street operation.

It was also understood the city would have to make some street changes to allow the company to build a new bulk cement plant at its harbor property.

The firm agrees to sell the city sufficient land for $15,000 to enable a new traffic lane to be built on Bay between Rock Bay and Government.

In turn, the city would support the firm's application to have Mill Street, bisecting the Ocean Cement property, closed to traffic, for which the city would get $50,000.

Further, the firm would write a letter of intent covering a future viaduct. This is proposed in the Capital Region Planning Board long-range transportation study.

The viaduct would connect Bay Street with Queens for one-way traffic.

Traffic changes would have to be made to accommodate increased heavy truck traffic with the new plan.

The committee rejected a traffic plan for one-way streets in James Bay, and asked that a revised plan be brought in.

Ald. Geoffrey Edgell objected to the proposed designation of Niagara Street as a one-way route up to a point, then as a two-way street from there. It is unsound in principle and dangerous, he said.

MUM'S THE WORD AND OFF TO JAIL

An 18-year-old youth who refused to tell who supplied him with liquor was sent to jail today for one month.

Richard Miller, 68 Government, pleaded guilty Thursday to being a minor in possession of liquor. He was asked by Magistrate William Ostler where he obtained the liquor.

Miller refused to say and was remanded in jail overnight to "think it over." He again refused to disclose the source of his supply this morning and the jail sentence was imposed.

In another case, Magistrate Ostler advised a sailor against the "stupidity of drinking with persons you don't know."

He imposed a $75 fine on Terence Chenier and told him he was fortunate that the incident that brought Chenier into court had not turned into a "catastrophe."

Chenier originally was charged with robbery but Crown Prosecutor Peter Birkett withdrew the charge. Constable Lou Pletz said Chenier got into a dispute with some drinking companions about a bet they made.

He said Chenier hit one of his companions in the face with his fist. The accused was in an advanced state of intoxication, said the constable.

Topics of the Day

The intermediate section of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at Douglas and Hillside for a field trip to Goat Rock, off Munn Road.

There will be meeting of the leader group on Sunday at 2:30 p.m. at the Francis Park Nature House.

Two juveniles have been arrested by police and charged with responsibility for a wave of break-ins in the city Wednesday.

Police said today the boys are still under investigation and it is not yet determined just how many charges they will face.

They will appear later in juvenile court.

A series of student recitals will be held in Victoria monthly under the auspices of the B.C. Registered Music Teachers Association.

The decision was reached at the general meeting of the Victoria branch, Thursday, at St. Margaret's School.

Nomination date for Victoria New Democrats will be set at a meeting Monday night.

The association's members will meet at 8 p.m. at 1216 Government to decide on the nomination date and also to discuss the Nov. 8 election.

Stamps Offered Exhibited Here Are Worth $60,000 a Lick

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

The overall value of the Empress Hotel shot up by nearly a quarter of a million dollars today.

Under its venerable roof is a collection of classic Canadian stamps insured for more than $80,000 sterling.

Expert Hired By Hospital

An expert in business management T. M. Sherwood of Vancouver, will join the staff of Royal Jubilee Hospital Oct. 1.

Administrator George Masters said Thursday, Mr. Sherwood will analyse and streamline administrative procedure which has become increasingly cumbersome as the hospital grows.

He said Mr. Sherwood is a top man in his profession.

Some of the items are said to be worth $60,000 apiece.

The stamps are under strong security in the Empress and no unauthorized persons is likely to see them before they leave for Vancouver later today.

TOURING CANADA

The stamps were exhibited here by Robson Lowe, world-renowned London auctioneer and stamp expert. He is taking them on a tour of cities across Canada and the eastern United States prior to selling them by auction in London, England, Oct. 27.

"The main object of the tour," Mr. Lowe said, "is to interest possible bidders. But I am also renewing old acquaintances in the stamp world of North America."

Victoria was the first port of call on the two-week tour. The stamps were actually brought here from London by Mr. Lowe's secretary, Miss Sarah-Jane Davis, who is as dainty and petite as many of the exhibits.

LOCKED AWAY

Miss Davis displayed the precious stamps to a Times reporter and photographer today, but lost no time in getting them under lock and key.

"They are a tremendous responsibility," she said, "but the work is fascinating. It is exciting to meet so many stamp collectors and share their enthusiasm."

The collection, which was shown in the London Court of Honor in 1960, is named after General Robert Gill of Baltimore, Maryland, who began assembling it in 1946.

Before being returned to London, the stamps will be shown in Vancouver, Edmonton, Ottawa, Montreal, Boston and New York.

Junior Steer Riders Raise Dust Saturday

The first steer riding competition in a Vancouver Island horse show will burst out of the chutes Saturday at Saanichton Fair Grounds.

The competition for 14-year-olds and under will be part of 27 events presented in the two-day show by the Victoria Western Horsemen's Club.

From 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, 100 riders from 6 to 60 years will compete in English and Western riding. Perpetual and permanent trophies will be presented.

Entries for the open show will be accepted up to post time. It is the 12 major horse show of the year on the Island.

Children under 12 will be admitted free.

Sunday Frug Same as Symphony?

By TERRY IZZARD

Church leaders split today on the question of Sunday dancing.

The "Never on Sunday" rule has been broken by the Scope Club which intends opening its doors to youngsters starting Sunday.

Former western secretary for the Lord's Day Alliance Society, Rev. Harry Allen, of James Bay United Church, isn't against the frug—or the mashed potato.

But he's against Sunday commerce.

He said: "Why should these people be allowed to get away with it?"

"Ordinary public dancing isn't allowed on Sundays. It's against the law."

"Surely Sunday is for a higher purpose than this."

Promoters of the Scope don't believe they're breaking the law.

Instead of charging an entrance fee, a collection plate will be passed round.

Even so, United church minister, Rev. Laura Butler, said: "I'd like to investigate further."

She asked: "Is this a good thing for our teen-agers? I don't think it's the best thing on Sunday."

She admitted: "It's better than what they could be doing."

"But it indicates to me that the home is not providing enough for its young people when they have to do this on a Sunday."

"Togetherness of the home on Sundays seems to be failing apart."

"These youngsters would be far better off in church-related groups on Sunday."

On the other hand, Presbyterian minister, Rev. Dr. J. Lewis McLean isn't so sure.

He said: "Anything that destroys the character of Sunday is to be deplored."

"But is this so bad? After all, theatres sometimes operate on the same system Sunday."

"And Victoria Symphony gives Sunday shows."

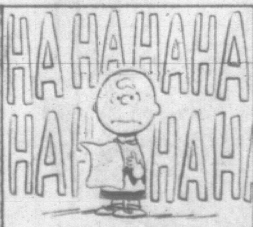

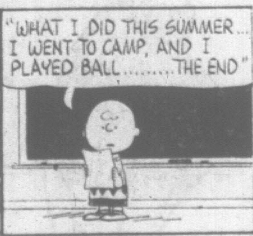

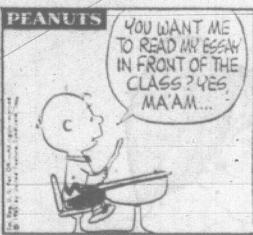

"I wouldn't think dancing is any worse than listening to the symphony."

We'll Fight India Tells Chinese

NEW DELHI (Reuters) — India warned Peking today that it would fight back if China attacked.

Prime Minister Shastri told a cheering Parliament: "If we are attacked, we shall fight for our freedom with grim determination."

Shastri spoke to Parliament after China earlier today delivered a three-day ultimatum to India to dismantle its military installations in the Indian protectorate of Sikkim, which borders China.

The prime minister announced that India had told China it was willing for a joint inspection of military structures on the Sikkim-Tibet border which China alleges are on its territory.

In a blunt note, the Chinese threatened India with "grave consequences" unless India withdraws within three days from a Tibet-Sikkim border area claimed by China.

The note did not specify what the consequences would be. But China struck at India in a border dispute in 1962 and the Indian army suffered a setback in heavy fighting.

A few hours after China broadcast its ultimatum, Indian officials displayed a new reluctance to even speculate on whether the war against Pakistan could still be pursued with what Prime Minister Shastri Wednesday called "unabated vigour."

A state department spokesman said in Washington the United States is very concerned over the possible extension of the India-Pakistan war.

Last Monday, State Secretary Dean Rusk said China should stay out of the India-Pakistan conflict and let the UN Security Council settle it.

Two days later a direct warning against intervention was reported to have been given to China at a meeting of U.S. and Chinese ambassadors in Warsaw.

FFAR CHINA WILL ACT — Diplomats at United Nations headquarters in New York expressed belief that China would cross the border unless India backs down. One delegate said the Chinese, having announced a time limit, would lose face if they did not follow through.

The Chinese warning underlined the need for India to split forces, keeping hundreds of thousands of men tied down in the Himalayan Mountains on the northern frontier while at the same time trying to strike in blows at Pakistan on battlefields more than 1,000 miles to the west.

London and Washington also expressed concern at the Chinese note. Foreign Secretary Michael Stewart of Britain told

3 Escapers Sought

VANCOUVER (CP) — Police throughout the British Columbia lower mainland and the northern United States were alerted today to watch for three escaped prisoners from the Vancouver jail. Police said the three, one an appeal court prisoner and the other two juveniles who had just been transferred to adult court, escaped at about 10 p.m. Thursday.

Peace Force If Necessary

UNITED NATIONS (AP) — United Nations Secretary-General U Thant proposed today that the UN Security Council issue a binding order for an Indian-Pakistani ceasefire and that the order be backed by the threat of penalties if the two governments fail to comply.

He also suggested that the council request the heads of the Indian and Pakistani governments to hold peace talks in a third country, with the assistance of a UN committee.

Only once in the 20-year history of the UN has the council authorized the possible use of economic and military sanctions. This was in the war between Israel and the Arab countries in 1948.

Thant proposed the council declare that failure to comply with a new ceasefire order would demonstrate the existence of a breach of peace within the meaning of Article 39 of the UN charter. This article says that if a breach of peace exists the council shall decide what measures should be taken either in the field of economic boycotts or by actual use of air, sea and land forces to obtain compliance.

Thant delivered his personal report to the 11-country council 24 hours after his return from an unsuccessful effort to halt the fighting. He made no mention of the new complication resulting from China's ultimatum, demanding withdrawal of Indian forces from the Chinese border within three days.

Indian Education Minister Mahomedali Currim Chagla, speaking after Thant, referred briefly to the Chinese threat.

"We are now threatened by invasion from China," he declared, adding that Pakistan is using U.S.-supplied munitions against India instead of for defence against the Chinese.

He charged that Pakistan "wants China to stab us in the back."

No Deal: Pakistan

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP) — President Mohammed Ayub Khan today threw cold water on a suggestion by UN Secretary-General U Thant that Ayub meet with Indian Prime Minister Shastri in an effort to resolve the war between their countries.

Ayub's reply, released in Rawalpindi, again stated Pakistan's demand that guarantees must be made of a "final settlement of the Kashmir dispute" before there can be a ceasefire.

ceasefire and declared that the situation was so grave it threatens world peace.

It would be inconceivable, he said, for the council to wash its hands of the issue despite his failure.

Five-Point Approach Proposed

He then outlined a five-point approach which the council might now take:

- Issue a binding order for a cessation of hostilities, declaring that if either party fails to comply the penalty provisions of the charter would come into effect. This would bring into play the rarely used chapter seven which applies only when the council formally recognizes the existence of a breach of peace.
- Offer assistance of the United Nations in ensuring observance of a ceasefire.

● Call for a prompt withdrawal of troops to positions held before the current outbreak of fighting Aug. 5.

● Request the heads of the two governments to meet in a country friendly and acceptable to both, and make available a small committee to assist in the talks.

● Make possible use of the

Engineers to Raise Barge of Chlorine

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — Army engineers started making plans today to raise a barge containing lethal chlorine from the bottom of the muddy Mississippi River. It sank during hurricane Betsy a week ago.

"The barge is safe and there is no danger of any kind," said Col. Thomas J. Bowen, army district engineer in New Orleans.

The barge was located Thursday night after a five-day search. It is in 60 feet of water near the Louisiana State University campus south of Baton Rouge.

Meanwhile, the clean-up from Betsy, which unleashed death and destruction on Louisiana a week ago, went on throughout the stricken areas. A few sections remained under water. Two more bodies were found in New Orleans, raising the known dead to 70-plus 12 in other states.

IN WEST INDIES

No Survivors In Air Crash

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A Pan American World Airways jet-liner with 30 persons aboard slammed into the side of a mountain today on the small island of Montserrat in the British West Indies.

Ground rescue parties reported no survivors.

The Boeing 707 crashed into a mountain on the south side of the island, the U.S. Coast Guard here reported. The wreckage still was burning when searchers reached it hours later.

"The coast guard commander for the Greater Antilles reports that ground parties encountered difficulty in reaching the scene," a spokesman said.

The U.S. weather bureau said scattered thundershowers were reported throughout the Leeward Islands in the Lesser Antilles this morning.

"Helicopters from the French navy and the U.S. Army and Navy bases at San Juan, Puerto Rico, have been requested," the coast guard said. "Doctors with medical supplies are standing by at Montserrat."

Montserrat, which means saw-toothed mountains in Spanish, is about 30 miles southwest of Antigua, in the chain of islands which form the eastern border between the Caribbean and Atlantic Oceans.

The plane was last heard from at 7:25 a.m., 10 minutes before it was due to land at Antigua, an airline spokesman in New York said.

In New York, Pan American said a Mr. Price at Plymouth, on Montserrat, reported he had seen a large plane flying low, then heard an explosion.

Pan American said the plane carried 21 passengers and a crew of nine. It was designated Flight 292, bound from Fort de France, Martinique, for Kennedy Airport, New York, with scheduled stops at Antigua, St. Croix and San Juan.

It is believed there were three Canadians on board. Mr. and Mrs. F. Lamontagne and Marie Therese Fournier, booked passage from Montreal on the ill-fated flight.

Two Towns in Path Of California Fires

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Uncontrolled fires, pushed by fresh winds, cracked today through northern California's tinder-dry forests, brush and grasslands.

The last rains fell six months ago.

Two firefighters were burned, one seriously.

Separate blazes threatened two towns, a major interstate highway over the High Sierra was closed and all fire-fighting units in the state were placed on the alert. Blazes were eating at the outskirts of one of the towns and damage there was estimated at $500,000.

More than 25,000 acres of timber and browned grass in widely scattered areas were burning and new fires were being reported hourly.

Flames ate into the outskirts of Vacaville between San Francisco and Sacramento. Middletown in Lake County about 100 miles north of San Francisco also was threatened.

The situation at Vacaville was termed "explosive" by Fire Chief Warren Hughes.

Vacaville police ordered evacuation of homes in outlying sections. Hughes said about 20 houses were either destroyed or damaged. He estimated damage to the buildings at $500,000.

Serious fires also burned in California's Napa Valley, where much of the state's wine is produced. The area was devastated by one of its biggest forest fires last year.

HOUSEWIFE ABDUCTED BY MENTAL ESCAPEE

MRS. MCGINN wide search

ORRINGTON, Me. (AP) — Law enforcement officials and volunteers searched today for Mrs. Lynne P. McGinn, 29, a doctor's wife abducted at gunpoint from her home by an escaped patient from a state mental hospital.

Roadblocks were set up at virtually every major highway or intersection in the state after Mrs. McGinn was forced from her home by Roger R. Haller, 31, of Bangor, Me., police said.

They said the man entered the home Thursday afternoon and held Mrs. McGinn and her two children, Stacey, four, and Pierce, one, prisoner for several hours.

Her husband, Dr. John F. McGinn, was held also, police said, but then he talked Haller into letting him leave again on the pretext of visiting a sick patient.

NEW YORK PAPER BLACKOUT

Post Lone Daily Still Publishing

NEW YORK (UPI) — A strike against the New York Times and a retaliatory shutdown by other publishers today halted production of seven of the city's eight major newspapers.

New York's three morning newspapers failed to publish, and all but one of five afternoon papers were unable to meet today's early edition deadlines.

As the strike of 2,200 Times editorial and clerical workers went into its second day, only the afternoon New York Post was able to publish. About 17,000 employees of other newspapers were out of work.

LAREDO, Tex. (CP) — The U.S. government concluded its case in the narcotics conspiracy trial of Lucien Rivard and three fellow Montrealeers today and the defence immediately moved unsuccessfully for a directed verdict of acquittal.

Federal District Judge Ben Connolly turned down a series of motions on behalf of the defendants and said the case will be given to the jury next week.

Defence evidence was to open Monday.

the Times and the striking American Newspaper Guild (ANG) recessed early today and were scheduled to resume later.

The strike against the Times led to the retaliatory shutdown of the other six newspapers in a publisher's mutual aid pact.

The Post is not a member of the agreement.

Key issue in the dispute is union concern about what will happen to jobs as more and more automated equipment is introduced and if two or more of the city's newspapers consolidate their publishing operations to reduce costs.

The guild was demanding three other key concessions:

- Provisions that new equipment would not remove present members from its jurisdiction unless the guild gave prior approval.
- All newsmen would be required to join the guild.
- Improved pension benefits and severance pay for employees at retirement.

FIVE QUAKES ROCK JAPAN

TOKYO (AP) — Five earthquakes shook Tokyo and areas of northern and central Japan Friday night and early Saturday as typhoon Trix roared ashore on central Honshu Island.

The typhoon, packing 111-mile-an-hour centre winds and loaded with rain, was described as the year's most powerful storm.

Happiness Costs Canada $500 M

OTTAWA (CP) — The RCAF lost its 30th and 31st CF-104 low-level nuclear bombers Thursday when one crashed in central France and another in West Germany a few hours later. No one was hurt.

The government purchased a total of 238 CF-104s—200 operational planes and 38 trainers—and the first were shipped to the eight-squadron RCAF air division in Europe less than three years ago. The 31 crashes have cost 10 lives.

Informed sources said the CF-104's role has become militarily redundant because NATO has in Europe plenty of tactical nuclear weapons and the means to deliver them.

Why, then, does the government intend to spend at least $100,000,000 a year in the next five years to keep the CF-104 squadrons operating?

Informants said the chief reason is that Canada doesn't want to rock the NATO boat by withdrawing or dismantling the squadrons which form the fourth-largest nuclear strike force in the world.

GERMANS UPSET

West Germany, for instance, has recently complained about withdrawal of some battlefield nuclear missiles from the British Army of the Rhine. Germany is alive to any move which can be considered a lessening of NATO interest in its defence.

Another reason for staying with the CF-104 for another five years, sources say, is that an initial outlay of nearly $2,000,000,000 has been made for the planes, auxiliary equipment and training.

This is the same argument the defence department uses for maintaining the 56 Bomarc anti-aircraft missiles at North Bay, Ont., and La Macaza, Que.—they have already been paid for.

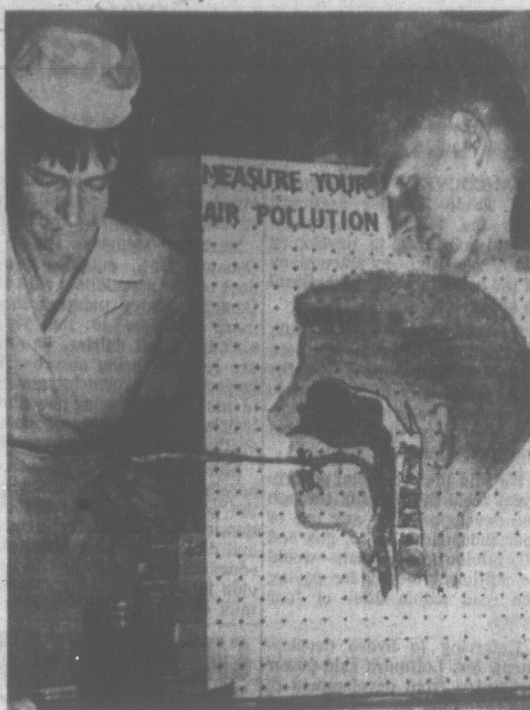

For the government, which accepted American nuclear warheads for the CF-104 two years ago, the nuclear role has changed drastically since July 16, 1963, when Defence Minister Hellyer was asked in the Commons defence committee: "Is there a lack of adequate tactical nuclear weapons and the equipment to deliver them in Europe?"

Mr. Hellyer replied: "In the opinion of the military leaders of the Western Alliance, there is."

Auto Pact Attacked

WASHINGTON (CP)—Spokesmen for American auto-parts interests asked the Senate finance committee Thursday to kill or delay a bill authorizing the Canadian-United States auto production agreement.

The agreement to integrate the North American car-and-parts industry, by abolishing tariffs for manufacturers, threatens small American firms and will encourage Canadian dumping, it was argued.

The agreement also represents a departure from past American treaty-making and would be a bad precedent, some witnesses said.

The Senate committee originally had scheduled only two days of public hearings but completed its third Thursday and hopes to conclude Monday with final questioning of Labor Secretary Willard Wirtz and others.

PRIORITY LIST
Since the bill to implement the agreement is on President Johnson's priorities list for this session, there is little expectation it will be defeated, despite searching scrutiny by a minority of the 17-man committee.

Canada has implemented the agreement by cabinet decree and the plan is in effect on a retroactive basis, although congressional approval still is lacking.

Main purpose, from Canada's view, is to expand domestic production by increasing sales to the U.S.

Bids High But Airport Start Seen

VANCOUVER (CP) — The long-awaited jet-age terminal at Vancouver's International Airport should be under construction within seven months, despite the fact bids were 30 per cent over estimates, spokesmen for the consulting engineers said Thursday night.

The spokesman for the firm of Phillips Barratt said plans can be trimmed to bring them close to original estimates of some $15,000,000.

Low bid for the job, announced in Ottawa Thursday, was made by Foundation Company of Canada and totalled $17,800,000. Other bids went up as high as $19,400,000.

Total cost of the proposed airport development, including the terminal, runways and other facilities, is estimated at $23,000,000.

Mayor William Rathie said the city would send a delegation to Ottawa immediately if there is any suggestion that the federal government might hold off on construction because of the high bids.

Car Safety Research 'Failing'

(With Jim Hume away in the Peace River to check on dam building progress, Ab Kent, who this week attended the unveiling of 1966 Chryslers in Calgary brings a first-hand report on new cars, car safety and allied subjects.)

By AB KENT

CALGARY—Neither the public nor the automotive industry is doing what it should to make car travel safer.

This was the word given earlier this week to Canadian reporters taking part in a Calgary preview of 1966 Chrysler products.

The speaker was Roy Haeussler, and he should know. Besides being the company's automotive safety engineer, he is a respected member of many North American bodies concerned with safety, from the American Society of Automotive Engineers and National Safety Council, to Boy Scouts of America.

Despite the hundreds of thousands of dollars spent on accident research, results leave much to be desired.

CONTRIBUTING

"We're not doing the things we should be doing on either side of the border to find out what are the contributing factors to accidents," Haeussler said.

(He did not explain how Chrysler spent $76 million for 1965 safety features and promotion without more satisfying results.)

Speaking of safety features added to the Canadian Chrysler line, the engineer referred to such long-standing items as brake lights and turn signals that are taken for granted.

STOP LIGHTS

There are not even statistics showing that stop lights and turn signals are doing their job, Haeussler said.

But the public, too, is apathetic toward safety features, rarely taking advantage of items that have been offered as options on most cars for years.

For example, Haeussler said, there are so many boat and camping trailers on the road today a motorist is well advised to order a trailer-towing package incorporating heavy-duty rear suspension, clutch and brakes, more horsepower under the hood, higher-capacity electrical system and extra duty brake and turn lights.

This can be picked up as a factory-installed kit for about $100 in Victoria, making for a more durable car as well as a safer one—and eliminating some of the mushiness of standard suspensions.

The price does not include heavyweight tires.

If there were a hitch in the deal it would be perfect. Chrysler men have no logical explanation why a buyer still must hand over $16 for a dealer-installed trailer hitch.

The safety features included on 1966 Chrysler cars are:

New inner door latches—except on Valiant and Barracuda—lessening likelihood of accidental opening; windshield washers and variable speed wipers; double thickness windshield plastic interlayer; left fender rear-view mirror and a new shoulder harness available at dealers.

Other features of the Chrysler line cover the acrylic paint in a new range of colors; a new power brake booster; disc front brake option for Valiant, Plymouth Fury and Dodge Polara; a 440 hp engine; tilting, telescopic steering column; multiposition front passenger seat, and reduced error of 0.3 per cent on speedometer-odometer units.

The range of models shown and test-driven in Calgary foretold scant departure from the current size, overall design and lines of Chrysler or the other big two auto makers.

VATICAN COUNCIL

Prelate Scores Double Standard

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Britain's cardinal told the Vatican ecumenical council today it would be "false to deny the well-known fact that in certain places protestants have suffered persecution at the hands of Catholics."

John Cardinal Heenan of Westminster pleaded in St. Peter's Basilica for "clear and unanimous" approval of a proposed council declaration to make it Roman Catholic doctrine that all men are free to follow their conscience in religion.

Such a declaration is almost certain to be adopted despite bitter opposition from conservative prelates, mostly from latin countries. A vote may come Monday or Tuesday.

Cardinal Heenan assailed the idea of a double standard by Roman Catholicism when it comes to religious liberty. He said the almost 2,500 council prelates must examine "what truth there may be" in the accusation of many non-Catholics that the Catholic church has two standards. He said the accusation was this:

"Where the (Roman Catholic) church is not strong and lacks

political power—when, in other words, Catholics are in a minority we are, all in favor of religious liberty.

"But where 'most people are Catholics, it is alleged, we talk only of the so-called rights of truth. We are said to suppress the religious liberty of non-Catholics whenever we are strong enough to do so.

"In all honesty, we must examine ourselves to see what truth there may be in this accusation.

"It is, in fact, a travesty of Catholic doctrine which preaches one law when we are rich and strong and quite another when we are poor and weak.

"But it would be idle as well as false to deny the well-known fact that in certain places Protestants have suffered persecution at the hands of Catholics."

NO GOOD STUDENT BARRED, SAYS ENGLISH

By SUE PELLAND
Students shouldn't have their education handed to them on a silver platter, Dr. J. F. K. English, retiring deputy minister of education, said today.

Dr. English was asked to comment on the Canadian Union of Students' National Student Day to be held Oct. 27. It highlights student demands for removal of all financial barriers to higher education.

He said that students must accept some responsibility in paying for their education. Tuition fees are not too high, he said, but they must be watched.

"No 'really good' student," he added, "is barred from an education."

He said that last year B.C. provided scholarships and bursaries to some 3,000 university students.

"These are not top-notch students," he added, "but just those who make better than 70 per cent in their government exams."

He claimed the present loan plan is a "very reasonable" one. Any student, he said, can apply for a loan which he doesn't have to pay back until he graduates.

"I don't think these students have much of an argument," he said.

But he added that although there is not much possibility of students having their demands recognized now, they may in the distant future.

Referring to the University of Newfoundland's precedent

in granting free tuition to first and second-year students, he said he didn't know if it was a good idea.

"I think they could have found a better way," he said, "like reducing the fees."

Dr. English said that he thought some other year rather than first year, would have been better since this is really an experimental one.

Students must be responsible for paying some of their education costs, he said.

Postmen Get 'Overtime'

Overtime payments for Victoria postal workers, some of it going back as far as June, arrived this morning.

Postal union officials said there was no explanation for the delay. Two weeks ago the government deducted time lost during the July strike.

After the strike, some postal employees piled up 50 and 60 hours overtime clearing the backlog of mail.

Saanich Bares Stadium Plans

Tillicum Site Suits Consulting Engineers

By ROGER STONEBANKS

Plans for a sports stadium with initial seating of 5,000 and eventual capacity of 17,000 were disclosed for the first time today by Saanich.

The details for the stadium, near the Tillicum Outdoor Theatre, were contained in an engineering report by Willis and Cunliffe of Victoria.

"It appears that the 40-acre site adjacent to the Tillicum Outdoor Theatre in Saanich is well suited to the development of a sports stadium complex for the Greater Victoria area," said the report.

The first stage of the development would cost an estimated $490,000, just over the amount available in Centennial grants and required contributions by Greater Victoria municipalities.

This would provide a stadium, amphitheatre with 3,000 covered seats, 2,000 open seats and parking for 1,000 cars.

The report said a stadium with an ultimate capacity of 17,000 seats and parking for 3,500 cars can be fitted into the natural geography of the area.

In addition to providing the required sporting facilities, this development would enhance the main approach to the city by providing an attractively-landscaped open space in a critical position.

Saanich has said it would seek ratepayer approval for purchase of the site, estimated to cost between $280,000 and $400,000.

The site would be part of the proposed capital projects budget due to be presented to property owners before the end of the year.

But the city has proposed the stadium be located at its 25-acre Topaz Park and is willing to borrow $600,000 against the McPherson endowment revenues to add to Centennial grants for the stadium itself.

There is tentative majority agreement among area municipalities that a stadium be the Centennial project. The question of the site remains to be resolved.

The engineering report, called a "site feasibility study," breaks down the $490,000 cost into $161,500 for the stadium and $104,900 for parking.

The rest of the money would be spent on a field house, concession and washrooms, sewer and water, street improvements, landscaping and engineering.

Access to the stadium would be from Burnside and Tillicum Roads. The report said substantiation of access and egress will require further investigation.

But the initial demand of 800 to 1,000 vehicles can be handled without major changes to existing road patterns.

It was also anticipated that at times when no movies are being shown at the outdoor theatre, more than 1,000 cars could be parked there.

The site is well served by major roads and is well placed in view of present and future expansion of population to the north and west.

Road improvements to handle an eventual 3,500 cars can be made when and as the demand arises.

The site itself would contain the stadium, with facilities for football and soccer, running tracks and athletic events.

An adjunct would house a baseball-softball diamond with seating for 2,000, a gymnasium or swimming pool and practice fields.

LEAVING Sept. 29 on a year's scholarship at the Touraine Institute in France is French language student Pauline Owens, 21, a first-class honors graduate from the University of Victoria, will seek a master's degree.

Ask The Times

Q. Can you tell me if there are cooking classes available in Victoria and if men can attend?
—A. R. D.

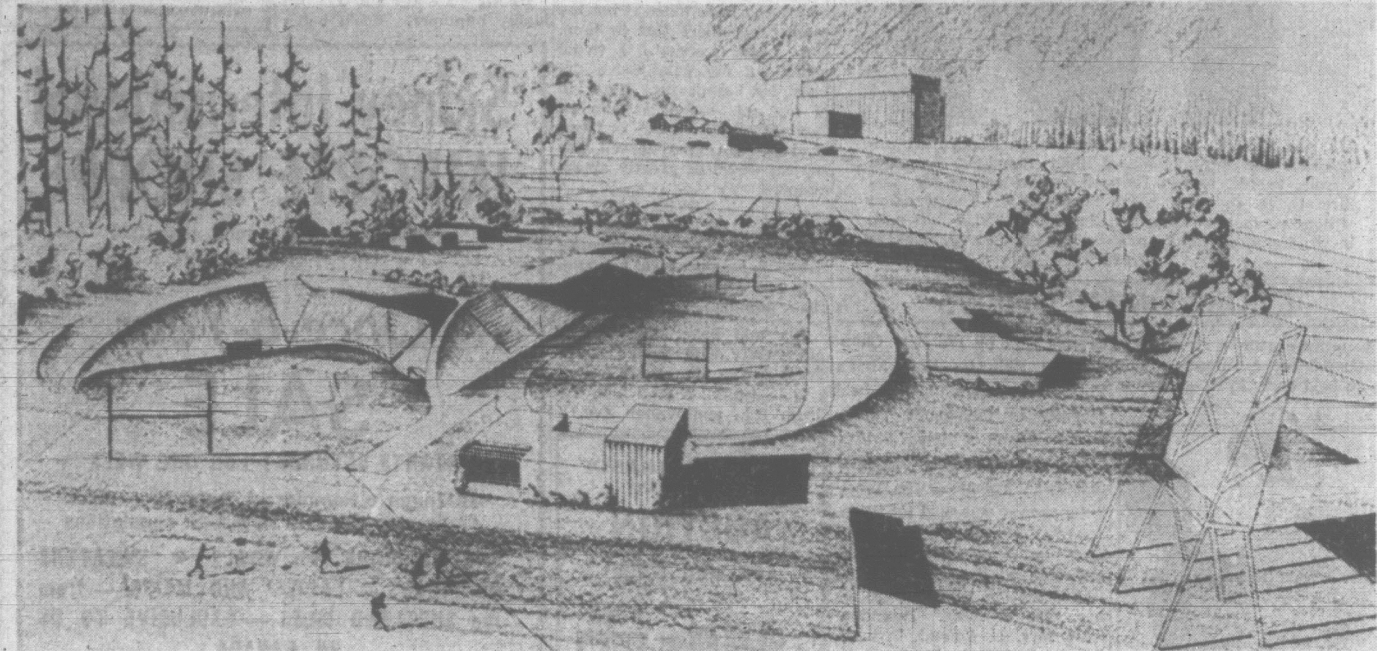

A.: Greater Victoria School Board offers six cooking courses in its adult education division for men and women.

The weight of a cubic inch of gold given Wednesday as 1.02 troy ounces should have read 10.2 troy ounces. A correction was made by B.C. department of mines' chief analyst.

First Fall Concert

Silver Threads—first fall concert will be held at 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, Sept. 22, not Thursday as previously stated in the Times.

The Silver Threads' Service Choir will perform under the direction of choir mistress Mrs. Dorothy Cuthbert at the centre on Centennial Square.

SAANICH STADIUM PLAN—IF EVERYONE AGREES

Sports stadium for Greater Victoria will look like this, if everyone agrees with Saanich's plans. Stadium at centre would seat 5,000 initially and provide for football, soccer and athletic events. Baseball-softball diamond at left would seat 2,000. Cost is estimated at $490,000 with Saanich willing to seek ratepayer approval to purchase the 40-acre site at between $280,000 and $400,000. Centennial funds would almost cover the cost of stadium. At right is the Tillicum Outdoor Theatre and in the centre background the federal forestry research laboratory. Sketch was prepared by Willis and Cunliffe of Victoria.

Topaz Expansion Outlined to City

Details of a land purchase to expand Topaz Park were discussed by Victoria city council traffic and zoning committee today.

The deal was outlined in a letter from Ocean Cement Ltd.

Topaz Park is the city's proposed site for a district sports stadium.

In an agreement discussed previously by vice-president D. E. Smith and Mayor R. B. Wilson, the city would get 3.35 acres of land adjoining Finlayson and Rose Streets for $200,000. The city would agree to street changes involving the company's Government Street operation.

It was also understood the city would have to make some street changes to allow the company to build a new bulk cement plant at its harbor property.

The firm agrees to sell the city sufficient land for $15,000 to enable a new traffic lane to be built on Bay between Rock Bay and Government.

In turn, the city would support the firm's application to have Mill Street, bisecting the Ocean Cement property, closed to traffic, for which the city would get $50,000.

Further, the firm would write a letter of intent covering a future easement over its land for a viaduct. This is proposed in the Capital Region Planning Board long-range transportation study.

The viaduct would connect Bay Street with Queens for one-way traffic.

Traffic changes would have to be made to accommodate increased heavy truck traffic with the new plant.

The committee rejected a traffic plan for one-way streets in James Bay, and asked that a revised plan be brought in.

Ald. Geoffrey Edrington objected to the proposed designation of Niagara Street as a one-way route up to a point, then as a two-way street from there. It is unsound in principle and dangerous, he said.

MUM'S THE WORD AND OFF TO JAIL

An 18-year-old youth who refused to tell who supplied him with liquor was sent to jail today for one month.

Richard Miller, 68, Government, pleaded guilty Thursday to being a minor in possession of liquor. He was asked by Magistrate William Ostler where he obtained the liquor.

Miller refused to say and was remanded in jail overnight to "think it over." He again refused to disclose the source of his supply this morning and the jail sentence was imposed.

In another case, Magistrate Ostler advised a sailor against the "stupidity of drinking with persons you don't know."

He imposed a $75 fine on Terence Chenier and told him he was fortunate that the incident that brought Chenier into court had not turned into a "catastrophe."

Chenier originally was charged

Topics of the Day

The intermediate section of the junior branch of the Victoria Natural History Society will meet on Saturday at 1:30 p.m. at Douglas and Hillside for a field trip to Goat Rock, off Munn Road.

There will be meeting of the leader group on Sunday at 2:30 p.m. at the Francis Park Nature House.

Two juveniles have been arrested by police and charged with responsibility for a wave of break-ins in the city Wednesday.

Police said today the boys are still under investigation and it is not yet determined just how many charges they will face. They will appear later in juvenile court.

A series of student recitals will be held in Victoria monthly under the auspices of the B.C. Registered Music Teachers Association.

The decision was reached at the general meeting of the Victoria branch, Thursday, at St. Margaret's School.

Nomination date for Victoria New Democrats will be set at a meeting Monday night.

The association's members will meet at 8 p.m. at 1316 Government to decide on the nomination date and also to discuss the Nov. 8 election.

Prize Stamps Exhibited Here Are Worth $60,000 a Lick

By NORMAN CRIBBENS

The overall value of the Empress Hotel shot up by nearly a quarter of a million dollars today.

Under its venerable roof is a collection of classic Canadian stamps insured for more than $80,000 sterling.

Expert Hired By Hospital

An expert in business management T. M. Sherwood of Vancouver, will join the staff of Royal Jubilee Hospital Oct. 1.

Administrator George Masters said Thursday, Mr. Sherwood will analyse and streamline administrative procedure which has become increasingly cumbersome as the hospital grows.

He said Mr. Sherwood is a top man in his profession.

Easy Way To Contact The Voters

Esquimalt-Saanich New Democratic Party candidate Len Stephenson will be available every Friday evening from now until election day to meet the public.

He said this morning anyone who wants to discuss the party's program is welcome to come to campaign headquarters at 3280 Douglas.

"I am sure this will be more convenient for interested voters than the holding of small formal meetings in the urban sections of the riding," he said.

Coffee will be served for everyone between 8 and 11 p.m. Friday evenings.

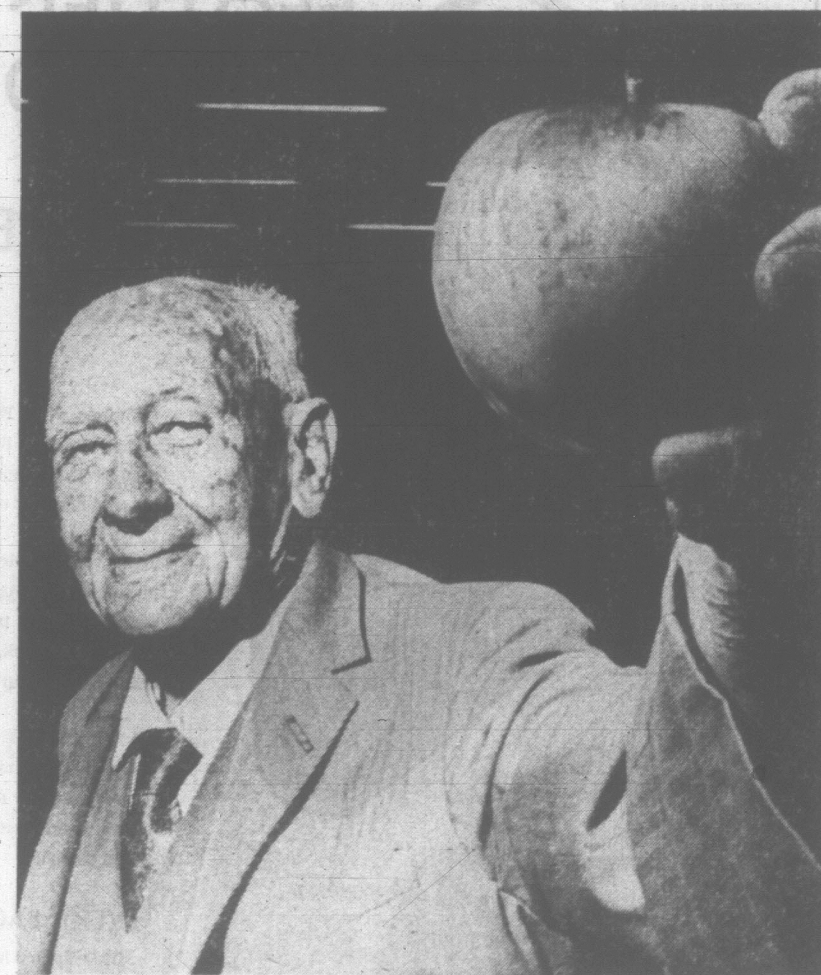

Junior Steer Riders Raise Dust Saturday

The first steer riding competition in a Vancouver Island horse show will burst out of the chutes Saturday at Saanichion Fair Grounds.

The competition for 14-year-olds and under will be part of 27 events presented in the two-day show by the Victoria Western Horsemen's Club.

From 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Saturday and Sunday, 100 riders from 6 to 60 years will compete in English and Western riding. Perpetual and permanent trophies will be presented. Entries for the open show will be accepted up to post time.

It is the last major horse show of the year on the Island. Children under 12 will be admitted free.

AS BIG AS YOUR HEAD, this apple—or at least the camera makes it appear that way. F. H. Staverman, 91, oldest exhibitor at Victoria Horticultural Society show holds king-sized fruit as show opens at Victoria Curling Rink. It runs until 10 p.m. Saturday and claims largest-ever displays of fall blooms. Japanese arrangements are a major attraction.

Sunday Frug Same as Symphony?

By TERRY IZZARD

Church leaders split today on the question of Sunday dancing.

The "Never on Sunday" rule has been broken by the Scope Club which intends opening its doors to youngsters starting Sunday.

Former western secretary for the Lord's Day Alliance Society, Rev. Harry Allen, of James Bay United Church, isn't against the frug—or the mashed potato.

But he's against Sunday commerce.

He said: "Why should these people be allowed to get away with it?"

"Ordinary public dancing isn't allowed on Sundays. It's against the law."

"Surely Sunday is for a higher purpose than this."

Promoters of the Scope don't believe they're breaking the law.

Instead of charging an entrance fee, a collection plate will be passed round.

Even so, United church minister, Rev. Laura Butler, said: "I'd like to investigate further."

She asked: "Is this a good thing for our teenagers? I don't think it's the best thing on Sunday."

She admitted: "It's better than what they could be doing."

"But it indicates to me that the home is not providing enough for its young people, when they have to do this on a Sunday."

"Togetherness of the home on Sundays seems to be falling apart."

"These youngsters would be far better off in church-related groups on Sunday."

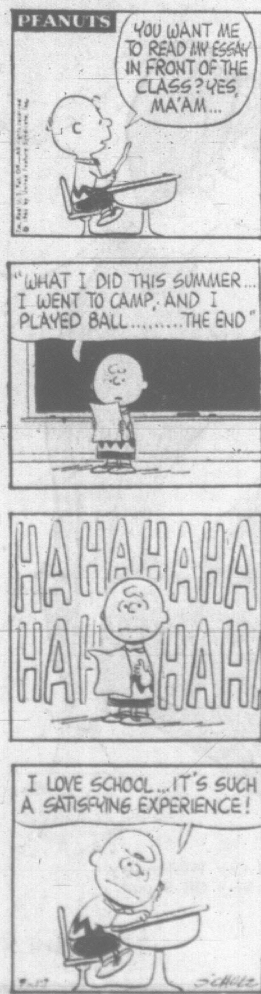

On the other hand, Presbyterian minister, Rev. Dr. J. Lewis McLean isn't so sure.

He said: "Anything that destroys the character of Sunday is to be deplored."

"But is this so bad? After all, theatres sometimes operate on the same system Sunday."

"And Victoria Symphony gives Sunday shows."

"I wouldn't think dancing is any worse than listening to the symphony."

INDIANA 'SETTLERS'

B.C. Bush Country Proving No Utopia

VANCOUVER (CP) — The three-family Indiana group which settled in a closed-up coastal logging camp to escape the nuclear holocaust they fear may engulf the United States, is finding it no Utopia. The breadwinners of the three families, which include nine children, are looking for work—any kind of work. RCMP officers who flew into the site on Wakeman Sound, 275 miles north of Vancouver, said however that the group appears happy but the men — David Stafford, John Myers and Lee Van Dusen — wanted work in the area.

LOTS OF FOOD

"They seem to have lots of food," an RCMP spokesman said. He said the families do their shopping by boat at either Alert Bay or Port Hardy, on the north end of Vancouver Island, and also have provisions flown to their encampment by charter aircraft.

The do-it-yourself colony landed at Wakeman Sound, Sept. 1, carrying a small arsenal of guns and ammunition, two motorcycles and some food. They said they had plans to build a new life there for themselves and their children to escape the "Mickey Mouse" society of the U.S., which they fear may be wiped out in a nuclear war.

All are from the Indianapolis area and they rented the logging camp accommodation from MacMillan, Bloedel & Powell River Ltd./Company officials have said they will have to move when a contractor comes in to re-open the camp.

But the RCMP spokesman said from preparations the group is making for winter and its blizzards and below-zero temperatures, "it looks as if they plan to stay there for some time."

Teacher Removed From Post

WELLAND, Ont. (CP) — Stephen Ryan, 27, a Roman Catholic separate school teacher, says he has been fired by the principal of Notre Dame College School here for marrying a divorcee.

Mr. Ryan said he was called to the office of the principal, Rev. Kenneth Burns, Sept. 6, and told his presence in front of a classroom would "illustrate a way of life that Roman Catholic education does not condone."

On Aug. 5, Mr. Ryan married a 21-year-old nurse's assistant after a year-long engagement.

Paul Forestell, the school's lawyer, said Mr. Ryan had not been fired or suspended. "He is still on salary," he said, "but he is not performing his duties at the moment. The issue is being settled by the school's lawyer and Mr. Ryan's lawyer."

Mr. Forestell said written notice would have to be given Mr. Ryan before he could be fired.

Mr. Ryan said he was given no written reason for his dismissal and was told by Father Burns that he was excommunicated.

'Bayonet at My Back,' Says Wessin

MIAMI (UPI) — Dominican strongman Gen. Elias Wessin y Wessin accused U.S. officials this week of forcing him to leave his homeland "with a bayonet at my back" to take a consular post in Miami.

In a six-page letter to provincial Dominican President Hector Garcia Godoy, Wessin refused the post, out of "a sense of honor," informed Garcia today he would not serve his government in any other position and said his expulsion had delivered the "coup d'grace" to democracy in Latin America.

After releasing the letter at the home of a friend, Antonio Llano Montes Wessin went back into seclusion.

$4.3 Million Contract Let For UBC Project

VANCOUVER (CP) — A $4.3-million contract for construction of a forestry-agriculture complex at the University of B.C. has been awarded to Northern Construction Co. and J.W. Stewart Ltd. of Vancouver.

The bid was the lowest of four received. It will be the fourth project undertaken at UBC in the Three Universities Fund which will contribute up to 40 per cent of the cost.

The new building provides for doubling the number of graduate students and a 50 per cent increase in undergraduate students in forestry and agriculture.

The facilities will remain independent, but students in both will be taught together when possible.

The forestry-agriculture complex will permit pooling of equipment now widely scattered and the elimination of some duplication.

Times racing editor Hal Malone has chosen a new format this year for his handicap on the Sandown Park races. His summary will consist of a narrative analysis of how he thinks the race will be run, the leading contenders, and finally, his selection of a winner.

"I think the racing fans will find this more interesting than the method of commenting on each entry," Malone says.

By HAL MALONE

FIRST RACE: Form is hard to come by in this non-winners affair. Bold Mister, Miss Sierra and Solid Beat may lead them the first part but none is blessed with extreme courage. Sir Lea and Hawthorne have good late rallies but are not consistent. Lady Flag is showing signs of improvement. Amazing Message would have eaten them on last year's form but he has had a dismal season. Old Boag, though not what he once was, figures to be in the lead in the early stages and might be difficult to handle. OLD BOAG (Miss Sierra).

SECOND RACE: On recent efforts, this boils down to two-horse duel between Holly Road and Tzatzkalla. Rondocal, Kimboy and Aleja have fair early lick but they must overcome outside post positions and getting the lead may take too much out of them. From the inside Trejos may try to make it wire-to-wire or else snug in behind the pace until he's ready. Tzatzkalla has been showing lots of late run and if Combs finds clear sailing he could make it interesting. HOLLY ROAD.

THIRD RACE: This heat may have drawn a compact field, but it's stacked with "ifs." If This Is True, he can't be allowed to stride along unchallenged, it's all over. Tenselon can fly at the start but she's been giving it up early. Lord Renraw is getting along but he likes the track. War Top picked a tough spot to debut. Charlie Mac is hot now and the pace should suit him, particularly if something can go with This Is True the first part. THIS IS TRUE.

FOURTH RACE: Unless something else wakes up, Canadian Downs and Brown Wheat should lead them a merry chase. If either is scratched the other would be tough to overcome but they could compromise each other's chances. Pepperoni has more class than these but he's not a model of consistency. If they draw in Skerry Blue and Hamish, both of whom have met better, could be troublesome. Top Bracket drops 10 pounds off his last good race and if Milne can bring him through the traffic, he'll be a menace. TOP BRACKET (Brown Wheat).

FIFTH RACE: There should be a mad dash to the first turn here. Jeanette, OK Ballard, Pascana and Christopher B all like to gung-ho. Riada is improving by leaps and bounds, but is still in tough. Golden Drake is as consistent as any. He may have lost his last because Trejos moved him early. The stable is taking the weight allowance today and going with an apprentice. The fast early fractions should help. GOLDEN DRAKE.

SIXTH RACE: Trying to unscramble this field is more difficult than mastering Japanese arithmetic. There's speed galore. Indian Spirit, Monday's Image and Willow Pattern will be at one another's throats early, followed by Ky Look, Masterful and Sefton Park. Nickonach has the best post but he seems miles from his best. Indian Spirit is usually close but the weight hurts. If the pacemakers knock each other out, something in the second echelon could take it. In a grab-bag. SEFTON PARK.

SEVENTH RACE: You won't want more competitive fields than this one. Chances are that trainer Bunny Johnson will send

PROPOSED BY THANT

BINDING ORDER for a cease-fire between India and Pakistan was proposed before United Nations Security Council, meeting in New York today, by

If Needed

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—United Nations Secretary-General U Thant proposed today that the UN Security Council issue a binding order for an Indian-Pakistani ceasefire and that the order be backed by the threat of penalties if the two governments fail to comply.

He also suggested that the council request the heads of the Indian and Pakistani governments to hold peace talks in a third country, with the assistance of a UN committee.

Only once in the 20-year history of the UN has the council authorized the possible use of economic and military sanctions. This was in the war between Israel and the Arab countries in 1948.

Thant proposed the council declare that failure to comply with a new ceasefire order would demonstrate the existence of a breach of peace within the meaning of Article 39 of the UN charter. This article says that if a breach of peace exists the council shall decide what measures should be taken either in the field of economic boycotts or by actual use of air, sea and land forces to obtain compliance.

Thant delivered his personal report to the 11-country council 24 hours after his return from an unsuccessful effort to halt the fighting. He made no mention of the new complication resulting from China's ultimatum, demanding withdrawal of Indian forces from the Chinese border within three days.

Indian Education Minister Mahomedali Currim Chagla, speaking after Thant, referred briefly to the Chinese threat.

"We are now threatened by invasion from China," he declared, adding that Pakistan is using U.S.-supplied munitions against India instead of for defence against the Chinese.

He charged that Pakistan "wants China to stab us in the back."

Thant acknowledged that he had been unable to get agreement of India's Lal Bahadur Shastri and Pakistani President Mohammed Ayub Khan for a

No Deal:
Pakistan

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP)—President Mohammed Ayub Khan today threw cold water on a suggestion by UN Secretary-General U Thant that Ayub meet with Indian Prime Minister Shastri in an effort to resolve the war between their countries.

Ayub's reply, released in Rawalpindi, again stated Pakistan's demand that guarantees must be made of a "final settlement of the Kashmir dispute" before there can be a ceasefire.

ceasefire and declared that the situation was so grave it threatens world peace.

It would be inconceivable, he said, for the council to wash its hands of the issue despite his failure.

Five-Point Approach Proposed

He then outlined a five-point approach which the council might now take:

- Issue a binding order for a cessation of hostilities, declaring that if either party fails to comply the penalty provisions of the charter would come into effect. This would bring into play the rarely used chapter seven which applies only when the council formally recognizes the existence of a breach of peace.
- Offer assistance of the United Nations in ensuring observance of a ceasefire.

- Call for a prompt withdrawal of troops to positions held before the current outbreak of fighting Aug. 5.

- Request the heads of the two governments to meet in a country friendly and acceptable to both, and make available a small committee to assist in the talks.

- Make possible use of the

NEW YORK PAPER BLACKOUT

Post Lone Daily
Still Publishing

NEW YORK (UPI)—A strike against the New York Times and a retaliatory shutdown by other publishers today halted production of seven of the city's eight major newspapers.

New York's three morning newspapers failed to publish, and all but one of five afternoon papers were unable to meet today's early edition deadlines.

As the strike of 2,200 Times editorial and clerical workers went into its second day, only the afternoon New York Post was able to publish. About 17,000 employees of other newspapers were out of work.

Contract negotiations between the Times and the striking American Newspaper Guild (ANG) recessed early today and were scheduled to resume later. The strike against the Times is the retaliatory shutdown of the other six newspapers in a publisher's mutual aid pact. The Post is not a member of the agreement.

Key issue in the dispute is union concern about what will happen to jobs as more and more automated equipment is introduced and if two or more of the city's newspapers consolidate their publishing operations to reduce costs.

The guild was demanding three other key concessions:

- Provisions that new equipment would not remove present members from its jurisdiction unless the guild gave prior approval.
- All newsmen would be required to join the guild.
- Improved pension benefits and severance pay for employees at retirement.

Officials said, however, there is no thought of giving up the CF-104 or its role in Europe until 1970 at the earliest though the maintenance costs in that period will amount to more than $500,000,000.

The government purchased a total of 238 CF-104s—200 operational planes and 38 trainers—and the first were shipped to the eight-squadron RCAF air division in Europe less than three years ago. The 31 crashes have cost 10 lives.

Informed sources said the CF-104's role has become militarily redundant because NATO has in Europe plenty of tactical nuclear weapons and the means to deliver them.

Happiness Costs Canada $500 M

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCAF lost its 30th and 31st CF-104 low-level nuclear bombers Thursday when one crashed in central France and another in West Germany a few hours later. No one was hurt.

Officials said, however, there is no thought of giving up the CF-104 or its role in Europe until 1970 at the earliest though the maintenance costs in that period will amount to more than $500,000,000.

The government purchased a total of 238 CF-104s—200 operational planes and 38 trainers—and the first were shipped to the eight-squadron RCAF air division in Europe less than three years ago. The 31 crashes have cost 10 lives.

Informed sources said the CF-104's role has become militarily redundant because NATO has in Europe plenty of tactical nuclear weapons and the means to deliver them.

Why, then, does the government intend to spend at least $100,000,000 a year in the next five years to keep the CF-104 squadrons operating?

Informants said the chief reason is that Canada doesn't want to rock the NATO boat by withdrawing or dismantling the squadrons which form the fourth-largest nuclear strike force in the world.

GERMANS UPSET

West Germany, for instance, has recently complained about withdrawal of some battlefield nuclear missiles from the British Army of the Rhine. Germany is alive to any move which can be considered a lessening of NATO interest in its defence.

Another reason for staying with the CF-104 for another five years, sources say, is that an initial outlay of nearly $2,000,000,000 has been made for the planes, auxiliary equipment and training. This is the same argument the defence department uses for maintaining the 56 Bomarc anti-aircraft missiles at North Bay, Ont., and La Macaza, Que., they have already been paid for.

For the government, which accepted American nuclear warheads for the CF-104 two years ago, the nuclear role has changed drastically since July 16, 1963, when Defence Minister Heleyer was asked in the Commons defence committee: "Is there a lack of adequate tactical nuclear weapons and the equipment to deliver them in Europe?"

Mr. Heleyer replied: "In the opinion of the military leaders of the Western Alliance, there is."

CARVING CONTEST

Linda Corbett, 11, is a chip-off the old block.

The youngster, of 215 Russell, carried a name for herself this week by taking first prize in the girls' section of a local wood-working contest.

In all, 73 children chiselled and hacked their way into the contest, sponsored by Doman's Building Supply.

Linda's contribution was a carved puppet.

Winner of the 10 to 13 boys' group was Larry Maas, 10, of 3340 Richmond with a model house and its contents.

First prize winner in the 14 to 16 years boys' group was 15-year-old Ken Brown of 673 Craigflower, who submitted a planter shaped like a spinning wheel.

Ian Mason, 15, of 1204 Dallas, also placed first in this group with a night table he made at school.

Province Progressing Toward Goal

The B.C. Association of Social Workers sought Thursday to get a co-ordinator of government and community resources to prevent family breakups.

A. O. Morrison of Vancouver, president of the 500-member association, said after a meeting with Welfare Minister Wesley Black the provincial government is progressing towards goals set out by the association.

The association wants a system of co-ordinating different government departments and private agencies so a single social worker can employ all these resources.

"As we understand it from the minister, today this is not being done as effectively as the government intends to do it," he said.

Host of Friends Say Goodbye To the Shoeshine Philosopher

A shoeshine man who made friends with his customers, and cheered them with his kindly philosophy of life has passed from the Victoria scene.

Lewis Moore Posey died in a private nursing home Saturday at the age of 85 and left behind him a legion of friends, including business and professional men whose shoes he had shined for 10, 20 and even 30 years.

Many of them attended his funeral at Sands Memorial Chapel Thursday when Rev. Dr. S. J. Parsons of Centennial United Church conducted the last rites.

A native of Florence, Alabama, Mr. Posey came to Victoria around 1912 and, during his 40 years as shoeshine man at the old Driard Barber Shop, he became an institution.

His regular customers included premier Tolmie of British Columbia, department store owner, David Spencer; publisher Jack Matson, editor Bruce Hutchison, insurance man Fred McGregor, and Canon George Biddle.

Lawyers, physicians and surgeons visited Mr. Posey regularly and enjoyed his lively conversation while having their shoes shone.

"He was a natural philosopher," said Canon Biddle, who retired recently as rector of St. John's. "He was well informed and he had an opinion on almost any subject you could mention.

"His comments were often highly amusing and I always enjoyed calling on him. He had a wide knowledge of American history, he was proud of his country and he loved speculating about presidential elections and politics in general."

Mr. Posey was always abreast of modern developments, friends said, but had no fancy for flying.

Once he was offered a short trip in an airplane.

"It will only be for a few minutes," he was told.

"Yes," answered Mr. Posey, "but you can fall a long way in a few minutes!"

His employer for 40 years was Stuart McTaggart, who ran the Driard Barber Shop until he retired about five years ago.

"Posey was a great personality in our business," Mr. McTaggart said. "He was always neat and clean and he had a natural gift for making friends."

"When Premier Tolmie came in for a shave, a haircut or a shoeshine, they would chat away like old college chums. Posey had a fantastic memory for people and events and he would argue good-naturally with the premier about politicians and race horses.

"He never spoke an ill word of anyone. He was not a churchman, but he took a keen interest in religious matters and could discuss them intelligently with anyone. His wide knowledge always amazed me."

"I visited him in hospital a few years ago," Canon Biddle said, "and found he was a tremendous favorite with all the nurses and staff. He was always cheerful and he kept them constantly amused."

Mr. Posey is survived by a sister, Mrs. Irene Keller, at Springfield, Ohio.

Crusaders Set Music Night

Tonight is Music Night in the Leighton Ford Victoria crusade at the Memorial Arena starting at 7:30 p.m.

There will be sacred solos by TV tenor Homer James. Irving Chambers will lead a local choir of 1,000 voices in song and anthems.

The musical program will be supported by John Innes at the piano and Walter Eekman of Central Baptist Church at the organ.

NEW HANDICAP STYLE ADOPTED BY MALONE

Times racing editor Hal Malone has chosen a new format this year for his handicap on the Sandown Park races. His summary will consist of a narrative analysis of how he thinks the race will be run, the leading contenders, and finally, his selection of a winner.

"I think the racing fans will find this more interesting than the method of commenting on each entry," Malone says.

By HAL MALONE

FIRST RACE: Form is hard to come by in this non-winners affair. Bold Mister, Miss Sierra and Solid Beat may lead them the first part but none is blessed with extreme courage. Sir Lea and Hawthorne have good late rallies but are not consistent. Lady Flag is showing signs of improvement. Amazing Message would have eaten them on last year's form but he has had a dismal season. Old Boag, though not what he once was, figures to be in behind the early leaders and might be difficult to handle. OLD BOAG (Miss Sierra).

SECOND RACE: On recent efforts, this boils down to two-horse duel between Holly Road and Tzatzkalla. Rondocal, Kimboy and Aleja have fair early lick but they must overcome outside post positions and getting the lead may take too much out of them. From the inside Trejos may try to make it wire-to-wire or else snug in behind the pace until he's ready. Tzatzkalla has been showing lots of late run and if Combs finds clear sailing he could make it interesting. HOLLY ROAD.

THIRD RACE: This heat may have drawn a compact field, but it's stacked with "ifs." If This Is True, he class is allowed to stride along unchallenged, it's all over. Tenselon can fly at it but she's been giving it up early. Lord Renraw is getting along but he likes the track. War Top picked a tough spot to debut. Charlie Mac is hot now and the pace should suit him, particularly if something can go with This Is True the first part. THIS IS TRUE.

FOURTH RACE: Unless something else wakes up, Canadian Downs and Brown Wheat should lead them a merry chase. If either is scratched the other would be tough to overcome but they could compromise each other's chances. Pepperoni has more class than these but he's not a model of consistency. If they draw in, Skerry Blue and Hamish, both of whom have met better, could be troublesome. Top Bracket drops 10 pounds off his last good race and if Milne can bring him through the traffic, he'll be a menace. TOP BRACKET, (Brown Wheat).

FIFTH RACE: There should be a mad dash to the first turn here. Jeanelliz, OK Ballard, Pascana and Christopher B all like to gung-ho. Riada is improving by leaps and bounds, but is still in tough. Golden Drake is as consistent as any. He may have lost his last but because Trejos moved him early. The stable is taking the weight allowance today and going with an apprentice. The fast early fractions should help. GOLDEN DRAKE.

SIXTH RACE: Trying to unscramble this field is more difficult than mastering Japanese arithmetic. There's speed galore. Indian Spirit, Monday's Image and Willow Pattern will be at one another's throats early, followed by Ky Look, Masterful and Sefton Park. Nickonachs has the best post but he seems miles from his best. Indian Spirit is usually close but the weight hurts. If the pacemakers knock each other out, something in the second echelon could take it. In a grab-bag. SEFTON PARK.

SEVENTH RACE: You won't want more competitive fields than this one. Chances are that trainer Bunny Johnson will send

UN CEASEFIRE MOVE PROPOSED BY THANT

Police Force If Needed

UNITED NATIONS (AP)—United Nations Secretary-General U Thant proposed today that the UN Security Council issue a binding order for an Indian-Pakistani ceasefire and that the order be backed by the threat of penalties if the two governments fail to comply.

He also suggested that the council request the heads of the Indian and Pakistani governments to hold peace talks in a third country, with the assistance of a UN committee.

Only once in the 20-year history of the UN has the council authorized the possible use of economic and military sanctions. This was in the war between Israel and the Arab countries in 1948.

Thant proposed the council declare that failure to comply with a new ceasefire order would demonstrate the existence of a breach of peace within the meaning of Article 39 of the UN charter. This article says that if a breach of peace exists the council shall decide what measures should be taken either in the field of economic boycotts or by actual use of air, sea and land forces to obtain compliance.

Thant delivered his personal report to the 11-country council 24 hours after his return from an unsuccessful effort to halt the fighting. He made no mention of the new complication resulting from China's ultimatum, demanding withdrawal of Indian forces from the Chinese border within three days.

Indian Education Minister Mahomedali Currim Chagla, speaking after Thant, referred briefly to the Chinese threat.

"We are now threatened by invasion from China," he declared, adding that Pakistan is using U.S.-supplied munitions against India instead of for defence against the Chinese.

He charged that Pakistan "wants China to stab us in the back."

No Deal: Pakistan

RAWALPINDI, Pakistan (AP)—President Mohammed Ayub Khan today threw cold water on a suggestion by UN Secretary General U Thant that Ayub meet with Indian Prime Minister Shastri in an effort to resolve the war between their countries.

Ayub's reply, released in Rawalpindi, again stated Pakistan's demand that guarantees must be made of a "final settlement of the Kashmir dispute" before there can be a ceasefire.

ceasefire and declared that the situation was so grave it threatens world peace.

It would be inconceivable, he said, for the council to wash its hands of the issue despite his failure.

Five-Point Approach Proposed

United Nations in ensuring observance of a ceasefire.

● Call for a prompt withdrawal of troops to positions held before the current outbreak of fighting Aug. 5.

● Request the heads of the two governments to meet in a country friendly and acceptable to both, and make available a small committee to assist in the talks.

● Make possible use of the

Post Lone Daily Still Publishing

NEW YORK (UPI)—A strike against the New York Times and a retaliatory shutdown by other publishers today halted production of seven of the city's eight major newspapers.

New York's three morning newspapers failed to publish, and all but one of five afternoon papers were unable to meet today's early edition deadlines.

As the strike of 2,200 Times editorial and clerical workers went into its second day, only the afternoon New York Post was able to publish. About 17,000 employees of other newspapers were out of work.

Contract negotiations between the Times and the striking American Newspaper Guild (ANG) recessed early today and were scheduled to resume later. The strike against the Times le to the retaliatory shutdown of the other six newspapers in a publisher's mutual aid pact. The Post is not a member of the agreement.

Key issue in the dispute is union concern about what will happen to jobs as more and more automated equipment is introduced and if two or more of the city's newspapers consolidate their publishing operations to reduce costs.

The guild was demanding three other key concessions: ● Provisions that new equipment would not remove present members from its jurisdiction unless the guild gave prior approval.

● All newsmen would be required to join the guild.

● Improved pension benefits and severance pay for employees at retirement.

Happiness Costs Canada $500 M

OTTAWA (CP)—The RCAF lost its 30th and 31st CF-104 low-level nuclear bombers Thursday when one crashed in central France and another in West Germany a few hours later. No one was hurt.

Officials said, however, there is no thought of giving up the CF-104 or its role in Europe until 1970 at the earliest though the maintenance costs in that period will amount to more than $500,000,000.

The government purchased a total of 238 CF-104s—200 operational planes and 38 trainers—and the first were shipped to the eight-squadron RCAF air division in Europe less than three years ago. The 31 crashes have cost 10 lives.

Informed sources said the CF-104's role has become militarily redundant because NATO has in Europe plenty of tactical nuclear weapons and the means to deliver them.

Why, then, does the government intend to spend at least $100,000,000 a year in the next five years to keep the CF-104 squadrons operating?

GERMANS UPSET

West Germany, for instance, has recently complained about withdrawal of some battlefield nuclear missiles from the British Army of the Rhine. Germany is alive to any move which can be considered a lessening of NATO interest in its defence.

Another reason for staying with the CF-104 for another five years, sources say, is that an initial outlay of nearly $2,000,000,000 has been made for the planes, auxiliary equipment and training.

This is the same argument the defence department uses for maintaining the 56 Bomarc anti-aircraft missiles at North Bay, Ont., and La Macaza, Que.—they have already been paid for.

For the government, which accepted American nuclear warheads for the CF-104 two years ago, the nuclear role has changed drastically since July 16, 1963, when Defence Minister Hellyer was asked in the Commons defence committee: "Is there a lack of adequate tactical nuclear weapons and the equipment to deliver them in Europe?"

Mr. Hellyer replied: "In the opinion of the military leaders of the Western Alliance, there is."
